PREFACE.

THE Council of the Surtees Society, in publishing a third volume of Wills and Inventories, venture to hope that the present addition to the most popular of their publications will meet with the same welcome which was so generally accorded to its predecessors. A new and untrodden district, rich in natural and artificial beauty, has been here traversed. A new mine has been opened, and if out of this hitherto unexplored treasure-house any gem has been drawn forth, which by its freshness or its brilliancy has lit up some dark spot in local or general history, or has darted its vivifying rays along the lifeless and faded lineaments of some ancient rite or custom, the object of the Society has been well attained.

The subject of testamentary records presents a field of research from which the genealogist and the ecclesiastical antiquary may gather a rich and abundant harvest. The historian may find beneath its virgin soil the materials for the erection of a noble edifice. These documents are not only important as illustrative of the simple manners of an early age, but they are still more interesting for the light which they throw upon the life and annals of families and individuals which are so intimately connected with national history and national prosperity. A slight sketch, therefore, of the Richmondshire gentry may, perhaps, not be deemed an inappropriate introduction to the present volume; but the branches into which such a subject diverges are so various and extensive, that it can only be treated here in a narrow and superficial manner.

After the disastrous defeat and death of the last of our Saxon monarchs, the Conqueror met with a vigorous and organized opposition to his arbitrary usurpation in the "loyal North." Edwin Earl of Mercia and Lord of the honor* of Richmond, rallied around him the flower of the Saxon nobility, and, having garrisoned the city of York, made a long and desperate resistance to the Norman arms. After a protracted siege the gallant Saxons were defeated through the treachery of their Danish allies, and the whole of the North of England felt the heavy hand of the Conqueror's indignation. Among the Norman warriors, who by their intrepidity had mainly contributed to their master's success, was Alan, surnamed Rufus, a younger son of Eudo Duke of Bretagne. He had especially distinguished himself at the siege of York, and the broad lands of the vanquished Edwin were the reward of his loyalty and valour. Alan, upon taking possession of his newly won principality, soon discovered that the spirit of his subjects was by no means quelled by the severities which they had so recently experienced; suffering and torture had not severed the ties of affection which united them to their ancient masters, and they favourably contrasted the mild and gentle sway of the Saxon Thane with the iron rule of the Norman Baron. Alarmed at these unmistakeable manifestations of popular feeling, Alan built for his own security the stately castle of Richmond, and placed the whole of his little kingdom under the stern rules of feudal domination. With this object in view he distributed among his more favoured dependents large tracts of his extensive possessions, and they too with no sparing hand proceeded to emulate the liberality of their benefactor. These powerful subjects, among whom we may enumerate the great baronial names of Marmion, Fitzrandall, Fitzalan, and Fitzhugh, from the continued absence of their feudal superiors, the Dukes of Bretagne, in their foreign courts, would necessarily acquire a more unlimited and unrestricted authority. To them we owe the foundation of those majestic castles by which Richmondshire was formerly held in awe, and which even in decay bear witness to the grandeur of their ancient lords. To their piety we are indebted for the erection of the finest of the parochial churches and the most splendid of the monastic establishments. As this powerful race of nobles died out, their place was taken by others of almost equal influence and magnificence, who did not fail to keep alive those salutary principles of feudal relationship which their predecessors had so wisely and so successfully originated. These were the illustrious families of Scrope, Neville, Percy, and Conyers, and with these four noble houses the greater part of the Richmondshire gentry were in some way or other connected. As the feudal system began to grow weaker and weaker under the mass of corruptions with which it was laden, the feeling of dependence upon some great house, though it necessarily became enfeebled, did not totally expire. The inferior families, which either from their own worth or from the various circumstances of the times had risen to a position which was in many cases nearly equal to that which their former masters had previously occupied, did not on that account renounce all connection with their tottering superiors. The feeling of clanship was still too strong to permit such a social revolution. The younger brother or the kinsman who had been left, as was too frequently the case, without home or portion, could not yet afford to renounce his obligations to the patron upon whose kindness his very means of subsistence were entirely dependent. The inferior families were still too glad to look for protection and support to the head of their house, and they were proud to address him as their cousin, or even to call him their master. On the other hand the great houses at length began to see the folly of the exclusive system which they had been so fondly cherishing, and were eager enough to bind more closely to their interests, by the ties of marriage and affection, those whom they had hitherto regarded merely as dependents.

* I use this word here by way of distinction. The successor of Edwin was the originator of the appellation.

After these brief remarks I shall now attempt to investigate the social condition and the domestic economy of the Richmondshire gentleman, during the period embraced by the present volume.

The first point in the subject which attracts our observation is the extreme quietude and monotony of his life. Familiarized as the gentry were with all those scenes around them, in which natural beauty and peaceful repose were so happily blended, they were unwilling to desert the place of their earliest associations for a strange and more troubled atmosphere. Here they had been born, and here they wished to die. Some few indeed had in their early life been engaged in border warfare, but their campaigns were in general but of short continuance. Some younger sons had sought their fortunes and hazarded their lives in a foreign service, but, if the chances of war had allowed them to remain unscathed, they sought again their ancient homes, bringing back with them for the admiration of the wondering villagers the trophies of their valour, and many a stirring tale of feats of knightly prowess and heroic valour. Here they could fight their battles over when they chose, and pass the remainder of their days in the lap of peace. The assaults of the border riever and the foray of the wandering moss-trooper were unknown here, and they could retire to rest without the dismal expectation of being aroused from sleep to follow in the tract of their stolen flocks by the light of their own reeking homesteads. To this happy exemption the Richmondshire gentry were indebted for their rapid advance in architectural taste and agricultural improvement. Their churches were erected on a larger and a grander scale than those of their less fortunate neighbours, while at the same time their own mansions were built with a view rather to domestic convenience than to personal defence. For a similar reason they were not under the necessity of turning three-fourths of their land to grass, but they might till, sow, and reap as the seasons bade them, for there was no spoiler near. The moss gave up her waters, and the forest bowed his head, before the arts of peace.

When, however, we allow that the Richmondshire gentry had great facilities for the display of architectural taste, we must, at the same time, admit that in their domestic edifices they did not avail themselves of the advantages which they possessed. The family mansions with which the district abounds, and which, with a few exceptions, were erected during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, have but little decoration or beauty to recommend them to our notice. Their builders wished for a useful and not for an ornamental dwelling. They are generally of one or two stories in height, and contain only a few small and low rooms, almost all of which, if we may judge from the inventories of their masters, appear to have contained beds. In some of the larger houses, which were reared with a less sparing hand, we frequently find that every room had its own peculiar name, and occasionally we meet with an apartment bearing the title the King or the Queen's chamber, which would lead us to suppose that it is a proud memorial of some royal visit.* The two principal rooms were the hall and the best bed-chamber, or the great chamber as it is frequently called. The walls of the hall were generally draped with green, red, or yellow cloth, and the curtains for the windows were of the same material. If there were no hangings, a brace of spears or halberts, an old sword or two, or a corslet, concealed the nakedness of the walls. Down the middle of the apartment was placed a long table, which is known to have been sometimes formed out of a single tree; it was generally laid upon trestles, and on either side of it was a long plain form. In a corner or a recess stood a round table, with its attendant carpet or cover of plain or raised work. Against the walls were ranged six or eight low stools called buffet stools, with their cushions. In addition to these there were two large high-backed chairs for the head and foot of the dining-table, which, when not in use, were probably placed before the fire. The floor was generally flagged with stone, as foot-carpets were as yet of the rarest occurrence, but it was occasionally overspread with rushes. At one end of the room was the fire-place upon the ground, in a deep recess in the wall, with the chimney entirely open. It was occasionally fitted up with andirons, and it was generally fed with logs of wood, although coals were sometimes used, and could be obtained without any serious inconvenience. At the further end of the room, and directly opposite to the fire, was a cupboard or Flanders chest of carved work, which was covered with a carpet, and a pair of candlesticks, and a few plates and vessels of china, or even of pewter, were arranged upon it.

* In the middle of the seventeenth century we find a house in Richmond which was probably an inn, with rooms which bear the somewhat modern names of the Rose, Crown, Mitre, and Boar's Head. Paradise was a favourite name for a bedroom. In 1643, Ralph Chaytor, rector of Wensley, had a chamber which rejoiced in the somewhat opposite title of Purgatory, which was appropriately furnished with a bed and two stools of the poorest description.

The great chamber contained the best bed of which the house could boast, with its tester and hangings of damask, sarcenet, or say. It was not unfrequently the production of some cunning workman, and was curiously carved, and sometimes elaborately inlaid. It was generally of a large size. The walls and windows of this apartment, like those of the hall, were also covered with hangings. With the exception of the bed, the principal ornament of this chamber was a large chest or press, in which the wardrobe, linen, and plate of the family were most carefully preserved. A few chairs, perchance with embroidered cushions, another chest, and an almy, would complete the furniture of the apartment.

From the preceding enumeration of the fittings of the two chief rooms in the mansion of an ordinary country gentleman, we may fairly enough conclude that the other chambers were furnished in a plainer and more unostentatious manner. Simplicity was still paramount here. Utility had not yet wedded to her own homely forms the tasteful ornaments and the delicacy of refinement which hover around the skirts of wealth. The master of the village hall might gaze with an admiring and almost with an envious eye upon the splendour of his patron or his lord, but he would view with still greater pride the heirlooms which his fathers had bequeathed to him, and he would be content to mould his own life in accordance with their simple precepts and traditions. Among those memorials of his ancestors which he treasured up with such a devotional veneration were their robes and plate. Here were gowns whose fading velvet and worn-out lace had witnessed the revelry in the halls of Ravenswath or Middleham, or had been present at the Easter festivities in the refectories of Durham or of York. Here there was a cup, perchance of foreign workmanship, which had graced a royal board, or could tell of the banquets at Easby or at Jervaux.

All the many and various associations of time and place would naturally make the Richmondshire gentleman more wishful to bind himself with a closer tie to the home which his fathers had reared. Almost the first request that he makes in his will is that he may be laid among his ancestors in his parish church, and he had little reason to fear that the consummation of his wish would be denied him. There was little to call him from his home, and, except on extraordinary occasions, the house of some kinsman or a neighbouring town was the extreme point of his wanderings. From his own lands he could derive everything that was necessary for the maintenance of his establishment. His own flocks and herds supplied him with provisions for his family, whilst fish and fowl could be easily obtained. The beer which he and his household consumed was of his own brewing: it formed a considerable item in his expenditure, for wine, even in the most wealthy families, was at this time comparatively unknown. His meals were served up on pewter, and the greater part of the vessels which were requisite for the services of his house were made of the same metal or of wood. Even his very candles were of home manufacture, and he was indebted to the industry of his own domestics for the simple garb in which he was ordinarily attired.

His amusements were perhaps the only source of any additional expense. Every gentleman had his ambling nag, and vied with his neighbour in the breeding and selection of his stud. From this laudable spirit of emulation the Richmondshire horses became almost proverbially renowned. At the dissolution of the monasteries, when the Royal Commissioners paid their visit to the wealthy abbey of Jervaux, the richness of the pastures which surrounded it and the excellency of the horses which they were rearing made a vivid impression upon their generally unsusceptible minds.* In no part of England, perhaps, was horse-racing carried on with more spirit than in Richmondshire during the present and succeeding centuries.

* "Gervayes," says Sir Arthur Darcy to Cromwell, "is oon off the fayrest chyrcches that I have seen, fayr medoore, and the ryver runnyng by ytt, and a grett demayne. The kynges hyenes is att greatt charge with hys stoodes of mares att Thornbery and other placys, whyche arr fyne growndes; and I thynke thatt att Gervayes and in the grangyes incydent, with the help of ther grett large commones, the kynges hyenes by good oversseers scholld have ther the most best pasture thatt scholld be in Yngland, hard and sownd off kynd; for surly the breed of Gervayes for horses was the tryed breed in the northe, the stallones

Gaterley Moor, the most celebrated course in the North of England, was in the very heart of the district; and almost the highest ambition of the North-country gentleman was to bear away the bell on that famous field. The number and value of their horses is a strong proof of their attachment to this favourite sport. In more than one instance, indeed, we may detect traces of the existence of extensive training establishments in the vicinity of the moor, an occupation for which Richmondshire affords rare facilities, and which is even now pursued there with considerable success. The sportsman could on all sides find ample employment for his bow or his hounds. The lowlands were filled with game of every description, which fell a ready prey to his hawks or his dogs. In the loftier and more exposed situations the eagle still reigned supreme, and had not yet given up his rock-bound dominions to the usurper man. The wild bull still ranged the forests of Teesdale. The graceful forms of the red deer or the roe might still be seen in the woodland glades, for they had not yet been driven to seek for refuge in wilder haunts and a colder climate. The salmon still sought his native streams, where he could roam at his own wild will, with no bar to his impetuous course. In the following century it was one of the boasts of the patriarch Henry Jenkins and marees well soortyd; I thynke in no reallme scholld be fownd the lykes to them, for ther is large and hye growndes for the somer, and in wynter wooddes and low growndes to serve them."—Letters on the Suppression of the Monasteries, edited for the Camden Society, by Mr. Wright, p. 158.

that, at his superhuman age, he could kill a salmon and dub a fly with any man in Richmondshire.

It is somewhat surprising that the homely and quiet life and the healthy amusements in which our ancestors indulged should have failed to prevent a comparatively early death. But few of them arrived at the age of threescore years and ten. The simplicity and sameness of their fare was unfavourable to the prolongation of life. The neglected drainage of the country would necessarily generate malaria, whilst the still more imperfect construction and ventilation of their houses would provoke the attacks of fever in its various appalling forms. Many diseases were at that time of ordinary occurrence which have either been extirpated by the rapid advance of the medical science or have been made entirely subservient to the rules of modern pharmacy. The small-pox was then a terrible foe to human life, and occasionally left whole villages without almost a single inhabitant. That mysterious scourge the plague was in those days not an unfrequent visitor, and left behind fearful traces of its irresistible power. The populous town and the lonely village were alike ravaged by its desolating arm—the castle and the cottage alike bent before its might. In 1598 no less than 2,200 souls—more than four-fifths of the whole population of the town—fell victims to its violence in Richmond alone.

To these general causes the shortness of the lives of our ancestors may be summarily ascribed; but at the same time we must not forget to enumerate several particular occurrences by which the life and fortunes of the Richmondshire gentleman were considerably affected during the period embraced by this volume.

The first of these was the celebrated Pilgrimage of Grace. This ill-fated insurrection originated in a desire to prevent the destruction of the monasteries, and was confined solely to the North. In no part of England was there more attachment to "the old religion," and Henry Jenkins, after a lapse of more than a century, could well remember the grief and dismay which was everywhere exhibited at the dissolution of the religious houses. Some notion of the object of this unfortunate rising may be gathered from the subjoined proclamation, preserved in the State Paper Office, which was published at Richmond by the rebels.* The enterprise resulted in a complete failure, and a great number of the gentry and yeomen who had been participators in it paid the penalty of their temerity.

In 1569, about thirty years after the Pilgrimage of

* That all the commons in every township should rise in pain of dethe, and take all lords and gentylnen, and make thaym swer he hon the messe bowke to these harticles foloyng:—

That no lord nor gentyllman shall take nothing of ther tennands, houle thare rents to put downe the lorde Cromwell, that heretyke, and hall his sett, whyche mayde the king put downe praying and fasting.

That no lord or gentyllman he shall not go to London.

If oney lord or gentyllman do deny to take thys hothe, then to put thaym to dethe, and put the next of hys blode in hys place, and yf he deny, put hym to dethe in lyke sorte, so on after anoder to on of the blode wyll take the hothe.

Grace, another religious movement was attempted in the North, and a number of the Richmondshire gentry followed the crescent of the Percies.* This insurrection, though it was more serious than its predecessor, was also unsuccessful, and death, banishment, and confiscation were dealt out among the offenders with no sparing hand.

Provoked by these repeated ebullitions of popular feeling, and fearful lest the spirit which had been so unmistakably manifested might be finally successful, the government, in self-defence, proceeded to adopt the severest measures. With this object in view, the Council of the North was established at York, and conformity with the religion of the State was exacted in the most rigorous manner. Many, therefore, of the Richmondshire gentry who refused to renounce their faith were cast into prison, and not a few of them died in bonds. Yet, notwithstanding all this persecution, among the Richmondshire cavaliers, who in the following century fought so well for King Charles, none were so prodigal of their estates and lives as the Roman Catholic gentlemen. They had not shaken off their loyalty to their king, whose predecessor had allowed their grandfathers and kinsmen to pine away and rot in chains.

These remarks are founded mainly on the documents which this volume contains. Brief and un-

* For an account of this insurrection, which was emphatically called the Rising in the North, I must refer my readers to the well-known work of the late Sir Cuthbert Sharp, to which I have been frequently indebted.

connected though they are, they may perhaps incite others to the consideration of an interesting and hitherto neglected subject—the manners and domestic economy of our ancestors. We have been so accustomed to generalize in questions of historical and antiquarian research, that we begin to despise the particular details in which the charms of freshness and reality can alone be found. We have been so much enthralled by the dazzling splendour of greatness and nobility, that poverty with its lowly graces has been allowed to crumble away into its kindred dust. The statesman lives in the annals of many an historian, whilst the peasant and the tradesman have found no biographer. We can form no fair general conclusions as to the life and manners of any age unless we have a full and accurate acquaintance with the habits and domestic life of every class of society which was then in existence. This can only be a work of much time and labour. In the present case I have ventured to consider but one point out of a wide and extensive subject, and this, too, has been treated in the slightest and most superficial manner. The other branches which spring out of it are too lengthy to be compressed within the narrow space of a preface. The condition of the yeoman and the noble, the state of the clergy, and the ecclesiastical history of the time, fraught as it is with the deepest interest, must necessarily be omitted here. I can only hope that in the short and meagre sketch which has been given above no conclusion has been overdrawn and no fact stated without sufficient authority.

It may, perhaps, be advisable to give a brief account of the Archidiaconate of Richmond, and its peculiar and extensive jurisdiction.

The Archdeaconry of Richmond was erected in the year 1090, by Thomas Archbishop of York, who endowed it with the valuable impropriations of Easingwold, Bolton, Clapham, Thornton Steward, and Arcleden. Its revenues were so large that it was considered to be the richest archdeaconry in the kingdom, and its authority was fully proportionate to its wealth. The power of the Archdeacon reached its culminating point in 1127, when Henry I. took Allerdale and Cumberland out of his jurisdiction, to establish the see of Carlisle; in compensation for which loss Thurstan Archbishop of York gave to him all the privileges and prerogatives of a bishop, with the exception of the acts of ordination, consecration, and confirmation. His authority extended over eight deaneries, which are still more or less under his jurisdiction, namely, Borobridge, Catterick, Richmond, Lonsdale, Kendal, Amounderness, Furness, and Copeland. All this great and extensive power was in the possession of the archdeacons of Richmond until 1541, in which year Henry VIII. abolished the office, and erected out of it the see of Chester. The Bishop of Chester, however, still permitted all such matters and questions as did not trench upon his episcopal dignity and privileges to remain under the jurisdiction of a commissary, who was elected by himself, and who took the place of the archdeacon.

This commissary continued to hold his court at Richmond till the year 1709 or 1710, when, for the sake of convenience, it was removed to Kendal. In the year 1718 it was carried to Lancaster for a similar reason, and it is extremely probable that many, if not all, of the wills and inventories from the western deaneries which had been previously preserved at Richmond now followed the wanderings of the court. In 1743 the corporation of Richmond began vigorously to demand the re-establishment of the registry at Richmond, and their petition, after some delay and inconvenience, was finally acceded to.* The court and many of its records were brought back to Richmond in the year 1750, and since that time have remained stationary there.

The wills for the deaneries of Borobridge, Catterick, and Richmond are in a very fair state of preservation, and many of them are of considerable antiquity. They are tied up in bundles in alphabetical order, and an index, though somewhat faulty and incomplete, has been made of them.

The wills for the five western deaneries have unfortunately met with less careful treatment. There are but few antecedent to 1600, and these are in a

* This question produced considerable controversy and litigation, and several pamphlets were published on both sides, which are now extremely rare. The following three are in my possession:—

1. The Case between the Mayor and Corporation of the Town of Richmond and the Principals and Officers of the Consistory Court of the Archdeaconry of Richmond. 1748.

2. Remarks upon the Case, &c. "Ye take too much upon you." 1748.

3. A Reply to some Remarks, &c. 1748.

deplorable condition. They are written on paper, and have suffered most severely from damp and neglect.* But a very small number of wills from the Lancashire deaneries remain. From the year 1610 to 1719 the series is in excellent order and preservation, but is unhappily without an index. Since the latter year all the wills for these deaneries have been proved at the local courts at Lancaster and Kendal.

In addition to these original documents there are preserved in the court at Richmond two registers or copy-books containing transcripts of wills which were proved during the reigns of Edward VI., Mary, and Elizabeth. They are in good condition, and are marked C and D respectively. These books have evidently formed part of a series which is now lost, as a leaf of a general index made before the year 1600 refers to five others of which several meagre fragments are still in existence.

One of the early registers of the archdeacons alone survives. It consists of 160 pages written on vellum, and is in very excellent preservation. It commences in 1442 in the archidiaconate of Thomas Kemp, and contains the proceedings of the five succeeding archdeacons, Grey, Laurence Booth, Arundell, John Booth, and Sherwood. The documents enrolled in it are principally institutions, commissions to inquire into rights of patronage, licences to celebrate mass in oratories and to collect alms, papal bulls, and other miscellaneous instruments. This register however is not rich in testamentary documents, the number of wills enrolled in it being only seven, all of which have been printed at the commencement of the present volume.

* This destruction was probably caused by the scandalous way in which the wills were removed from Lancaster. Tradition says that they were brought to Richmond in open carts, without any covering or protection, during wet weather; and this tale is certainly corroborated by the present condition of some of the documents themselves. As the carts came through Wensleydale, on their way to Richmond, many bundles are said to have been lost, which found their way into the possession of the Dalesmen. This fact will account for the deficiency in the early Lancashire and Westmoreland wills; but it is, however, by no means improbable that many were detained at Lancaster and Kendal.

It would appear that as late as 1680 there were other registers of the archdeacons in existence, as several are referred to by Torre, the antiquary, in his MS. collections, now preserved in the library of the Dean and Chapter of York. Torre speaks of three registers to which he refers by the following marks, which are explained in the beginning of his book.

B A register book in the possession of the Commissary at Richmond marked with the letter B, and commencing on the 2nd of April, 1361, Humphrey de Cherleton being archdeacon.

C A similar book marked with the letter C, extending from the year 1390 to 1399.

E Another book, being the register of Henry Bowett, Archdeacon of Richmond, and extending from 1418 to 1482.

All these registers have now disappeared, and nothing is known of their fate. Had they been in existence they would probably have furnished several most important additions to this work.

In conclusion, the Editor must confess that he has had some difficulty in the selection of the documents which are contained in the present volume. The mass of original wills preserved in the court at Richmond is so large, as almost to preclude any regular and systematic search. Some idea of the toil and time expended in the collection of the materials for the volume now given to the public may be gathered from the fact, that it has cost more than three months of hard labour.

It has long been the intention of the Council of the Surtees Society to publish a glossary of the rare and local words which their wills and inventories contain, but they are well aware that such a work would be necessarily incomplete unless the series had been previously concluded. They have, however, at present no wish to discontinue some of the most useful of their publications. The registries of Carlisle and Durham abound with unedited documents of the most valuable kind. York, if she would but give up her wealth, could furnish twenty volumes of surpassing interest. At Richmond the field is by no means exhausted, and the peculiar courts at Knaresbrough and Masham are stored with records which have been hitherto unexamined.

In conclusion the Editor has the greatest pleasure in acknowledging the very deep obligations he is under to J. Bailey Langhorne, Esq., the deputy-registrar at Richmond. Not only is he much indebted to Mr. Langhorne for his unexampled liberality in allowing him to make the most extensive searches in his treasury at Richmond, but he feels still more grateful to him for the very great personal kindness which he has so uniformly shown to him. He must also tender his thanks to Mr. Langhorne for the valuable suggestions which he has received from him, and to the Rev. Wm. Greenwell for his aid in transcription. The Editor at the same time is bound in filial duty to add, that this volume could perhaps never have been completed by him had he not been able to rely constantly upon the good advice and the ready help of one to whom he is indebted for the whole of that little antiquarian knowledge to which he can pretend.

JHESUS. 17 January, 1542. I William Shepherd* of Elsington, in the parishyng off Kyrkby in Kendall, chapman, seyke and

* A most curious and valuable will of one of the founders of the chantry of St. Anthony, in Kendal Church. The directions for the election of the priest and his performance of his duties are interesting. In 24 Eliz., in spite of the clause at his end of the founder's will, there was a grant made by the queen to Sir Christopher Hatton and his heirs of this chantry, out of which, together with other particulars in his purchase, he was to pay 7l. 11s. 4d. a-year to the schoolmaster at Burgh or Brough.

evyll att ease in my bodye with y^e visitation off God,—and first off all I beqwethe and commende my soulle to the greate mereye off Gode, in whome onelye is all my hope, trust, and confydence off hellthe and salvation, and to our Ladye, with all Saynts; and my bodye to be burriede within my parishe churche off Kendall, in the qwere off Saynt Anthonye, whiche William Herryson and I fownded in y^e same churche. Item I will and by this presents doo publishe and declare y^t Edwarde Dockerey, William Dodyng, and other theyr cofeoffers, and theyr heres and assingnes, continewe, stand, and be full feafide in fe simple off and in all suche lands, tennandments, and servyces whiche they be nowe lawfullye possessede and seaside off, by force off my dede off gyft, for y^e use and intent off y^e meynentanance off the devyne serves off Gode in y^e qwere off Saynte Anthony, within y^e parishe churche off Kendall, fowndede and mayde by me and one William Herryson, to pray daylye for our soulls, our wyffe and our chyl-dren soulls, our frendes, and all christyan soulls y^t Gods pleasur is to be praiede for, for ever. Item I will y^t xxs. be taken off y^e fyrst gressome y^t shall fortune to fall off y^e saide lands, and the same to be bestowede upon the fyer howse y^t Foxe wyffe off Ulverston dwellithe in, and y^e same howse so to be mayde tennandhable, and I will y^t my saide feffers shall have y^e bestowyng off the rest off the gressoms as they shall chawnce, fyrst to y^e repayryng off y^e ornaments and vesturs off y^e same qwere and after in dedes of charytye, as they shall thynke mooist expedient or convenyent. Item I will y^t all y^e customarye tenandts be reasnablye entrede off theyr gressoms, as thei shall falle. Item I will y^t the preist, y^t shall supplye y^e saide serves, shalbe a man of honest conversation, and a qwere man, to y^e intent he may at all tymes sette forwarde the servys off Gode in y^e sayd churche, and y^t he absent not hyme sellff above the space off xx^{ti} days without lycence and a reasnable cause, and in y^t tyme to fynde one other in his absence to execute his offis in every behallffe. Item I will y^t the incumbent off y^e same serves always, frome tyme to tyme, shall diligently see to and kepe without wayst y^e ornaments off the same qwere. Item I will y^t all costs, charges and expenses, at all tymes hereafter, be taken and borne off the saide lands, for y^e defence off y^e said serves, so y^t my said feffors nor theyr heres be put to no charges off theyr proper goods for y^e same. Item I will y^t my saide feffers, theyr heres and assyngnes, have ordre, oversyght, and governawnce off all other thyngs aperteynyng or ony wysse belongynge the saide serves, and they to doo therein as they shall thynke best for y^e meynentanance off y^e same serves; and yff any overplus above the yerelye stypende off v. marks be, it to remeyne and goo to my saide feoffers and theyr heres, for theyr paynes, to be taken in y^t behallff. Item it is my will and mynd y^t, yff y^e saide servys in the saide qwere at any tyme hereafter shall not be sufferede to conteneue and perpetually to endewre, by any statute, acte, decre, or injunction, or otherwysse whatsoever it be, by the lawes off this realme off Ynglonde, then the one hallff off all the saide lands, tennandments, rents and all other seruyces, with reuertions and appertenance belonging y^e same, descende, remeyne and cum to y^e ryght heres off me y^e saide William Shepherd for ever, and y^t my saide heres never make pretence, title or clayme to any further, but onely to y^e one hallff off the saide lands, as they will awnswer me before Gode at y^e day off judgement, but y^t the other hallff off y^e same lands may descende and remeyne to y^e heres off y^e saide William Herryson for ever, notwithstanding y^t the holl lands ar cumme unto me the saide William Shepherde by force off survivor off the saide William Herryson.—Item I will y^t every prest beyng at my burriall shall have v d.—Item I gyve and beqwethe to Nycholas Dodyng a gowne with qwitt fure. Item I gyve and beqwethe to Sir Adam Shepherde prest, and my brothers sonne, a lytle sylver potte with a cover. Item I gyff and beqwest to my parishe churche, for y^e reparations off the same, xiiij s. iiij d. so y^t I may have the tow best crosses and y^e canabye free at y^e day off my burryall. Per me Adamum Shepherd, rectorem.

XL. WYLLIAM WITHEMAN, OF BRATTENBYE, GENTILMAN.

In the name of God, Amen. I Wyll; Witheman,† of Brattenbye, in the countie of Yorke, gentilman, hole and sounde and of good memorye, maketh . . . last wyll and testament at Bar-

* A younger son of the great family of Laborne, who had become a farmer under the head of his house. Underbarrow and Bradleyfield, in the parish of Kendal, were two ancient family estates.

† The testator was the son of Matthew Witham, of Brettanby, a younger branch of the house of Cliffe, and married Catherine, dau. of . . . Killinghall, esq. of Middleton St. George, by whom he left issue. He appears to have raised himself by his wyke. Fyrst, I bequethe my soule to Almyghty God, and my bodye to be buried there please hym. Item I wyll y^t Barbara Wittham my doughter shall have foure score marks in recompenc of all chyldes porcion, to be taken furthe of the profetts of my lease of Thickett. And also I wyll Agnes Wittham, Marye Wittham, and Doritye Wittham, every of these to have fourty pounds, to be taken furth of the profetts of the saide lease of Thykett. Also that Katheryn Withetham my wyf shall have all such lands, rentts, and farmes as I have at this present within feilds of Darlington. Also I will y^t Will; Wittham* my eldest sone have all the implements whiche I have within of Darlington, as well the bruehowse as other howses of office within and abowthe the saide howse, and also iiij^{or} trussyng beddes and all the clothes y^t belonges to the saide beddes, saving his mother shall have the of such stuff as is at Darlington duryng hir lyf; also the saide stuff y^t Will; Wittham shall . . . and shall remayne unto his heyres after hym, as long as the said stuffe will contynew, and to no other. I will y^t George Clapham, who I have most in trust for my sonne and all other children, shall have xx^{ti} marks for the wardshepe of my sonne and heyr for his most profett, as he shall thinke best; and all the resedew of goods, my detts payed, I will my wyf have it for brynyng up my chylder, who I make my hole executor. I wyll y^t George Clapham, Will; Kyllingale, and John Kyllingale, † every of thame to have one 3onge horse or mare, one as they lyst to chose thaym self, who I make my supervisors of this my last wyll and testament. Also I wyll my brother Henry Wittham shall have ij. maires and my taffatay gowne. Also I exertions to a position of some rank in the county of Durham. During the episcopate of Cardinal Wolsey he occurs as a "servant" or lessee of the deanery of Darlington, under the dean, Cuthbert Marshall, who seems to have been his constant patron, as it was to his instrumentality that the testator owed his appointment to the bailifwick of Darlington, 10th February, 20 Henry VIII. When the Aske rebellion broke out, he was of great service in quelling it, and his energy is the subject of more than one letter preserved in the State Paper Office. In one of those letters, Cuthbert Marshall (qy.) says of him, "The berer Wm. Wytham is one of those that helped as moch to stay the last commotion to his power as any man of his degree, as my lord of Norfolk I trust can tell me, by the advertisement that I had by him, was the savgarde of my lyffe, for ellys I had been betrappyd by the commons or I had known." As a reward for his activity he was made a gentleman usher of the king's great chamber, and it is probable that it was some special mission from the king, or else from the bishop of Durham, that led him to Berwick, where, like a prudent man, he makes his will. As he now disappears entirely from public view, we may conclude that he too found his tomb in the Castle Dangerous of the Border, that vast sepulchre of our northern chivalry.

* William Witham, the testator's eldest son, died s. p. 1562, and the estates descended to his brother Cuthbert Witham, who was attainted for his share in the rebellion in 1569.

† Probably the testator's brothers-in-law. The Killinghalls of Middleton St. George appear much in the history of Berwick about this time.

* The Curwens were descended from 'the ancient kings of Northumberland, through earl Cospatric, the common ancestor of the great houses of Dunbar, Raby, &c. In Burn and Nicholson's History of Westmoreland and Cumberland, ii. 52, there is a meagre narrative pedigree of the family of Curwen, in which the testator is mentioned merely as the homo of his house during his time. This will mentions a deceased wife (Agnes, daughter of Walter Strickland, esq.), and gives the name of a living one, who appears to have been a sister of Sir Thomas Wharton. It also mentions numerous other family connections, all of which appear to be new to the genealogist.

her joyntor and feoffement at the day of our maryage. Also I will that all suche recognissances of covenands maide betwixt Sir Thomas Wharton and me, concernynge the mariage of Henry Curwen, my son and heir apparent, (sic). Also I giff and bequethe two hunderith pounds sterling to provide for hym a warde, or other levyng to the value of fyftie marks by yere, at the discrecion of myne executors. Also I giff and bequethe unto my sone Thomas, after my said detts paid, a hunderith marks sterling out of my said lands and goods, towards the preferment of his leving, at the lyke discrecion of myne executors. * The school of Sedbergh had been, a very few years before the date of this will, founded and placed in connection with St. John's College, in Cambridge, by Dr. Roger Lupton, provost of Eton. We have here an additional arrangement with reference to two scholarships in the same college. The testator would appear to have been connected with the new foundation (probably as an assistant master), for in the sequel of the will we find him bequeathing silver spoons and books to his successor, "to the use of the fre scole at Sedber." Dr. Whitaker (Richmondshire, ii. 359) enumerates a goodly list of learned men who owed their education to Sedbergh school.

give to Thomas Metcalf, my suster son, and Robert his brother and his wiff, one obligation of sex pounds thirteyn shelyngs four pens, y^t I lent unto Edmunde Metcalf their father, and if he agre well with them for it, then I forgive him xv s. iiij d. y^t he aweth me besides the said obligation, and if he do not so agre withe them, then I give to the said Thomas and Robert the said xv s. iiij d. whiche he receyved in my name of the maister of th'ospitall. * The testator was the head of the junior branch of the house of Witham of Cliffe, which had settled at Brettanby. He was twice married, and left issue by both wives. The will of his eldest son William will be found above. His son Henry Witham purchased the manor of Ledeston and left numerous descendants. He had two other sons, Thomas and Cuthbert. The latter was in holy orders, and was probably rector of Adell from 1553 to 1581. He also makes mention of two daughters in his will. The will of his wife will occur hereafter.

† The testator's mother, Janet Wauton, was one of the two daughters and coheirs of John Wauton, Esq., of Cliffe. She probably died when she was on a visit to her kinsmen the Gowers, and was buried in Terrington church, near Malton, the burial-place of that ancient family. She was connected with them through the marriage of her nephew, John Witham of Cliffe, with Agnes Gower, who was his third cousin, and the dispensation from Lewis, cardinal of St. Marcel, sanctioning the marriage, dated 7 April, 1507, is still preserved in the muniment room at Lartington.

LXVIII. CHRISTOFER DODISWORTH OF JOLBIE.

Chistofere Dodisworth, of Jolbie, in the parishing of Croft, † 28 Oct. 1551, beinge by the Grace of God hole of mynd and of perfytt remembraunce, weyng and considering the mutabilitie and inconstancie of this worlde, and knowing also that death to every

* The testator appears to have been a sort of gamekeeper under the family of Ratcliffe. This is the first occurrence of nets and setting dogs, which even after this time are very rarely mentioned. In 1582, Edward Weldon of Colborne has "a paire of larke netts," which he has sold for 8s. In the beginning of the next century we have dogs occasionally alluded to.

† The testator was a member of a younger branch of the family of Dodsworth, of Thornton Watlass, which had settled in the parishes of Croft and Barton, as tenants under the families of Place and Catterick, with whom they were connected by marriage. They were for many years lessees of Hahnaby Grange, and afterwards settled at Barton, where they rose to some consequence. Another very respectable family of that name settled at Jolby, which formerly belonged to Easby Abbey, and in 1557 Lawrence Dodsworth obtained a grant of it from the Crown at 30 years' purchase. Other notices of this family will occur hereafter.

man is certen, the daye or hower thereof most uncerten, therefore, calling to my remembrance and myndyng the quiete staye, godlie concord and good agreement, of my wyfe and chylderin, as one not willing to deye intestate, doo ordeyn and mache this my present will and testament in maner and forme folowyng. Fyrst, and before all other things, I bequethe my sowle unto Almyghtie God, my maker, savour and redemer, who, I trust, of his infynite marcey, for the death of his sonne, my saveyour, will accepte and receyve the same in the kyngdome of heaven, apou the dissolution of this my mortall bodie, and there to rest with Christ and all other the blessed and elect companye of heaven, untill last daye, when I assuredlie beleve that this my mortall bodie shall rise, then joyned to the sowle, and then for ever to rest in the joyes of heaven; and that this my corpes to be buried within my said parishe churche of Sanct Peter at Croft, if yt so shall so please God. And also I will that the churche have all her right, according to the estataite lymyted in that behalf, desyryng you, my executors, to use no other rites or other funerall pompes at my buryall then at the tyme of my deathe shalbe lefevull by the King's Majesties lawes or injuncones in that behalf. Also I will (by the lycence of my Mr.) that my tractable wyfe Maybell, after my deccasse, shall have full enterest in all suche fermeholding as I have in ferme and occupation at this daye in Jolbie, accordinge to the trewe effecte and menyng of my lease. And she to have, occûpie, and enjoye the same (during hyr wedowched) for the preferment of my yongest childrein, and to there brynging uppe, duringe my yeres, without interuption of any of ye said childerin. And if it happ my wife to latt or taverne any parte of the said fermehold (not beyng of habilitie to occupie the same) then I will that Roland my eldest sonne have it — I will that my said youngest children be either put the scole or to some other honest science, wherunto they ar most apte (dessyryng you, my natereall sonne Roland, of fatherlie zeale to be good sonne and loving and kynd brother to my wyfe and chylder). Item I will bequethe and geve unto my sonc Fraunces my lease of Forsett and Apelbie. — Also I will and bequethe unto my sonne Roland xx s., desyryng you to be good unto my wife and childer, requiring you to accepte thes my small bequest at this tyme, calling to your remembraunce how benefyciall and my fatherlie acte towards you allredie — To my dowghter Margerie Bower — to Elizabeth Ward, wedow, my dowghter, a young cowe — Also I desyre you, my executors, within xiiij. dayes after my buryall, that ye geve and distribute unto xij. of the most poore of this parishe ij d. a peace. I wyll that Thomas Laydman my servant have of my bequest one of my jaykatts — Also I will that my wife have all hir aperill and hir chamer and all other things that ar her right — desseyryng you, my faithful wife and sonne Roland to be my executors, and to see this my will trewlie performed in everie behalf, as ye will answer before God at the daye of judgement. Fynallye I do most hartlie require you, my most loving and speciall good M^r. M^r. Christofer Place, and my good M^r. Anthony Caterik, to be the supervisor of this my last will and testament — Witnesses, Roland Doddysworth, John Dodysworth.

LXIX. CHRISTOFER MECLETON.

November 21, 1552. I Christofer Mecleton* — to be buried in the church of St. Rumald — to Margaret my wife and to my two sons, Thomas and Richard, my right of farmehold in Mecleton called the est fermeholde — my son John to enter into my cheif house with all the rialties and ayrelomes founded by my predecessors — Witnesses, Edward, George, and John Rayne.

[Prob. 8 July, 1558.]

LXX. SYR JOHN LOWTHER † OF LOWTHER KNYGHT.

In the naym of God, Amen. Be yt knawne to all men that I, Syr John Lowther, of y^e parhyshyng of Lowther, in y^e countie of Westmerland, knyght, the iijth day of February in y^e yere of our Lord God a thowsand fyve hundreth fyfthe and two, and in y^e vij yere of y^e reynge of our soverynge lord Edward y^e sext, by y^e grace of God kyng of England, Frans, and Ireland, defender of y^e faythe, and in erthe of y^e churche of England and Ireland

* Ancestor, no doubt, of the two well-known Durham antiquaries, Christopher and James Mickleton. Christopher was, perhaps, the great-grandson of the testator, and was probably sent to Clifford's Inn by the family at Streatlam, who were owners of the greater part of the parish of Romaldekirk. He finally settled as an attorney in Durham, and bought the estate of Crookhall in 1657. He was a younger son, and the elder branch continued at Mickleton for some time after his migration. The Raines were connected with the family of Mickleton by marriage.

† Sir John Lowther, knight, the head of the great family of Lowther, was the eldest son of Sir Hugh Lowther by Anne, daughter of Sir Lancelot Threlkeld. He married Lucy, daughter of Sir Thomas Curwen of Workington, and had by her a son Hugh, who does not appear to have died, as Burn and Nicholson state, before his father, and a daughter Mabell, who married Christopher Dalston, esq. of Uldale. The property descended to Richard, the son and heir of his son Hugh by Dorothy, daughter of Henry Lord Clifford, who afterwards became Lord Warden of the West Marches, and held other important offices connected with the border. The testator, although he was thrice high sheriff of Westmerland, appears to have been quiet and homely in his disposition, and not ambitious of that high position in public affairs which was attained to by many of his ancestors and nearly all of his descendants—a position which was ultimately crowned with nobility in the title of Earl of Lonsdale.

next under God supreme hede, beyng hole of mynd and off gud memorie, doo ordeyne, make, and sett forthe thys my present testament and last wyll in maner and forme folowyng. Furst, I gyve and bequyeth my sawll into y^e handes of Almyghtye God, and my body to be buryed where yt shall chance me to dye. Also I wyl that Syr Wylliam Huchonson shall have my gray maire, the beste cowe that he wyl take, and y^e best draught oxe. Also I wyll that Syr Thomas Hogeson shall have v s. to pray for me. Also I wyll y^t Sir Robert Hutton shall have v s. to pray for me. Also I wyll that Christofer Dalston and Mabell hys wyffe shall have sex oxen, sex kyen, sex young nolte, thre scoore shepp, a sylver pott, a salltt, fyve sylver spones, a pounced salte, and a plane pece. Also I wyll that Wylliam Lowther my godsonn shall have all such landes and tenements wyche my brother hys father haythe of me and of my gyfft, for y^e terme off y^e said Wylliam lyffe. Also I wyll that my broder Lancelotte and Jayn Carlyle shall occupy my floke of wedders on Penreth fell, as longe as thay lyve, and to keype uppe y^e stoke standyng, and then after to remayne to y^e howsse of Lowther agayn. Also that lytyll Lancelott Lowther shall have xx^{ti} lambes, and that Janat Lowther hys suster shall have x lambes. And all other my goodes unlegasyd, and my detts payd, I gyve and bequyeth to Jayn Carlyll and to my brother Lancelott Lowther, wyche twoo I constytute, ordeyn, and make my executors, to fulfyll thys my present testament and last wyll. Also I wyll that Lancelotte Lowther shall take nothyng from y^e said Jayn Carlyle by reason of his joyntte executors hype, but for that to helpe and manteyn the sayd Jayn to hyr full ryght, accordyng to y^e intent, forme, and effect of thys my sayd present testament and last wyll. In wytnesse whereof I, y^e sayd Syr John Lowther, to thys my sayd present testament have subserybyde my nayme and setto my seale. Also I wyll Hewge Lowther and Rychard Lowther shall (have) nothyng at doo with my goodes of myn. Also I make my supervisours Thomas Salkeld, of y^e Whyethall,* and Mr. Wylliam Flemyng, parson of Lowther,† and other of theme to have fourtie shyllynge, to ayde my executors. Thes beyng wytnesses, Sir Wylliam Huchonson, Sir Robert Hutton, prestes, Hewgh Marshall and John Threlkeld, with other.

LXXI. ELSABETH PLACE TESTEMENT OF HALNATHBYE.

IHS. In the name of God, Amen. The seconde day of May, in the yere of our Lord God a thousand fyve hundreth and liij., I Elsabeth Place, wedoe,‡ late wyffe of George Place of Halnathby, makyth my last wyll and testament after thys manner of forme folowyng. Fyrst I beqwhett and wyll my soul to God, desyering hym, for the bloyd of his sone Jhu Cryst, to accept it in to his kingdom, for by his deith and passyon I do clame it, and not by no gude warke, and yett all the gud warke y^t I can do is no less then my dewtye; and my body to be buried in the pareth church where it shall pleas God my saull do departe. Fyrst I beqwhyed to my lorde my broder§ my bracelett of sex old ryals. Also I beqweht and gyffe to my syster Constable|| my best pelyment of golde. Also I beqweytt and gyff to my broder

* Thomas Salkeld of the Whitehall was a younger son of the house of Corby, and the father, no doubt, of Lancelot Salkeld, who is alluded to above. The son married Elizabeth, a daughter and co-heir of Nicholas Bardesey of Bardesey, in the county of Lancaster, esquire.

† Mr. William Fleming, parson of Lowther, is probably an unrecorded member of the great family of Fleming of Rydal.

‡ The lady whose splendid will we have now before us was a daughter of Christopher Lord Conyers of Hornby, by Anne, daughter of Thomas Lord Dacre. She was married by her father to his ward George Place, the eldest son of Rowland Place of Halnaby, esquire, by his second wife Anne, daughter of Sir Edward Radclyffe of Cartington, who died without issue during his minority. This will makes several additions to the family genealogy, and the whole document was probably taken down from the very words of the testatrix, whose bold and ladylike signature is appended to it.

§ John Lord Conyers of Hornby, who married Maud daughter of Henry Earl of Cumberland, and left by her a large family. He died 3 and 4 of Philip and Mary.

|| Jane, the only sister of the testatrix, married Sir Marmaduke Constable of Everingham.

Constable my pawnsy of golde with the ruby in it. And also to my broder Leonard my golde chyn, hole to hymself, with out any parting to any body. Also I gyf to my neyce Elisabeth Conyers* a flower with the dyamont in it and thre olde ryals of golde and my gold ring with the saffore in it. Also I gyff to lytle Kateryn Constable† my weddyng ryng and my perell belyment, both the upper and the ondre, wyth my whytte sattin kyrtell. Also to my nawnt Bygott‡ an olde angell of golde. Also to my nawnt Conzers, John Conzers wyffe, my reyd taphytye kyrtell. Also I gyff to the parson of Croft x s. Also to Sr Robert Wyshead prest x s. Also I gyffe to my broder Christofer Place xij. sylver sponys and the great standyng cupe, desyering hym yt they may be hayrlomes at Halnatby. Also I gyffe to Robert Place§ a nobyll of gold. Also I gyff to my cosyn Bryan Palmes|| a signott of gold, a soverand of golde and a portyngowe of golde, which I promest hym to have, if he leyffed after me; and, if I leyff after hym, I gyff them to my broder Leonard, holy to hym self. Also I gyff to every on of my servands beyng with me at the day of my deyth xx d. Also I gyff to Dynes Lytstar, if he be with me at the day of my deth, my bay horse called Hebdan. The resydew of all my gudes, moveable and unmoveable, not gyffen, and my detts payd, I gyffe them frely to my broder Leonarde Conyers, and to my brother Christofer Place, to be dyvyded eqwally betwix them, whom I make my full executours, lettynge them knaw yt I have fulfylled my husband's wyll and testament, yt they shall not be troubled y^rin. Wytnese here of I have setto my seall and subscribed my name, desyering them to distrybut v. pounnds of sylver to my pure neightburs, and to bryng me furth honestly, according to the Kyngs lawes.—ELSA-BETH PLACE.

* Daughter of John Lord Conyers, and afterwards the wife of Thomas second son of Sir Thomas Darcy. She had by him an only son, afterwards Sir Conyers Darcy.

† Little Katherine Constable, the niece of the testatrix, afterwards became the wife of Sir Robert Stapleton of Wighill.

‡ Katherine daughter of Christopher Lord Conyers, and aunt of the testatrix, married Sir Francis Bigod of Settrington, knight, who died 22 October, 8 Eliz.

§ Christopher and Robert Place were younger brothers of the husband of the testatrix. The former makes his will in 1555, which will occur afterwards. The latter, after the death of his brothers, became heir male of the whole house, and died in 1594, leaving a numerous family behind him.

|| Brian Palmes, a member of the great house of Palmes of Naburn, married Margaret only daughter and heiress of Ralph Radclyffe of Tunstall, co. pal. Dur., esquire, and in right of her became the owner of lands in Morton. He joined in the rebellion in 1569, and forfeited in consequence the whole of his possessions. Roger Radclyffe of Mulgrave, the first cousin of Margaret Radclyffe, married to his first wife Dorothy daughter of Sir Francis Bigod, the uncle of the testatrix, and hence the relationship between her and Brian Palmes.

LXXII. THOMAS WILSON OF STRICKLAND GATE.

Sep. 14, 1553. I Thomas Wilson,* of Strickland gate in the towen of Kyrckby in Kendall, sicke and evill at ease in my bodye, withe God his mercifull visitacion and fatherly correction, yet nevertheles of good and perfect memorye, thanks be rendered to God therfor, ordeins and maks my last will and testament in maner and forme following. First I commit and bequiethe my sowell into the mercifull hands of God, my hevenly father, into the keypyng of his sone Jhesus Christ, by the merits of whose deathe and passion I trust verely to be saved, and by no other meanes, praiyng God Allmyghty, my most mercifull Saviour and Redemer, that this my faithe may dayly increase and continew in me at all assaults of my goostly enemye, even to the brethe goowt of my body, and that then specially it be lyvely and not waverying even at the last brunt. As touching my vile body, which is nothing but dust, earthe, and asshes, let it be laid in ground frome whence it came, and be buried in the parrishe churche off Kendall afforesaid, even there whear my father was buried, or as near as may be. And I will that the churche hav of me all ryghts and dewtyes, and my buriall to be ordered after that sorte and maner as my trusty frends shall thinke most fit and convenient, after a reverent and comely sort, in hope of the resurrection which shalbe at the last day, when boithe body and sowell shall mete and be withe Crist glorified. Item I will that the vickar shall hav of me, for tythes forgotten, xx d. Item that a sermon funerall be made at my buriall, if it may possibly be had at that tyme, or ells as sone after as may be conveniently, to put men in remembrance boithe of the frailte and misery that is in this wretched world and also of the joy and blis that remaineth after this mortall life, and how to frame our lyves to be partakers of the same, and the preacher to be recompensed for his paynes honestly taken in that behalfe — To Thomas Gennyngs my brother in law my blew stamyng jacket, and unto Abraham Byrkehed my grene jacket. —

* A will indicative of strong religious feeling, which may especially be seen in the preamble. The preambles of wills are generally passed over as of little or no consequence, but they are very important on account of the indications of the creed and religious opinions of the testator, which are frequently embodied in them. Several of them will be given verbatim hereafter.

LXXIII. WILLIAM CONYERS OF MARSKE, ESQUIER.

William Conyers of Marske, esquier,* 12 Jan. 1553 — to be buried besids my wife in the parishe church of Seint Edmunde in Marske. To my sone William Conyers my fermes called Punshert and Orgaite, for the settinge up of his howse, fyve fether bedds, two of the best, and thre of the seconde, with the clothes thereunto belonginge, my newe salte and my new spunes, all fyre wessell and brewing wessell, a cestron, with the tables and trists necessarie for the furniture of his howse, and my gresseld stoned horse. To my sone Christofer Conyers my terme of yeares in my ferme called Elstonsdell. To my sone James Conyers iij l. vj s. viij d. to be paid yerelie during his life out of my landes in Craven. To my son Robert Conyers, during his life, iij l. vj s. viij d. out of the said landes. To my sone Christofer Conyers xxxij s. iiij d. yerelie out of the said landes. To Agnes Erle my servante, in recompence of hir faithfull service done unto me, and never yet recompenced, xxxij s. iiij d. yerely during her life, out of my saide landes in Craven. To Christofer Bryan, xx s. yerelie. Unto Elsabethe Bryan my daughter, xij s. iiij d. yerelie. To Thomas Conyers, in recompence of his service, xij s. iiij d. yerelie. To Isabell Conyers my bastarde (struck out) daughter, to her mariage, iij l. vj s. viij d. To Anne Conyers, xl s. to provide her to a gude service withall. Item I do remitt and releas unto Sr. Mathewe Blamyer, parson of Marske, all covenantes and grants made and concluded upon betwene him and me for the parsonage of Marske. To my sones James Conyers, Robert Conyers, and Christofer Conyers, my leases of Grinton church,† and of the leade mynes, to see my debts discharged. I give unto my sone Robert to the

* The founder of the house of Conyers of Marske was William the fifth son of Sir John Conyers of Hornby, who acquired the estate by his marriage with Elizabeth the daughter and sole heiress of Robert Cleseby, who was his father's ward. He occurs there in 1463. His son Christopher Conyers married Anne or Elizabeth daughter of James Metcalfe of Nappa, esq., and makes his will 14 March 1504, in which he mentions his wife Elizabeth, his son and heir William, and his sons Thomas and Michael Conyers, his daughter Jane, and his brothers Roger, Sir Cuthbert, and Robert Conyers. He had besides three other daughters: Elizabeth married Roger [qy. Richard?] Sidgwick of Walburn, Margery married . . . Slingsby, and Cecily married Henry Askwith of East Newstead. The will of his son and heir, William Conyers, is now before us. He married Eleanor, daughter of Humphrey Sidgwick of Walburn Hall, esq. His son William survived him only three years, and his will, with some account of the subsequent fate of the family, will be given hereafter.

† The appropriate rectory of Grinton was parcel of the possessions of the dissolved priory of Bridlington, and the testator held a lease of it under Lord Scrope, who was the lessee of the Crown. He was not very regular in paying his rent, and almost immediately after his death the lease passed out of his family into the hands of Avery Uvedale of Marriek Abbey.

maintenance of his ferme two yoke of the best stotts I have, and fourtie of my best shepe — my three sons executors — my wel-belovide cosens Thomas Rokeby of Mortham esquier, and Richard Whalley, the lerned man,* to be supervisors.

LXXIV. CUTHBERT WALKER TESTAMENT OF RICHMOND.

In Dei nomine, Amen. The xvij. daye of Februarie, in the year of our Lord God a thowsand fyve hundreth fifty and three, I Cuthbert Walker, of Richemond in the countie of York,† hole of mynde and of perfecte remembrance, make this my last will and testamente in manner and forme following. Fist I commend my solle to Almighty God, and to our blessed Lady Saint Marie, and to all the company of heaven, trusting faithfully that by the meritts of Christ's passion to be saved and to come to everlastyng lyffe, and I will my body to be buried wher yt shall please myne executours. Also I will and bequith to my sonne William Walker, now being with me in my house at Richemond, that my house sett and lying at Dowgate, within the parishe of Saint Michell Pater noster, within the cite of London, to hym and to his heyres of his bodie lawfullye begoten for ever, and yf yt happen — then to my nexte heyres. Also I gyve to the said William on gilte cuppe with a cover with the image of the Trinitie upon yt, and my second fetherbede and a bolster. Also I bequith to my brother Sir William Walker, preste,‡ now being with me in house

* Richard Whalley, who was probably a lawyer, was descended from the house of Welbeck, and settled at Dalby. His son Thomas married Barbara daughter of Christopher Lascelles of Brackenbergh, and granddaughter of Richard Sidgwick of Walburn, who was connected by marriage with the family at Marske. It is probably owing to this match that we have this mention of Richard Whalley, and we may fairly conjecture that he drew up the present will.

† On the 8th November, 1551, Sir Edward Fynes, Lord Clinton and Saye, and Lord High Admiral of England, sold to the testator and his son William, together with William Pepper of St. Martin's, esquire, the site and part of the lands of the lately-dissolved cell of Benedictine monks at St. Martin's near Richmond. On a division of the property, two days later, the father and son obtain for their share several closes in the lordship of St. Martin's, called Chapel Flatts, Rampkyn Ridding, Catskins, &c. and other property in Hudswell, Colborne, and Caldwell, all of which were bequeathed in 1557 by the son to the hospital of St. John the Baptist at Kirkby Ravenswath, which had been founded in the previous year by Dr. Dakyn. The testator seems to have been on intimate terms with Dr. Dakyn, and it was probably through his influence with his great patron William Knight, Archdeacon of Richmond, that he became a lessee of some of the lands of the see of Bath and Wells, to which the archdeacon was translated. The cup with the image of the Trinity on the cover was probably part of the spoils of some neighbouring religious establishment.

‡ William Walker of Richmond, preste, makes his will 20th January, 1560, and leaves "to every child that singeth in the queare ij d." and bequeaths his house in Dowgate, London, to Sir Richard Walker his brother.

To my brother Sir Richard Walker fower pounds duryng his lyffe, and to my sister Agnes Andreson fower pounds duryng her lyffe. Also I will that he paie owt of the said farme to Thomas Corney forty shillings, and to Edward Corney other xl s. for the space of x. yeres next after my decease — The residue — to my said sonne William Walker, and to my brother Sir William Walker, whom I do ordaine and maikemyne executors — and I will and desyer Doctor Dakyn‡ to be

* The testator's brother, Sir Richard Walker of Richmond, by his will, dated 2 December, 1561, leaves his house in Dowgate to Thomas Corney and John his son, and gives 3*l.* to be distributed on the day of his burial to the poor of Richmond, and other 3*l.* to the poor of Kirkby Hill. He makes William Pepper of Saynt Martyn's his supervisor.

† William Knight, LL.D., Fellow of New College, Oxford, 1493, Secretary to Henry VII. and VIII., and Ambassador to the Emperor Maximilian, Archdeacon of Huntingdon 1523, Prebendary of Westminster 1529, Archdeacon of Richmond December 7, 1529, and of Chester 1531: he resigned these two offices into the king's hands May 20th, 1541, and was made Bishop of Bath and Wells nine days afterwards. He died 29th September, 1547, and was buried in the cathedral at Wells. Dr. Dakyn was an executor of his will, which is dated on the 12th of August, 1547, and it is to the good bishop's charitable bequest that the hospital at Ravenswath owed its foundation.

‡ John Dakyn, LL.D. was a member of a very respectable Yorkshire family, and probably began life as a monk in St. Mary's Abbey, York. He was presented by the Abbot and Convent of that monastery to the rectory of Kirkby Ravenswath, which no doubt brought him into the notice of the Archdeacon of Richmond, William Knight, who from this time appears to have been his constant patron. It was probably through his recommendation that Dakyn was collated by Robert Holgate, Archbishop of York, to the archdeaconry of the East Riding in 1551. As Knight was frequently engaged in missions to foreign courts, Dakyn probably acted as his official in his absence, and he may perhaps have held some similar office under the two first Bishops of Chester.

 We may hope that the statement of Fox, the martyrologist, is incorrect when he charges him with adding fuel to the Marian persecution by burning a Richard Suell at Richmond in 1558, and with being the cause of another brother drowning himself in the Swale. If he was the instigator of this atrocity, in addition to the sin of intolerance, he might also be charged with inconsistency, for, according to Fox's own statement, he was one of the commissioners appointed by Henry VIII. for inquiring into the state of the religious houses in Richmondshire. That this execution did take place is beyond all doubt, and it is certain that the commissary, if there was one, would be officially cognizant of it ; but it yet remains to be proved that Dakyn held that office, and Fox seems to be the sole authority for the statement. On the 11th of May, 1556, Dakyn, in compliance no doubt with the request of the Bishop of Bath and Wells, one of whose executors he was, founded the hospital at Kirkby Ravensworth out of his patron's wealth ; but it is probable that he himself made great additions to it, and the rules for the management of the hospital must be ascribed to him. He did not long survive the completion of his work, but died on the 9th of November, 1558, only eight days before Queen Mary, and exactly two months after the alleged atrocity. See the History of Richmondshire for an interesting account of the foundation of the hospital, i. 118.

* It is very curious to observe the renewal of the various ecclesiastical observances belonging to the "old religion" which mark the commencement of the reign of Mary, and the various hopes and fears of the donors which may here and there be traced in their wills—hopes indeed that were soon blighted, and fears that were speedily realised, by the accession of Elizabeth.

Thomas Baynbrigg,* servant to Mr. Thomas Rukesbie of Mortham, of an holl and perfect mynd and memory, ordayne and make this my last will and testament in maner and forme followinge. Fyrst I bequeith my soule to Almeightie God, to our Lady Sanct Mary, and to all the blissid companie in heaven, and my bodie to be buried within the church of Rukesbie. Item I bequeith to every preist beinge present at my buriall, to singe or say masse and Dirige for my soule, viij d., and to every parishe clerke ij d. Item I bequeith xx s. to be distributed to poure people. Item I bequeith as mouche money to be bestowed in breade the daye of my buriall as will by to every person that will put furth his hand an halpennye loffe. The residewe of all my goodes moveable and unmoveable unbequested (my debtes paid and funerall expensis deduct) I gyffe frelie to Anthonie Baynbrige my naturall brother, whome I make myn holl executor of this my last will and testament. Also I ordayne and make Mr Thomas Rukesbie of Mortham, my good m^r, the supervisor of this my last will and testament. Thes being wittnesses, John Layton, Cuthbert Baynbrigge, John Baynbrige, John Dickson, Cristofer Biggins and John Teysdale.

LXXVII. RAUFFE COUNSTABLE OF THRYNTOFTE.

In the name of God, Amen. The thyrde day of Decembre, in the yere of our Lord Gode a thowsand fyve hundreth fyftie and foure, I Rauffe Counstable of Thryntofte in the countie of York, gentilmant — to be buried in the Ladie porche in my parishe church of Aynderby with the stepill — my detts and funerall expensis paide, my goods to be devidet in thre equall partts — my wiffe to have one and my children an other, and the thyrde part to declare my will uppon. And of this my thyrde parte I gyff and bequeste unto Francys Counstable my sone, in consideracion that Gode hayth viset hyme with disaysse and seyknnes, sex pounds thyrteyn shillings and foure pence, over and besyds his due porcione. There ys yet unpayd by the executors of Cristofer Laysynby ten pounds of money, parcell of my mariage goods with his daughter. — To th'use of my paryshe church sex shillings viij d. To Sir Thomas Swyer, to pray for my soule fyve shillings.

* The will of a serving-man in the family of Rokeby of Mortham: he was an old servant in the family, as we find him mentioned in the will of his master's mother fourteen years before this time. The will of a serving-man in the family of Wycliffe of Wycliffe, and of another in the family of Tunstall of Scargill, will be given hereafter.

† Probably a younger son of the house of Constable of Dromonby in Cleveland. He was apparently a tenant at Thrintoft under Sir John Constable, the head of his house.

I gyffe to Sir John Counstable knyght, my maister, a whyte gray amblinge stage, tenderly desyringe his maistership to take payne to be supervisor of this my laste will, and to be good maister unto my wiffe and children, whome I leyff and remytt holie unto his goodness . . . my wyfe and children my executors. Wit: John Radcliffe esquier, Sir Thomas Swyer preste, Leonard Smelt, &c.

LXXVIII. ULTIMA VOLUNTAS SEU TESTAMENTUM RICARDI SIGSWICK.

In Dei nomine, Amen. I Richard Sigeswike of Walborne, esquire,* seeke in bodie but of a perfecte mynde and good remembrance, maks this my last will and testament of all my goodds and cattells in maner and forme folowing. Firste, I will and bequeathe to my parishe churche of Downeham xls. to be bestowed in things most requisite for the better mayntenance of the service of God there. Allso I geve and bequeathe to Thomas Newtonn, preste, x s. to pray for my soule, my father and mothers soules, and all christen soules. Allso I will, geve, and bequeathe to my cosen Francis Lassells† of my goodds and cattells moveable and not moveable to the valor of an hundrethe marks, over and besydes the tables, cooppbords and formes standing in the hale, the boords in my butterye and kittchyne, and the bedstocks and cupbordds standing in my great chamber. Allso I will and

* The testator's family had been seated at Walburne Hall for more than a century. They acquired it by a marriage with Agnes, a daughter and heir of Peter Greathead, who had married Margaret daughter and heir of Henry Bellerby, whose family had been the proprietors of the estate for a considerable period. There is but little known about this ancient family, but it is ascertained that the testator left an only daughter and heiress, who married Christopher son of Sir Roger Lascelles of Brackenbergh: and there is also preserved among the title deeds of the estate a commission to him from Henry VIII., dated May 14, 1537 (the year of Aske's rebellion), authorising him to seize and send to York Castle all rebellious persons. The will of his wife Elizabeth, who was probably a daughter of Christopher Conyers of Marske, will occur afterwards.

Walburn Hall stands on a gentle eminence, about two miles from Downholme, on the Leyburne road. The present hall was probably built during the reign of Elizabeth, but the walls of a building of a much earlier date are still partially standing, and the present house is evidently, to a great extent, constructed upon and out of the vestigia of the ancient mansion. During the great rebellion it was garrisoned for King Charles by some companies of the Richmondshire trainbands, who were supplied with provisions by Matthew Hutton, esq., of Marske (into whose family the property had come), and who was fined 1000*l.* for his loyalty, besides the sequestration of his estates. His lineal descendant, Timothy Hutton, esquire, of Marske, is the present owner of the estate, and has made a careful restoration of the old hall. Mr. Hutton is one of the oldest members of the Surtees Society, and among the many favours which the editor has received at his hands, the permission to inspect the ancient title deeds of Walburn is not the least.

† Francis Lassells was a member of the house of Brackenbergh. Among the Walburn deeds there is a grant made to him by Ralph Burgh of Garriston (who was also a relative of the testator), of certain lands in Hunton, which formerly belonged to Richard Sedgwick of Walburn, dated August 1, 1565.

bequeathe to my cosen Homfraye Sigeswike* fower pounds in moneye, to pray for my soule. Allso I will and bequeathe to my syster Bourghe of Garestonn v marks, and to Elizabethe Conyers fyve marks, to pray for my soule. Allso I will and bequeathe to Elizabeth Walker towe kyne and xls. in moneye, to pray for my soule. And to everye one of my servants, which shall serve me in my house at the day of my deathe, one yewe and a lambe, to pray for my soule. The residue of all my goodds and cattells, my detts and funerall expenses discharged, I will geve and bequethe to Elizabeth my wiffe, whom I make my sole executrix, so that she do keepe her widowe, requiring her therwithe to helpe my daughters children, as nature and charitie shall move her, at her discrecion and pleasure. In witnes whearof to this my testament I have setto my seals and subscribed my name, the xxvijth day of November, in the yeaere of our Lord God a thousand five hundreth fyftie and fyve.

* About this branch of the family we have but little information. In 1550 Ann Siggiswicke wills herself to be buried at Melsonbye, if she dies there. She mentions her sons Humfray and Sir Thomas Siggiswicke, and leaves "to the lady prioresse a you and a lame." The lady prioress was Christiana Burgh, the superior of the lately-dissolved nunnery of Nunkilling, in the East Riding. Her will occurs hereafter, and it contains further notices of the family of Sedgwick. Eleanor daughter of Humphrey Sedgwick married William Conyers of Marske, and Elizabeth Conyers, who is mentioned by the testator, was probably a relative of his wife.

† Christopher Place of Halnaby, esq., was the second son of Rowland Place of Halnaby, esq., by Anne daughter of Sir Edward Radclyffe of Cartington, and married Alice daughter of Nicholas Tempest, esq., of Stella, by whom he left five daughters and co-heiresses. His will, which is very long, and generally uninteresting, makes several additions to the family pedigree, for which I must refer the reader to the History of Durham, iii. 236.

‡ Lawrence Doddsworth, whom the testator calls his servant, was a tenant of his at Halnaby Grange, and may, perhaps, have been a tutor in his family. He was the eldest son of George Doddisworth of Halnaby Grange, who is also alluded to in the will before us. He took holy orders and became rector of Gateshead, to which cure he was, no doubt, promoted by the Bishop of Durham, at the request of the family of Place. He married Catherine daughter of Richard Dodsworth of Thornton Watlass, esq., and left issue by her, 1. Christopher; 2. Edward, probably the founder of the house of Barton; and other children. In his will, dated 4 June, 1571, he mentions his kinsman Mr. Robert Place of Dynsdaill, and his brother-in-law Mr. John Doddisworth of Watlass, and leaves his farmhold at Halnaby Grange to his wife for her life. The conclusion of his will is as follows: "My dere and lovinge flocke I comitt to the great shiphard Jesus Christe, whome I desyre to stir up unto them a lawfull and godlie pasture: farewell once agayne my deare and lovinge flocke in the Lorde, to whose onlie providence I comitte you, myselfe, and all myne."

* The will of the testator's sister-in-law, Elizabeth widow of George Place and sister of John Lord Conyers of Hornby, has been already given.

Inprimis Jhon Laiton o'the halle † xvj li. xiiij s. iiij d.

* Roger Laton of West Laton married Elizabeth daughter of George Lightfoot, and left by her five children, three of whom are mentioned in his will. The testator died on the 4th of December, 1556. This will, which is probably his own composition, is valuable for the quaintness and exceeding simplicity of its expressions. The family of Laton is now represented by the present Archdeacon of Richmond, who, among several other memorials of his ancestors, is in possession of a valuable account of the family, the elaborate compilation of one of its members.

† Francis Laton of West Laton, the only son of the testator, was sixteen years old at his father's death. He married Anne, second daughter of John Laton of West Laton, by Beatrice, daughter of Richard Sedgwick of Walborne, esq. and left by her a large family. He died on the 29th of October, 1609, and was buried with his wife in Ravenswath Church, where his monument is still remaining in the north aisle. His second son, Francis Laton of Rawdon, was keeper of the jewels to Charles II., and died at Whitehall in 1662, at the age of 82. He was the father of Henry Laton of Rawdon, who was the compiler of the interesting genealogical account of his family which has been already alluded to.

‡ Hercules Lightfoot of Newsham, the brother-in-law of the testator, was a member of a very respectable family of yeomen, which afterwards settled at Gilling, Melsonby, and Barton. He married Anne daughter of Ralph Laton of West Laton, and makes

LXXXIII. AGNES SMYTHSON TESTAMENT OF GATERLEY.

In the name of God, Amen. In the yere of our Lord God a thowsand fyve hundreth fyftie and sex, the tent day of Decembe, I Angnes Smythson* of Gayterley in the pariche of Myddelton his will 4 December, 1573, in which he leaves to his brother-in-law, John Laton of West Laton, gentleman, a covered cup, and appoints him his executor, to dispose of his lands for the benefit of his children after the decease of Anne his wife.

* Another will of a member of the widely-branching family of Smithson. She was, in all probability, connected with the house of Moulton. Her will contains some valuable bequests.

Tyas in the countie of Yorke, hole in body and good of remembrance, maketh my last will and testament after this maner following. First I gyve and bequith my soule to Almyghtie God, to our blyssed Lady Saint Mary, and to all the company of heaven, and my body to be buryed in the parich churche of Myddelton aforesaid within the qwhere ny unto where my husband Robert Smythson lyeth, and I will all the dewtie belonging the churche be gyven with favor. Item to Nicholas Smythson my sonne Thomas Smythson sonne twentie marks, one great brasse pott, one calderon, one baysyn, one lator, and one paire of beads of awmer and currell with one ring and one Jesus of silver. Item I bequith to my sonne thre doughters, that is, Elyner, Agnes, and Kateryne Smythson, to every one of theme fyve pounds thirtene shillings and fower pennes. Item I gyve to the foresaid Elyner and Agnes one paire of long beads of awmer, with silver gawdies and viij. rings of silver; and to aither of theme one belt with buckell and pendant of silver. Item I gyve to the aforesaid Agnes Smythson one paire of sylver croukes. Item I bequith to a preste to say masse and devyne servesse at Myddelton Tias churche for my soule, my husband's, all my elders soules, and for all crysten soules one halfe yere fower marks, the whiche preste shalbe whome the vicare will have to be there. The residew of all my goods moveable and not moveable, my detts paid, I gyve to Thomas Smythson my sonne* and to Nicholas Smythson his sonne, whome I make and orden to be myne executors. Also I desier and pray Richard Crosby of Richmond † and Thomas Smythson my brother to be supervisours of this my last will and testament, and se it be donne and fulfilled as my trust is in theme. Item I gyve to ather of theme vj s. viij d. Witnesses hereof, Sir Nicholas Smythson vicar, James Thomson, Thomas Yourke, with other moo.

* Thomas Smithson of Gaterley, the son of the testatrix, makes his will 21 May, 1573. He leaves his farm in High Gaterley, which he held under Mr. Francis Bulmer, to Anthony his younger son, excepting the part he had sublet to Leonard Smithson of Moulton. He also mentions his son Nicholas, his bastard son John, and his daughters Allyne Thompson, Agnes and Katherine Smithson.

† Richard Crosby of Richmond, auditor, was a kinsman of the Smithsons. His granddaughter Agnes Wilde married Leonard Smithson, who stands at the head of the pedigree of the house of Moulton. His own will is dated in 1559, and will be given hereafter, together with some more particulars respecting his family.

LXXXIV. ROBERT BROWNE OF ARKENDAILL.

March 2, 1556. LXXXVII. TESTAMENTUM JOHANNIS FUTHROP DE HIPISWELL ARMIGERI.

In Dei nomine, Amen. The xxij. daye of March, in the yeare of our Lord God 1556, wytnesses that I, John Fulthrope of Hipswell esquier,* hole of mynd and seyecke of bodye, making my wyll began to persecute the paternal relatives of his daughter-in-law by raising suits against them, and in some cases even proceeding to open violence. He was always deeply in debt, and in order to extricate himself from his difficulties he leased out the inheritance of his son's wife. See Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica, vol. v.

* The testator was the head of a very ancient and considerable family which had been settled at Hipswell near Richmond for many generations. He married Jane daughter of Thomas Wharton, esq., and sister of Thomas the first Lord Wharton, and left by her two daughters and co-heirs. Anne his eldest daughter married, first, Francis Wandesford son and heir of Christopher Wandesford of Kirklington, esq., by whom she left a large family; and, second, Christopher Neville of Kirby Moorside, esq. Cecily, his second daughter, married Christopher Wandesford, a younger brother of the above-named Francis Wandesford. The will of the testator's widow, and that of his son-in-law Francis Wandesford, will occur hereafter. A considerable portion of the and last testament, after this maner folowinge. First I bequyethe my soule unto Allmyghty God, and to his mother our Ladye Saint Marye, and to all the holye companye of heavne, and my bodye to be buryed in Catrecke church, neyre unto my father and my mother. Also I doo bequie the at the daye of my buryell to everye preast within the parishe xij d. And to other preasts without the parishe viij d., and to clarkes ij d. and to poure folks pense a pece; and one dyner at my place for my frends and neighbours that do offer with me. Also I do bequie the to my sonn Frances Wansforde Waytwythe Grainge,* and all that belongs thereto. Also I doo bequie the to everye servant within my house x s. a pese. Also I doo bequie the to Sir Wylliam Wryght x s. Also I doo bequie the to Sir Robert Carter x s. Also I doo bequie the to Christofer Fulthrop and Symon Fulthrope, my brother sons, x. marks rent in Waithwaith, and in the newe close, duryng theyre natural lyfe, whiche rent is in the holdinge of my tennaunts of Waithwaith and Richard Freare. Also I do bequie the to Frauncis Fulthrop ij li. vj s. viij d. duryng his naturall lyfe, in the houldinge of Christofer Atkinson and James Atkinson at Sandbeke, eyther of theme xxxij s. iiij d. Also I do bequie the to Antonye Fulthrope, ij li. vj s. viij d. duryng his naturall lyfe in fower closes lyinge of the east side of the lonyng betwext Richmond and Hypswell, whiche closen is in the houldinge of Hew Bankesse wyfe, Charles Johnson, Rafe Paeocke, Mathew Hurd, and vj s. viij d. of Christofer Atkinson and James Atkinson, and ij s. viij d. in one close in the west syde of Lyngus close, in the holdinge of James Hirde. Also I do bequie the to James Fulthrope ij li. vj s. viij d. duryng his naturall lyfe, xx s. in the holdinge of Wylliam Cawart, and xx s. in the Corne closes in the howldinge of John Tippinge and Christofer Poulaye, and x s. of Carnegill close in the houldinge of Cuthbart Kearton wyfe, and xij s. iiij d. in a parcell of the Oxe close that is in the houldinge of Roberte Stevenson, and ij s. iiij d. of Renard Binxc. And also old hall at Hipswell, with the offices attached to it, is still standing, though we regret to say that, even within these last few years, much of the old building has been removed. The fragment that remains possesses considerable architectural beauty, and may be assigned to the middle of the fifteenth century. Above a handsome oriel facing the south is the cross moline of the Fulthorpes, and above the door of the porch are the initials G. W. (George Wandisford) and the date 1593. The house was originally moated, and the remains of the ancient terraces and gardens with which it was surrounded may even now be traced out. It is at present converted into a farmhouse by the family of Wandisford, who are still the possessors of their forefathers' lands.

* Waitwith Grange was part of the possessions of the dissolved monastery of Easby. The testator was also the farmer of the tithes of corn and hay in Scotton and Appleton, which had formerly belonged to the Priory of St. Martin near Richmond, and the owner of other church lands.

I do bequethe to the aforesaid James Fulthroppe iiij li. in monye. Also I do bequethe to John Fulthroppe iij li. vj s. viij d. duringe his naturall lyfe, lyinge by Stertfurthe hall, in the howldinge of James Blaydes, provided alwayes that these aforesaid Christofer Fultheruppe, Simon, Francis, Anthone, James, and John to receve these aforesaid rents at the dayes accustomed, Martinmes and Witsontyde, without anye other profetes belonginge the aforesaid lands; provided always, if therbe anye good man within the cuntrie that will tayke upon him to amende Catherigge Brigge, I will give to the mendinge iij li. vj s. viij d.* Also I do bequethe to Jean Fulthroppe my wife the thirde of all my lands unbequethed and all my purchase lands, excepte Wethwethe Grange, and iiij. marks in Richmond, dowe unto the prests of Cathericke. Also I do mayke Jean Futheruppe my wyfe my full executrices of all my goods bothe moveable and unmoveable, and my Lorde Whorton to be supervisure of this my last will and testament, and to se this my will and testament be fulfilled in all maner of legaces and bequests, and for his payentayking I do bequethe to him vi li. xiiij s. iiij d. The rest of my goods unbequethed I do give to Jean Fulthrope my wyfe, whom I mayke my full executrix, my debds payed, my funerall expences made, and this my last will and testament fulfilled. To wytnesse wheareof Robert Stevenson, Christofer Bowe, Thomas Burrall, and Robert Garwhete, with other moo.

* Other bequests to the mending of Catterick Bridge will occur shortly.

† The testator had been the "incumbent" of the chauntry of St. John in the church of Wath, which was founded by John Appulbye, clerk, in 1332. In the survey of Edward VI. he is stated to be "of the aige of lxviij. years, well lerned, of honest conversacion and qualities, having no other promociions but the onelye revenewe of his sayd chauntrye." He seems to have retired upon his pension, and to have taken with him the goods and ornaments belonging to his chauntry, which are valued in the survey at 2l. 13s.: he directs them, however, to be duly restored. He was no doubt a member of a very respectable family seated at Middleton Quernhow, in the parish of Wath.

* Mathew Phillip of Watheote, near Richmond, and of Morton Tinnmouth, County Palatine, married Isabella, sole daughter and heiress of George Parkinson of Beamond Hill. He became owner of Morton in right of his wife's mother, Agnes Morton, one of the two daughters and co-heirs of John Morton of Morton Tinnmouth. Margaret, the other daughter, married . . . Foster, and her son Henry is probably the son-in-law whom the testator mentions below. This will makes very considerable additions to the pedigree of Phillip of Morton Tinnmouth, and goes far to connect it with the house of Brignal, which is enveloped in such a veil of mystery and enchantment. The will of the arch-magician James Phillip will be given hereafter. Watheote formerly belonged to the abbey of St. Agatha at Easby.

* A most affecting will. The testatrix, who had apparently just lost her husband, makes her will in anticipation of dying in childbed, and her provisions for her child are very interesting and simple. She seems to have been a member of the family of Carus, and to have been possessed of considerable worldly wealth. Her fear of death appears to have been but too well founded, as she must have died very soon after the date of this will, which does not seem to have been ever proved.

XCV. MR. JOHNE LATON TESTAMENT, PARISH OF WELL.

In the nayme of God, Amen. The sexte day of Apryll in the yere off our Lord God M.cccc.lviij. I John Laton of Snape Low Parke* — I gyff unto Marjorye Laton my wyfte such lands and tenements as I have purchased within the lordshipp and grounds att Skulterskelf, and Osmoderlay within the countye of Yorke, and after her dyseas, the same lands and tenements to remayne unto John Laton my eldest son, and to his heysr for ever. And I gyf unto the said Margery my wyfe all myn hooll intreste,

* John Laton of Snape Low Park was descended from a younger son of the family of Laton of Sexhowe. He was the son of William Laton, who died 6 Henry VIII., by Margery daughter of Thomas Montford, and having married Margery daughter of . . . Dodsworth of Thornton Watlass, left by her four sons and a daughter. All his sons died childless. He was probably a tenant at Snape under Lord Latimer. The will of his wife will occur afterwards.

ryghte, and tytle which I have for th'one halfe off an oxgane land at Newby upon Wyske for terme of certayn yers yit nott expyred. And I gyf unto my said wife and to John Laton myn eldeste son, and to the over-lyffer of them, all my hooill ryghte, title, and intereste of all and syngler such yerely annuities as I have att any tyme heretofore opteyned and bought of any person or persons eyther att Snape or Skampston within the said countye of Yorke — And I wyll that the said Marjorie my wyfe to have and occupie for terme of her lyfe all my fermynge both tythe; and oder which I have at Well, Tiddellfude, Est Harellysesey, and att Ilton in Mashamshire, and the corne tythes for the kyngre parte att Karethropp, with all maner comodyties and profetts to them or any of them belongyng. And I gyf unto my son Christofer Laton v li. over and besyde his bairne parte and my best horse. And the reste of all my yers of my farmynge at Well, Ilton, and Carethropp tythe forsesaid, after my said wyfe disceas. And I wyll and desyre that my said son Christofer may have the maryage of Isabell Mennyll the king's ward, afore she come to xvj. yers old, or ells to eyther off my two oder sones George or Herry Laton, and yf ytt chaunce ye said Isabell utterly to refuse all my said sones, then I will that her mariage be soold afore her said age of xvj. yers, and the said Christofer Laton to have the full halfe therof towards his preferment of mariage or oderwyse, and resydue of the value of her said mariage equally to be devided emongs all oder my said sones and my said wyfe. And for all maner rentts and other yerely profetts comyng or growyng of all the said Isabell is landds to be receyved yerely by my said wiffe or her assyngnes, and the moyte therof she to retayne to her own proper use, and th'oder moyte to be dysposed and devided after her dyscescon to and emongs all oder our children. And I gyf to our younger sones George and Herry Laton v li. in money to eyther off them over and above ther bairn parts. And I gif to Agnes Laton my doghter xli. towards her maryage and in full payment of her bayrn part. And I gyf her also vj. sylver spones and a fetherbed wyth all things therunto perteynyng. And I wyll she have a cowe and a whie' as gode in value as those were that her grandaym my moder and her cosyn Ane Lyster* gaffe

* Anne Lyster, who was probably own sister to the testator's wife, was the wife of Richard Lyster, gentleman. In her will made at Masham, July 3, 1552, she directs her body to be "earded" in the church of our Lady at Masham. She leaves to Richard Beckwith "a cowe called young ablack;" to Margaret Beckwith "iiij kye called flowreld, old ablak, white fote with her calf and a tagged whye with calf;" to her sister Dodisworth her best gowne and hat; to her son John's wife a pair of corall beads; to Dorothy Parker a pair of famber beads and a velvet patlet; to Dorothy Dodsworth her best basin and her best charger; to her daughter Beckwith her syde saddle; and mentions her brother Anthony Dodsworth. [Prob. 28 July, 6 Eliz.]

her, with resonable satisfaccion for the calfs I have had of them. And I gif to John Laton my eldest son my flowr off gold with a stone in y^t, and xx. nobles in money, besyds his bairn parte. And I wyll that after my wyffs desceas my said son John Laton to have all myn farmyngs at Sidal, Est Haresley, boithes tythes and all oder — and my said wyf to paye hym xxvj s. viij d. yerely at Mertilmes and Pentycost by evyn porcons duryng tyme off her occupation of the farmyngs, or any oder person or persons — and I gyff to Isabell Mennell my best mere, a fetherbed, a bolster, a par sheets, a par blankets, ij. coverletts, and a counterpoynt. I gyff unto my Lord Latymer xl s.* I gyff to th'endmendmentt of the churche warke at Well, and for my lying in the churche there x s. Also I gyf to Mr. Vycar there x s. C. RICARDI BOWES ARMIGERI TESTAMENTUM.

In the name of God, Amen, 11th August, 1558. I Richard Bowes of South Cowton, esquier,* of hole and perfite mynd — My body to be buried in some convenient sepulere nye unto the

* The testator was the fourth son of Sir Ralph Bowes of Streatlam by Margery daughter and co-heir of Richard Conyers of South Cowton, esquire, who brought the estate of South Cowton into her husband's family. Like many of his ancestors, he was fortunate enough to secure an heiress for his wife, Elizabeth, one of the two daughters and co-heirs of Roger Aske of Aske, esquire. To this lady he was married in 1522 or 1523, and had by her a family of fifteen children, among whom were the famous knight and marshal Sir George Bowes, and Robert Bowes the ambassador to Scotland. In 1548 and 1550 we find the testator holding the important post of Captain of Norham Castle, and it is very probable that the reputation of the father was one of the chief causes of the son's mission into Scotland. On the death of his brother Sir Robert he became the representative of the male blood of the house of Bowes, but he only survived him a short time.

Item I give to the curate of the said churche whear my bodye shalbe buried one new riall of gold. Item I will that my funeralls be celebrated and ordered by the discrecion of executors, with the advice and counsaill of my frends. Item I will that before myne executors do meddle anything withe the administracion of my goods, cattells, or moveables, aither to their owne use, or to the performance of any of my bequests (excepted the charges of my funeralls and thes forsaid bequests heretofore mentioned) thay taike suche ordre with all the gentilmen that stonday bounden to the king and quenes maiesties by recognisaunce in the Exheker for me for the detts of my laite brother Sir Robert Bowes, knyght* decessed, as the said gentilmen and every of theym shall think good and sufficient for discharge of them towards the king and the quene, either els delyver unto them suche somes of money as shalbe able to pay and discharge them, so that they be saved harmeless agaynst the king and quene for the cause afforesaid. And the said sommes of money to be taken furste out of the hole goods, cattells, and moveables, before any further administracon or meddling with them or any of them. Item I will that all my detts and all the detts of my said brother Sr Robert be paid in as convenient tyme as reasonable canne be; and if my goods, cattells, and moveables will not extende so farr over and above the expenses of my funeralls, my forsaid bequests and payment of the detts dewe unto the kinge and quene on delyverance of the foresaid somes of money for discharging of the forsaid somes of money for discharging of the forsaid gentilmen, then I requyre my sonnie George Bowes,† that in discharge of my conscience and

* Sir Robert Bowes, an elder brother of the testator, held many important offices under the Crown and see of Durham. He was eschaetor of Durham by patent 16th July, 1529-1543; member of the Council of the North; lord warden of the East and Middle Marches, in which capacity he drew up two careful surveys of the borders, the first in 1542, and the second in 1550. On the 25th September, 1551, he was sworn of the Privy Council to Edward VI., and in 1552 he was appointed Master of the Rolls. On the death of his master he joined the party which supported Lady Jane Grey; but he appears to have soon regained the favour of Mary, for on the 27th April, 1554, he received a present of 100*l.* from her, and was sent to superintend some military operations at Berwick, where he died within the year. His inventory, which tells us of his gold chain, which was valued at 109*l.* 17*s.*, and his splendid array, has been already printed by the Surtees' Society. He married Alice daughter of Sir James Metcalfe of Nappa, and had by her four sons, who all died young. In his private life he appears to have been dissolute and profuse, as he died deeply in debt.

Item I will for that I have receyved certeyne somes of money of my tennants of Aske, Cowlton, and of Robert Hungiswell, and have therfor maid unto them no sure estate of ther fermholds according unto my promysse maid unto them, that they and eche of them that thus haith given unto me money upon the consideracon afforesaid have, holde, occupie, and enyoic their fermolds for the space and terme promised and limited unto them according unto my said promise, whiche terme and space I have declared unto my son George, and taken his faithfull promis to give and grannte to my said tennants the hole terme as was agreed betwixt them and me according to my graunte and promice. Item I will and bequest that the expensis of funeralls by my executors diffrayed, my forsaid bequests to the churche and curate performyd, the detts due unto the king and quene, and all other my detts with the detts of my brother Sir Robert paid, my four daughters, Meriall, Elizabeth, Margaret, and Jane,* have of my said goods, cattells, and moveables given to eche of them towards ther marriedges one hundreth marks a pece, so that they marie according to the advice, mynds, and counsaill of my two sones George and Robert, and if any of them do refuse so to do and marie contrarie to ther assent and mynds, then I will that her poreion thus bequested to her to be taken frome her and distributed among th'others daughters whiche at that present tyme shall happen to be sole and unmarried. And further yf my goods shall not sterche and extend hereto, then I require my said son George of his goodnes towards his susters and fatherlic love y^t he oweth towards me, to performe and fulfill my request and will in this behalf, wiche he haith lyke wise promised me to do. Item I give to my daughter Briget Housley half a dosyn of silver spones. Item I give to my daughter Anne Vincent half a dosyn of silver spones. Item I give to my daughter Dorothey Bowes one ring of gold with a turkes. Item I give to my daughter Anne Bowes one portingell of gold. * The testator had as many as ten daughters, of whom Bridget married Thomas Hussy of Lincolnshire; Elizabeth married George Bainbrigg of Snotterton, County palatine; Anne married Marmaduke Vincent of Great Smeaton; Muriel married John Jackson of Bedale; Margery married the celebrated John Knox; and Margaret who married, first, Thomas Middleton of Barnardcastle, and second, Ambrose Birkbeck of Great Chilton. It is curious to observe that the father makes no allusion to his daughter Margery; the offence which she had given him by her marriage with the Scotch reformer was, no doubt, still rankling in his mind. For a further account of the match, see Sharp's History of the Rebellion, p. 372.

And further if my said cosyn wilbe ordred and folow the advice, mynde, and counsaill of my said son George in his livinge and demeanoure, then I will and require my said son to maike hym sure for term of his lyff naturall of twentie nobles by yere in suche place as my said son shall thinke most mete, wherto my said sone haith assented and promised me so to doo. And I give to Christofer Sigiswicke my servante a yong gray gelding. Item I give to William Bayn-brigg a young gray gelding. Item I give to my cousing Robert Bowes, base sone of Sir George Bowes knight, deceased, a stagg of the price of xls. Item I ordeyne, constitute, and maike my two sonnes George and Robert my jointe executors of this my last will and testament, and to them committith the disposicon and administracon of all my goods, cattells, and moveables, willing and in God's name requiring them for the fatherlie love and zele thei owe unto me to se payd unto everye one of my servants all such sommes of money as I am owing, praying them to dispose my goods and cattells and to pay unto everye one of my servants all such somes of money as I am owing to them or any of theyme for their wages behinde. And to everye one of my servants I give xx s. over and above the wages which I owe to them; and whereas I am nowe at this present unable (according to my harts desyer) to recompence them for ther service doone bothe to my said brother Sir Robert and to myself, I do therfor require bothe my said sonnes to be goode unto all my said servants, to helpe and releif them so farre as they can to the uttermost of ther power, and as I have receyved bothe ther promisses according to ther full powers to fulfill, do, and performe this my last will and testa-

* Robert Bowes, the testator's younger son, was treasurer of Berwick and ambassador to Scotland for nearly twenty-one years: a portion of his official correspondence as ambassador there has been published by the Surtees' Society. He appears to have been quite worn out by his duties, and to have fallen deeply into debt; and, indeed, we cannot be surprised at his longing to return to the green pastures and quiet woods of Aske. "I shall ether purchase my libertye (he writes in 1596 to his nephew Sir William Bowes), or else at least lycence to come into and remayne at my house for . . . tyme, to dispose of and put in order my broken estate and causes before the end of my dayes, which in the present infirmetyes and weakness, oppressing me and my worne body, cannot long be deferred." But, like many other statesmen of Elizabeth who had grown gray in the service of their mistress, he was entirely neglected, and he died at Berwick on the 16th November, 1597, and was buried there. He was twice married: first to his cousin Anne daughter and co-heir of Sir George Bowes of Dalden, by whom he left a son Ralph, the founder of the branch at Barnes; and, secondly, to Eleanor daughter of Sir Richard Musgrave of Eden Hall, who died s. p. in 1623, and was buried in Easby Church.

* Thomas Hussey was a member of a respectable Lincolnshire family, and was induced to take a part in the rebellion of 1569. He was saved from the consequences of his treason through the influence of his brother-in-law Sir George Bowes.

† A member, no doubt, of the family of Sayer of Jolby. His will was made at the close of the reign of Queen Mary, and it is curious to mark the alteration which has been made in the final bequest, as it shows that a new state of things had sprung up before the death of the testator.

* Widow of Richard Duckett of Grayrigg, in the parish of Kendall, esq. In her will, which is dated on the 5th of October, 1588, she mentions James and Anne Duckett, Walter Duckett and Dorothy his daughter, James Duckett and his sons, Dorothy her sister, and her three sons, Randall, James, and Walter Duckett.

† The testator was the head of a considerable family of gentry that had been seated at Great Smeton for many generations. He married a Conyers of Hutton Wiske, and left by her two sons, John and Marmaduke.

‡ John Vincent, who was apparently the eldest son, married Eleanor Crathorne of Crathorne, and died without issue.

To Rauphe Vincent my baise begotten son* the some of iij. li. vj. s. viij. d. yerelie out of my manor of Smeton for his naturall lyff, provided allways that if the said Raufe be promoted by mariage or otherwyse unto the yerelie value of ten pounds for terme of his lyff that then the said annuitie of five merks to sease. — I will that five marks yerely shall be taken oute of all my lands in Smeton till the some of fortie pounds be fullie content and rune towards the payments of my detts if my goods will not extend thereto; my detts paid, I bequethe the rest that remaynith of the saide fortie pounds to Jane Vincent towards her mariage, or in defaulte of her to Ellen her syster; thes be the daughters of my son Marmaduke Vincent.† — The residue to my sons Marmaduke and John Vincent, whom I make my executors. * Occurs as rector of Great Smeaton in 1575. On the 5th of November, 1622, Jane, his widow, administers to his goods, which are valued at the small sum of 27*l.* 7*s.* 2*d.* He left two sons, Ralph, rector of Allhallows, York, and Marmaduke.

† Marmaduke Vincent married Anne, daughter of Richard Bowes of Aske and South Cowton, esq., and left by her two daughters and co-heirs: Jane, who married William Vincent of Pickleton, in Leicestershire, and Ellen, who married Thomas Beverley of Selby, and died in 1636. The family of Beverley occupied the lands of the Vincents in Smeaton during the greater part of the seventeenth century.

‡ Lancelot Eshe was probably connected with the family of Eshe of Skertingham, in the county of Durham. He appears to have been the owner of considerable landed property, and was the lessee of all the chantry lands within the parish of Patrick Brompton. This will, which is curiously written, and still more curiously expressed, is probably the testator's own composition.

* William Willy, who was in all probability connected with the Durham family of that name, had been dean of Middleham for more than twenty years. He appears to have been a successful temporizer, and to have weathered all the storms of that eventful period. In the first of Edward VI. he had a pardon granted to him for heresies, &c., and on the 18th of January, 1552, he leases his rectory of Middleham to Thomas Clapham for six years. After the accession of Elizabeth, when he saw no probability of any return to the old religion, he prudently directs the relics of St. Akylda, which he had in his possession, to be sold and applied to the purposes of his church.

* Francis Wandisford of Hipswell, esq., was the eldest son and heir of Christopher Wandisford of Kirklington, esq., by Anne daughter of Sir John Norton of Norton. He married Anne, the eldest of the two daughters and co-heirs of John Fulthorpe of Hipswell, esq., and in right of his wife became owner of the estate of Hipswell, near Richmond, which is still in the possession of his descendants. His inventory, which is given entire, contains a full enumeration of all his great wealth, yet he appears to have been considerably in debt. He had been a large purchaser of church lands, and like many other possessors of ecclesiastical property his ill-gotten wealth had done him no good. At his death his estate was much involved; and his wife, by a marriage with Christopher Neville, who was attainted for treason in 1569, entailed great distress and misery on herself and her family, and it was with great difficulty that the family property was saved from confiscation. The whole of the will is in the writing of the testator, in a fine bold manly hand.

† Christopher, afterwards Sir Christopher Wandisford, married Elizabeth daughter of Sir George Bowes, to whose instrumentality he owed the recovery of the estates of his family, which had been endangered by the treason of his father-in-law Christopher Neville. He left a large family, and died in 1592. John, his younger brother, occurs at Lincoln's Inn, in 1557. He died childless.

‡ Christopher Wandisford, a younger brother of the testator, married Cecily, the younger of the two daughters and co-heirs of John Fulthorpe, esq., and secondly Anne daughter of . . . Thwaites of Marston, esq., and widow of Francis Lascelles. He left issue by both wives.

Item I wyll that my brother Henry Wandysforde* duryng hys lyfe nayturall shall hayve my iij. mylles att Kyrtlyngeton with all that parcell of grownd that belongs y^rto now in the occupation of Robert Tonson mylner of the same towne, for and consyderation of a newitie or a yearlye rent gevyn to hym by my mother. Also I desyer my cosyngs Mr. Rychard Norton and Mr. Francys Norton,† and my uncle parson,‡ and my uncle Mychaell Wandysforde, my brother Cristofer, and my brother Henry Wandysforde, and my uncle Gyles Fultrope§ to be my supervisors of y^s my last wyll and testament, and to se thys my last and trewe wyll performyd and dischargyd for the weltht of my sowle. The resydeu of all my goodes, my detts payed, my funerall expenses maid, I geve to Anne my wyffe, and John Wandysforde my younger son, whome I maike juntly together executores and ministratores of y^{is} my last wyll and testament. In presence of thes persones: Francys Spense, Robert Conyers, Thomas Rawson, Robert Langestafe.

The INVENTORY of all the goods moveable and unmoveable of Francis Wandisfourd esqwyer deceased, being and remaining at Hipswell and at other his inheritanc and the vth daie of June in the firste yere of the reigne of our sovereign ladie Elizabeth by the grace of God quene of England, France, and Ireland, defendor of the faith, etc. anno Domini 1559, prased by Percyvall Philip, William Askewe, John Dodisworth gentilmen, and Thomas Medilton yeoman.

* Of Henry Wandisford all we know is that he took a strong part in suppressing the insurrection of 1569.

† Richard and Francis Norton were sons of Richard Norton, the great leader in the rising of the North, and Susan, daughter of Richard Lord Latimer. Of Richard nothing is known, but Francis, "old Norton's" eldest son, took a vigorous part in the rebellion and finally escaped to Flanders, where, after making several vain attempts to secure a pardon, he pined away in exile, a humble pensioner on the bounty of the King of Spain.

§ Giles Fulthorpe was an uncle of the wife of the testator, Anne Fulthorpe.

CXV. FRANCES CATERIGG TESTAMENT OF STANWICK.

In the name of God, Amen. This present xxix. day of the monthe of August, which ys in the yeare of our Lord 1559, I Francys Catheryke of Stanwyggs,‡ within the pariche of Saynt John's in the countie of Yorke, gentylman, beinge of perfytye mynde and memorye, thanks be unto Almyghtie God, mayks this

* These two boys had been probably brought up at the grammar-school at Northallerton, which was at this period in considerable repute, and which long sustained its reputation.

† A preamble which presents a charming picture of earnest and unaffected piety in all its freshness and simplicity.

‡ The testator was a member of a very respectable family which had been long situated at Stanwick. He was a younger son of William Catterick by Margaret, daughter of John Saltmarsh of Saltmarsh, esq., and was never married. The Cattericks were always famous for their breed of horses, and it was probably owing to the immediate vicinity of Gaterley Moor, the great race-course of the North of England, that they paid such attention to their stud. We find their horses frequently alluded to. In 1595 John Garthe of East Layton leaves to his "landlord, Mr. John Catherick, the gray colte that was under the mear I bought off my old maister his father:" and in his Inventory, among many other horses, he has, "a gray stagg, y^t was of Mr. Catterick mear," which is valued at 3*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*. ; and "a white mear with a colt foil off Mr. Catterick's breid," valued at 3*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*. The horse-keepers of Sir Cuthbert Collingewoods owe him 3*l*.

my last wyll and testament after thys manner folowinge. Fyrst I bequethe my solle unto Almyghtie God, my creatorre and redemer, and to oure Laydie Saynte Marye, and to all the blessed companie of heven, and my bodye to be bured within the cancell of Saynte Johnes. Inprimis, I bequethe to my brother Anthonye Catheryke * xx li. and my best mayre, to be the supervisor of this my last wyll. Item I bequethe unto Robert Lambert † one of my best geldyngs. Item I bequethe unto Roger Mennell another of my best geldyngs. Item I bequethe unto my syster Elezabeth Cathericke xl s. and my amblinge mayre that was bought of Margarett Ovyngton. Item I bequethe unto Thomas Catheryke a foolle of the same mayre. Item I bequethe unto Mergere Mennell my yonge whyt mayre and xx li. Item I bequethe unto Grace Lambert my downed mayre and xx li. Item I bequethe unto Henry Rome x s. Item I bequethe unto Thomas Hynde x s. Item I bequethe unto Mawde Chature x s. Item I bequethe unto Ellynge Pyborne x s. Also the resydew of all my lands and goods unbequithed I geve unto my brother George Catheryke, ‡ whome I mayke my holle executure. These wytnesses, Sir Steven Leyfchylde, Wylliam

* Anthony Catterick, the elder brother of the testator, married Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Roland Tempest of Holmeside, County Palatine, esq., and left by her a son Thomas, fatuus, and three daughters and co-heirs; Margery married Roger Mennell of North Kilvington, the founder of the line of Dalton, Grace married Robert Lambeth of Owton, and Dorothy married . . . Serope. From the frequent and affectionate mention we find made of him in the Richmondshire wills, we may fairly conclude that he was an excellent example of the old English gentleman.

† Robert Lambert of Owton, County Palatine, esq., very narrowly escaped execution, and lost all his lands, for the active part he took in the rebellion of 1569. His father-in-law joined Sir George Bowes, and he was staying at his house at Stanwick, with the intention of following him to Barnardcastle, when he was forcibly taken out of his bed by the rebels and obliged to accompany them. He had a large family of children by his wife Grace Catterick.

Manfeylde, Anthony Wylde, John Shawe, and Francys Kylborne, with others. [Prob. ult. Nov. 1560.]

CXVI. ELSABETHE WITHAM TESTAMENT.

In the name of God, Amen. 12 September 1559, I Elezabethe Wytham of Bratonbye within the pariche of Barton in y^e countye of Yorke, wedowe* — my bodye to be bured within the church of Saynt Cuthbert nye unto my husbände. Item I bequethe unto Thomas Cowrewen and hys wyffe ather of them a Franshe crowne. Item I bequethe unto Clarye Welden a cowe. Item I bequethe unto Anne Welden a cowe. Item I bequethe unto Wylliam Wytham wyffe my last mayd gowne. Item I bequeth unto my brother Welden † wyffe a blake gowne welted with velvett. Item I bequethe unto Robert Hobson wyfe a blak kyrtle. Item I bequethe unto Robert Welles wyfe another blake kyrtle. Item I bequethe unto Mr. Anthony Catheryke halfe a angell. Item I bequethe unto Wylliam Witham a Franshe crown, whome I make the supervyours of my wyll. Also the resydewe of all my goods unbequied I geve unto my brother sonne Edwarde Welden, ‡ whome I mayke my full executor. In wytnesse hereof, Mr. George Catheryke, Sir Thomas Wylson, Robert Wylde, Peter Mansell, and Anthony Wylde.

* The testatrix was the widow of Mathew Witham of Brettanby, whose will we have before given. Her maiden name was probably Weldon. For more particulars about her family see the wills of her husband and her son-in-law William Witham, which are given above.

† The Weldons were a family of gentry, probably of Northumbrian extraction, which settled at Colborne, in the parish of Catterick. John Weldon of Colborne, gentleman, who was perhaps the brother of the testatrix, by his will dated on the last of April, 1563, leaves to his son Edward "a sygnet of gold weing xl s., paing to iche of his thre brethren (Robert, William, and Thomas Weldon) ten shillings for ther porcions thereof;" and he also makes Isabel his wife his executrix. In his Inventory, made 17th January, 1563-4, "a standing bedstead corded with a sparver of dernex and courtens," is valued at xiiij s. iiij d.

‡ Of Colborne, gentleman. In his will, dated on the 14th of March, 1581, he mentions his two nieces Elizabeth and Anne Weldon, his own daughters Elizabeth and Isabel Weldon, his brother Thomas Weldon, and his wife Dorothy. He also makes provision for the maintenance of his son Francis at the grammar-school and university, and makes the "worshipfull Raphe Lawson of Burghe, esq., and Elizabeth his wyfe, his singuler frends," his supervisors, begging "there worshippes to vouchsafe for God's sake and the consanguinitie betwixte them to take paynes."

CXVIII. JOHN TRISTRAME OF MYDDILTON TYAS.

JHESUS. In the nayme of God Amen, this present xvijth day of January wiche is in the yer of our Lord God a thussand

* Richard Crosby was one of the auditors appointed by the Crown for the monastic lands in Richmondshire. He seems to have been chiefly employed in letting, selling, and receiving the rents of the confiscated property. He himself appears to have had no small share in the plunder. Henceforward we hear no more of his family.

† Robert Wild of Long Cowton, who married Dionysia, the daughter of the testator, was the son of William Wild, whose will has been already printed. In his will, made in 1574, he mentions his son Marmaduke, and his daughters, Elizabeth, who afterwards married Sir Cuthbert Pepper, and Agnes, who married Leonard Smithson of Moulton. In 1557, no doubt through the instrumentality of his father-in-law, he became the purchaser of lands which the late abbey of Easby had possessed in Scorton, and he leaves them in his will to his grandson Robert Smithson. His wife Dionysia makes her will in 1586.

‡ John Crosby, according to Clarkson, made his will on the 25th of August, 1568, and left to the wardens of the free school of Richmond 6s. 8d. yearly, out of a close between Gilling and Skeeby.

* The testator appears to have been the purchaser or lessee under the Crown of some of the lands which had lately belonged to St. Mary's Abbey, York. Nothing is known of him or his descendants, but he seems to have been connected with one or two good North Riding families. A John Tristram had an obit in Richmond church at the Dissolution. The will, which is in the testator's own writing, is curiously worded, and is written in a very bad hand on a meagre sheet of paper, of which a corner has been pre-occupied by the prayer of some youthful aspirant to literary fame: "Jusue be my spede, in grace and vertue to proceed, that I ma learne to write and reade. Amen, Amen."

† James Tristram of London, gentleman, sold a close in Middleton called the Abbat Closes and other property there to Leonard Browne, who makes his will at Middleton in 1576 and leaves his lands to his sons Valentine and Marmaduke.

† Apparently a member of one of the Richmondshire nunneries, who had carried her treasures away with her into retirement. The money owing to her by the executors of Dr. Dakins is probably a part of her yearly pension. By her will, dated on the 27th of November, 1559, she leaves everything she has to Thomas Smythson, at whose house she was in all probability residing.

* Sir William Lofthouse was chaplain to the guild of St. John in Richmond, and at the Dissolution received from his brethren an annual pension of 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, which was afterwards continued by the auditor. He was buried in the church of Richmond 16th January, 1561-2.

† "Gabriell Lofthouse of Richmond, chapleyne," makes his will on the 4th of August, 1552, in which he leaves "to every prest dwelling within the towne of Richmond, for singing or saing suche suffraiges as are appoynted by the kings majesties proceedings to be song or said for the souls departed, viij d.; to Anne Conyers his godaughtor iiij d.; to the poore, xx s.; to Sir John Taylyour a wod spone tipped with silver; to Sir John More his shirte; to Sir Thomas Sadler a long gowne."

‡ Sir John More, who has been more than once mentioned before, was chantry priest at the altar of our Lady in Richmoud Church, and also Master of the Grammar School. By his will, dated 1st of September, 1570, he directs his body to be buried in Richmond Church, "of the west side of the founte," and leaves "to his nephew John Marshall all his lands in Thirske; 10*l.* to each of the eight daughters of his said nephew out of his burgages and lands in Richmond, and 10*l.* to his cousin John Walker to bring him upp in learning." He was buried in Richmond Church on the 6th of December, 1571.

* A family of Forster, bearing these names among its members, appears about this time in Larlington. They might, perhaps, settle there in preference to Cleasby.

† His books seem to have been carefully preserved, as Christopher Forster of Laburne, gentleman, who was probably a grandson of the testator, in his nuncupative will, made about the year 1628, directs all his books to be sold, and the money which they should bring to be given to the eight children of his brother George Forster. In his inventory, books sold to Mr. Edward Toppan are valued at 20s.; books sold to Mr. Chatter of Wenslay at 3s. 8d.; books sold to Mr. Gayle of Thornton Steward at 20s.; books sold to John Nayler of Wensley at 7s. 6d.; a little book to William Bearparke at 6d.; books sold to Christopher Butterfeild of Laborne at 20d.; a little book sold to John Allan of Laborne, 4d.; books sold to Mr. George Wate of Laborne, 4s.

* The pedigree of the great clan of Appleby is so much involved that it is impossible to ascertain the exact position of its members. The testator seems to have been in affluent circumstances, and to have kept his horses and hounds.

* Margaret, widow of Nicholas Appleby of Gilfield, has the administration of her husband's goods granted to her on the 11th of June, 1583.

† In 1548, Brian Appleby, whose will has been already printed, left three sons, William, John, and Jaks Appleby. He mentions his grandchildren, Ambrose, Wiliam, Thomas, and Anne Appleby. It is highly probable that the main line of the family of Appleby descended from him.

‡ George Hog was connected with the family of Appleby by his marriage with Grace the only daughter of Leonard Appleby, who, by his will dated on the 3rd of July, 1563, leaves to his grandson Peter Hog his half-burgage in Barnardcastle, lying in Bridgegate, upon the North-row.

§ Sons of John Appleby, who makes his will 11 April, 1557, and directs himself to be buried at Romald Kirk. He leaves his lands in Bolron and Barnardcastle to his son William Appleby, and mentions his sons Brian and Bartholomew, his wife Elizabeth, and his brother William Appleby. Leonard, John, and Anthony Appleby are among the witnesses.

Mr. Antony Rookesby supervisor, unto whom I geve xxxiiij s. iiij d. in his father's hands as I said before. —

* Henry Askwith of Newstead, a member of a very considerable Richmondshire family, married Cecily, daughter of William Conyers of Marske, and left by her four sons and one daughter. His will makes many additions to the pedigree of his family. Christopher, his eldest son, married Jane, daughter of Richard Pavor of Brome, near Spofford, and had by her a large family. He took the side of the queen in the rebellion of 1569, but died during its continuance. Simon, another son of the testator, married . . . daughter of . . . Burgh, and widow of . . . Beverley. His son Adam died in 1594, and his son George, whom we may perhaps identify with the curate of Hunton of that name, died in 1575. His only daughter Barbara married Robert Conyers of Coatham, in the bishoprick of Durham, whose will is given in the volume of Durham Wills already printed by the Surtees Society. Cecily Askwith, the widow of the testator, died in 1570.

† Leonard Dacre "with the croked bake" was the second son of William Lord Dacre of Gilsland, and was a crafty and able supporter of the two rebel earls. After the failure of that rash enterprise he seized upon the castle of Greystock, and fortified Naworth; and under colour of defending his own and resisting the rebels he gathered together about 3,000 "rank-riders," who were defeated by Lord Hunsdon, in an engagement between Naworth and Carlisle, on the 19th of February, 1570. Their leader escaped with difficulty to Flanders, where he died on the 12th of August, 1573. For a most graphic account of Leonard Dacre, see Sharp's History of the Rebellion.

* The old bridge of Catterick, about which so much valuable information has been preserved, appears to have been for some years in a state of considerable dilapidation ; and, as it was one of the greatest thoroughfares in the county, we find many charitable bequests for its restoration, which took place about six or seven years after the date of the present will. Of this restoration we fortunately are in possession of a most ample account ; for among the Sharp MSS. in the Cathedral Library at Durham there is a tall thin folio volume, containing the weekly bills of the masons, &c., employed in the work, which began on the 7th of March, 11th of Elizabeth. It extended over 37 weeks, and cost the large sum of 227*l.* 16*s.* 11*d.*, which appears to have been raised by the contributions of the whole of the North Riding of Yorkshire. The stone came from the quarries at Burgh and Aske, and consisted of "pennes, ashler, freestone, rough penes, and coble stones." The wood was brought from Blayfield and Greta Bridge ; and there is a charge of 16*d.* for two men watching the timber for two nights at "Didersey Hill," when it was on its way from Greta Bridge. The clerk of the works received 1*s.* a-day for his wages. The repairs must have been very considerable, as two arches, if not more, seem to have been entirely re-built. The original contract for the building of the bridge in 1421-2 is in the possession of Sir William Lawson of Brough Hall, and has been printed by the Archæological Institute.

v s. Item I mayke supervysor of this my will my espycyaall gud m^r Mr Bryan Palmes, wyllng and desyryng him to God sayke to se this my wyll trewly executyd, and to set a stay in all contraverses chansyng or rysyng apon or about any matter consernyng this my wyll, or any parte or parcell theroff, and he to have ether xls. or els ye best meare y^t I have at ye tyme of my departyng for his paynstakyng. — The rest to Ezabell my wyfe, to Sir Symon, Wylliam and Peter Thomson, my bredrynge, whome I ordayne and mayke my hole executors. * Robert sixth Lord Ogle of Bothal castle, in Northumberland, by his marriage with Jane, daughter and heir of Sir Thomas Mauleverer, acquired a life interest in the estate of Allerton Mauleverer. His inventory, which is unfortunately imperfect, in addition to the enumeration of his property in Yorkshire, contains an interesting account of his household furniture in his castle at Bothal. His will may be found in the volume of Durham Wills and Inventories which has been already printed by the Surtees Society. Jane, his widow, married for her third husband Sir Richard Mauleverer, her cousin, and carried the family estates into his family. The latter makes his will in 1603, and his inventory contains a most magnificent array of plate, robes, armour, and household goods.

CXXXV. JOHAN WICLIF TESTAMENTUM, PARISH OF RICHMOND.

In the name of God, Amen. The xijth daye of November, in the year of our Lord God 1562, I Johan Wykeclyffe, of St. Nycolas nere Rychemonde, in the countye of Yorke, wydowe,† hole of mynde and good remembrance, do maike and orden my last wyll and testament in maner and forme followynge, that is to say: Fyrst, I bequythe my solle to Almyghtye God, and our Lady St. Marye, and to all the blyssed companye of heaven, and my bodye to be buryed within the paryshe churche of Rychemonde, nere to the place wher my daughter Ascuke‡ was buryed.

* The family of Dodding had raised itself by trade to a position of considerable opulence in Kendal. Some of its members also had a large share in the confiscation of the estates of the northern abbeys. In the 30th of Elizabeth Miles Dodding obtained a grant of the priory of Conishead, in Lancashire, which continued in the possession of his family till it passed with an heiress into the family of Braddyll, towards the close of the seventeenth century.

† The testatrix was the daughter of Robert Jackson of Gatenby, in the parish of Bedale, and married to her first husband Thomas Wray, who had obtained a grant of the hospital of St. Nicholas, near Richmond. She left by him three sons and several daughters. After his death she re-married John Wycliffe of Richmond, an auditor of the issues of the monastic lands in the neighbourhood, and a grandson of Robert Wycliffe of Wycliffe, esq. She survived her second husband also, and seems to have died at a good old age, rich in worldly wealth.

‡ Alice Wray, the daughter of the testatrix, married George Ayscough of Cowling, and was buried in Richmond church on the 22nd of October, 1559.

Item I bequythe for my forthbryngyng, the day of my buryall, xli. Item I gyve and bequyth to be distributed amongst the poure people of the parishynges of Rychemonde and Bedall, xx li. Item I gyve and bequythe to my sonne Robert Wykeclyffe all my goods and catalls at Aldburghe, and all the corne growyng in the felde ther. Item I gyve and bequythe to my daughter Anne Gower* my best beades. Item I gyve and bequythe to my daughter Cycyle Harryngton † my second beades. Item I gyve and bequythe to my servant Merjorie Atkynson on cowe, vj. ewes, two hardynsheytes, two blankets, and two happyns. Item I gyve to James Tutynge and Cycyle Anderson vj s. viij d. Item I gyve to my systers in lawe Merjorie and Dorothe Wykeclyffe, to eyther of them, xs. Item I gyve and bequythe vj s. viij d. for ever to be tayke of my lands in Langthorne, laite belongyng to the chauntre of St. Cuthbert, to be yearly distributed to the poure the day of the monethe that I shall chance to be buryed upon, at the discessyon of my executours under wryten. Item I gyve to Sir John Aykerige, prest, on falden sylver sponne. Item I gyve to my said sonne Robert Wykelyffe my best sylver salt wythe cover gylt. Item I gyve to my sonne Thomas Wraye ‡ my next sylver salt wythe cover. Item I gyve to my said sonne Robert Wykecliffe, and his heirs for ever, all my ryght, tytle, and intrest that I have, or herafter I ought to have, of all my land in or at Crosbye cote. Item I gyve to my sister Metkalf§ my satten kyrtell, a scarlett pettycote, and on payr of tawny velvet sleeves. Item I gyve to my sonne Thomas Wray, and to my daughters Katryn Grene, || Merjorie Bowes, || and Johan Crosbye, ¶ ij^o. dousen sylver spones, to be equallye devyded amongst them.

* Anne Wray married Ralph Gower of Richmond, esq., who died in 1567. She was very unhappy in her family, and it must have been a painful thing for Serjeant Wray to convict his nephew of high treason in 1569.

† Cecily Wray married . . . Errington, an alderman of York.

‡ Thomas Wray, the eldest son of the testatrix, married Anne Foster of Smawes, and left by her several children, among whom was Sir William Wray, who settled at Beamish, in the bishoprick of Durham. He resided at the old manor-house of the hospital of St. Nicholas, which he inherited from his father; and in the 15th of Elizabeth, together with Nicholas Metcalfe, obtained a grant of the site, &c., of the Friary in Richmond, which had been forfeited by the treason of his kinsman John Gower. He was buried at the parish church on the 30th of October, 1587.

§ Katherine Jackson, the sister of the testatrix, married Luke Metcalfe of Bedale, by whom she had a very large family. In her own will, dated on the 3rd of May, 1588, she makes her cousin George Jackson of Gatenby gentleman a supervisor, and leaves to her daughter Mary Slinger a bill of debt of 20*l.* of Mr. Thomas Wrey's late of St. Nicholas. Her will, which is extremely interesting, will occur in its proper place.

|| Katherine Wray married James Greene of Lanmouth, esq. Robert Bowes and Margery Wycliffe were married at Richmond on the 24th of October, 1561.

¶ Jane Wycliffe married John Crosby (son of Richard Crosby, who died in 1559), at Richmond, on the 13th of October, 1562.

* The famous Sir Christopher Wray, Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench from 1574 to 1592, who is so justly praised by Lord Campbell "for his profound and judicial knowledge, accompanied with a ready and singular capacity and an admirable patience." He has been generally considered to have been a foundling, and as the doubts of his legitimacy, which originated with Vincent the herald, have been revived by Lord Campbell in his Lives of the Chief Justices, an attempt to wipe away the stain from his escutcheon may not perhaps be out of place. In the first place Vincent is the sole authority for the charge, and his honesty as a herald is generally considered to be very questionable; he was a strict Romanist, and on more than one occasion he has falsified a pedigree to revenge himself upon an opponent in religion. Now he had good reason to be indignant with the Chief Justice, for when serjeant he had been sent down into the North by Elizabeth to prosecute the traitors of 1569. Again, Vincent asserts that he was an illegitimate son of a Wray, vicar of Hornby; now no vicar of that name has been as yet discovered. Lord Campbell cannot surely argue his illegitimacy from the fact, that the pedigree of Wray, in the Visitation of Lincolnshire for 1634, commences with him, for very few pedigrees in any visitation are carried back more than two or three generations; and it is only natural that it should commence with him, as he was the first of the family that settled in Lincolnshire. His Lordship also endeavours to upset the authority of the family genealogy, by saying that if the received pedigree of the Wrays were correct, Sir Christopher would necessarily have quartered the arms of his mother's family, as she is said to have been an heiress; but may it not be extremely probable that so insignificant a family bore no arms whatever? Again, the assertion that she was an heiress is perhaps unfounded, as in the pedigree of the family of Metcalfe the own sister of the testatrix is not so styled, and the male line of the family of Jackson continued in the parish of Bedale for many generations after this time; if this were the case the Wrays could not properly quarter the arms of Jackson, if, indeed, that family possessed any arms at all. Besides all these reasons, when we have additional proofs of his legitimacy in the fact that in the pedigrees of the families of Wray and Wycliffe the testatrix is called the mother of Chief Justice Wray, and when above all she mentions him by name in her own will, we may safely conclude that he was no adopted foundling. He owed his advancement to high estate to his own abilities alone, for his mother could give but a scanty portion to the nestling of her family.

* Ralph Cleasby was a gentleman of the household of Henry VIII., and obtained from his master a lease of the site and demesnes of the Priory of Ellerton, near Richmond, with which place his family had an hereditary connection. His brother John Cleasby was his tenant at Ellerton, and died there in 1554. The testator, who during some part of his life seems to have been engaged in some foreign service, returned home to end his days in peace, and his inventory, which contains all the miscellaneous wardrobe of an ancient courtier, is extremely interesting.

† Son of Leonard Cleasby of Cleasby, and under age at the time of his father's death in 1550. His father, by his will, desires his brother Arthur Cleasby to redeem the wardship and marriage of his son and to keep him at school. He makes Ralph Cleasby and William Cleasby, clerk, his supervisors.

‡ An illegitimate daughter of the testator. In her will, dated 20 February, 1578, she styles herself "Dorithe Cleisbye alias Johnson, daughter of Elizabeth Applebye of Newton Morell." She directs herself to be buried at St. Mary's Barton, and leaves to her mother the 10*l.* which her late father Ralph Cleasby left her, which remains in the hands of Humphrey Cleasby of Richmond, merchant.

* The testator appears to have been a person of some rank, and was connected by marriage with more than one good Yorkshire house. Of his own family, however, there is but little known, and his immediate descendants do not seem to have survived him more than twenty years. The name lingered in the vicinity of Knaresbrough and Boroughbridge for more than century.

† His singularly curious nuncupative will occurs hereafter.

* A respectable Richmond yeoman, who has been more than once mentioned already. He seems to have been connected with the families of Metcalfe and Wray.

† An ancestor of the family of Pepper of Temple Cowton. Of the early history and genealogy of this family, which has since risen to considerable eminence, little or nothing is ascertained.

CL. MRS. JANE FULLTHROPP, WEDOW, TESTAMENT.

In the name of God, Amen. The fourthe day of Aprill, in the yeare of our Lord God one thousand fyve hundrethe thre score and sex, I Jane Fulthrop,* late wyfe of John Fulthrop of Hipswell, esquier, hole of mynde and good remembrance, and seycyk of bodye, do make my last will and testament in manner and forme followynge. Fyrst I bequeathe my solle to Almightye God, and to his blissyd mother oure Ladye Saint Marye, and to all the holye companye of heaven, and my bodye to be buryed in Catherick churche, nighe to my husbnde. Also I bequeath to every preste at the day of my buriall xij d., and to parishe clerks iij d., poore foolks pence, and one dynner at Hipswell hall for my frends and neighbures that doth offer with me. Also I will that my sone in law Mr. Nevyl† have a murnyng gowne of black clothe, and my doughter his wyfe one, and Christofer Wandisford hir sone one gowne, and my sone in law Christofer Wandisford one gowne, and my doughter Cicily his wyfe one gowne; and to John Wandisford one gowne, and to my brother Gyles Fulthrop one gowne, and to my cosyn Henrye Wandisford one gowne, and to my cosyn James Fulthrop one coote, and to Christofer Steavensone one coote, and to James Bower one coote, and to Francis Wandisford, Herrye Wandisford, and Thomas Wandisford, every one of theym a coote. And also I will that Christofer Nevyl esquier and my doughter Anne his wyfe shall have twentic pounds of lawfull moneye of England, to be allowyd

* The testatrix was the daughter of Thomas Wharton, esq., by Agnes, daughter of Reginald Warcop of Smerdale, esq., and sister of Thomas the first Lord Wharton. She married John Fulthorpe of Hipswell, esq., and left by him two daughters and co-heirs, both of whom married into the house of Wandesford, and carried with them the estate of Hipswell into that family. The will of her husband has been already printed.

† Christopher Neville of Kirkbymoorside, the second husband of Ann Fulthorpe, the eldest daughter of the testatrix, was uncle to the last ill-fated Earl of Westmoreland, and was full of the hot blood and haughtiness of the Nevilles. We have a specimen of his violent and turbulent disposition in the attack which he made upon Christopher Rokeby, the son and heir of Thomas Rokeby of Mortham, esq., at a horse-race on Gaterley Moor, when the Richmondshire gentry rose to a man in defence of the young heir of Rokeby. When the rebellion in 1569 broke out, he followed the head of his family with all that energy and determination which always characterized his high-spirited house, and had the great earl but followed the example of his uncle, the dun bull need not have fled. On the failure of the enterprize, he escaped abroad, and died in exile a pensioner of the king of Spain. In his private life he is liable to grave censure, and even in the will before us we can detect family dissensions; for he was a bad husband and "dealt very ill with his wife." The lands which he acquired from her were forfeited by his treason, and were afterwards given up to Sir Christopher Wandesford, his stepson, who married a daughter of the knight and marshal Sir George Bowes. For more particulars see Sir Cuthbert Sharp's Account of the Rebellion of 1569, p. 36.

married Jane daughter of Thomas Boynton of Barmston, esq., by whom he left a large family.

* Richard Aldburgh of Aldburgh, esq., the head of one of the most considerable of the Yorkshire families, married Eleanor Goldesburgh, a daughter of the testator. He lived to a very great age, and saw his great-grandchildren around him; but he appears to have fallen deeply into debt in his old age, and his estates were, no doubt, sacrificed to his necessities. He makes his will 1 Aprill, 1612, at Ellingthorpe, and directs himself to be buried in his closet in Aldburgh church. He states that he (with his son and heir apparent William Aldburgh, by indenture dated 24 April, 3 James,) has assigned his lands, &c., in Aldburgh, Humburton, and Ellingthorpe, to Marmaduke Wilson of Tanfield, gent., and John Bousfield of York, draper. CLII. LANCELET GAYLE PAROCHLE DE SCRUTON.

May 9, 8 Eliz. I Lancelot Gaile,* of the parishe of Scruton, seake in body — my body to be funeratyed in the parishe churche of Scruton, as ny my father as I may be laid, even betwixt hym and the pulpit. Item I will that my frends and my neighbors that do offer with one the day of my buryall have a dyner at my house, and I wilbe kept up one day and one nyght, yf God will permyt, unto suche tyme my frends be gaythered togyther, and I will that the poore people be levyd at the churche the day of my buryall at the discretyon of my frends, and I will that scollers have one peny a pece the day of my buryall to pray for me. Ferthermore I geave forgotten teythes x. . . . and to the reparacion of the churche viij d. Also I leave my sonne William Gayll my swerd and bucler, with all my buckes and especyally one bucke called the Terence, and forty shillings of money, and to be honestlye arayed wen he shalbe able to go to servyce — to my doughter Margerit Gaile at the day of hir marige to have a weddinge gowne geeven — to my wyfe one hamlinge maire.

* The testator was son of William Gale of Scruton, who made his will in 1556, by Elizabeth, daughter of . . . Tennant, and was a member of a most respectable family of yeomanry, which, in the next century, gave birth to the two famous antiquaries, Roger and Samuel Gale. The testator would seem to have inherited by anticipation a little of the literary taste of his descendants, for he mentions his books in his will, and appears to have had an especial admiration for Terence. We have here another instance of that excessive merriment which was such a remarkable feature in the funerals of our ancestors, a species of revelry which, though some perhaps may consider it indecent and out of place, was only intended to be an act of charity and friendly hospitality. With this motive, no doubt, the testator breaks through all the long-established rules of custom and prejudice, and directs his body to remain unburied for a day and a night. So deeply rooted was this practice of hasty burial, that the body was always interred, if possible, within twenty-four hours after death. We have a remarkable and early instance of this feeling in the register of Richard Kellawe, Bishop of Durham, in which that prelate licenses the burial-ground of the chapel of Shafto, in the parish of Hartburn, for the following reason: "Cum ex intimatione vestra et assereione discreti viri perpetui vicarii de Herteburn acceperimus quod propter subitas ac frequentes aquarum inundaciones corpora mortuorum in dicta villa de Shaftouwe decedentium ad sepeliendum in cimiterio parochialis ecclesie vestre de Herteburn deferre comode non potestis, unde multociens quamtriduum in domibus vestris fetent, adeo quod parentes filii et filii sunt horrori." The licence is dated at Stockton, on the 6th of April, 1323. Richard Thoresby, Rector of Winston, died at Aske in Richmondshire on the 7th of July, 1651, and was buried at his own parish church on the following day, although Aske is a considerable distance from Winston. Other instances may be frequently met with.

* A member of a very respectable Durham family. It was probably through this connection that Thomas Gale, the brother of the testator, settled at Greatham, where he makes his will in 1581.

† The testator was the son of Robert Philipson of Hollinghall, esq., by Jane daughter of Thomas Layborne, esq., of Cunswick, and was receiver to Edward VI. of his rents in Westmoreland. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Briggs of Helsfell Hall, and had by her five sons and two daughters.

The family of Philipson was of considerable consequence in Westmoreland, and was especially distinguished for its loyalty in the time of the great rebellion. The great-grandson of the testator, Robert Philipson, was major of a regiment in the royal army, and obtained the nickname of Robin the Devil, for the many feats of reckless daring which he performed. His kinsman Colonel Briggs, who was a staunch Oliverian, had blockaded his house on Curwen's Island, in Windermere, for eight days, till the siege was raised by his brother, Colonel Huddleston Philipson. In revenge for this attack, on the following Sunday Philipson rode into Kendal at the head of a troop of horse, and surrounded the church, where he expected to find Briggs at his devotions, intending either to carry him off or kill him on the spot. Briggs, however, luckily for himself, was absent, and Philipson, who had ridden into the church in full armour in quest of his enemy, on finding that he was not there, quietly turned his horse and rode out. The congregation, however, rushed upon him as he was leaving the church and tore him from his horse, at the same time cutting his girths. Philipson's party now came to the rescue, and their leader, with his own hand, slew the man who had seized him, clapped the saddle, ungirthed as it was, upon his horse, and vaulting into it, rode at a furious rate through the town of Kendal, and with his whole party made good his retreat to his island-fortress. At the close of his poem of Rokeby, Sir Walter Scott has appropriately introduced this stirring tale.

* The testatrix was the only daughter of Richard Kirkby of Kirkby, esq., the head of one of the most ancient and considerable families in Furness, by Dorothy, second daughter of John Fleming of Rydal, esq. She married her cousin Henry Kirkby of the Crosshouse, and on the death of her brother John Kirkby, in 1550, she carried all his estates into her own family. Her husband Henry Kirkby was found to be fifty years of age at the death of his cousin in 1550, and died just before the date of the present will. His estate of the Crosshouse derived its name from a large stone cross which stood before it. The present will makes considerable additions to the genealogy of the house of Kirkby.

† Roger Kirkby, the son and heir of the testatrix, married Margaret, daughter of John Preston of the manor of Furness, and had by her a large family. He was thirty-six years of age at the time of his father's death.

* James Ambrose of Lowick, in Furness, was the eldest son of Henry Ambrose, and the head of a family of considerable importance in the deanery. He died 35 Eliz. and left several children.

† Christian Burgh, an unrecorded member of the family of Burgh of Burgh, near Catterick, like many other members of her family, dedicated herself to a religious life, and became Prioress of the little monastery of Nunkilling, in the East Riding of Yorkshire. She was elected Prioress 17 May, 1537, and surrendered her office to the king in 1540, receiving a pension of 8*l.* per annum for her life, on which she retired into the North Riding to seek for refuge and consolation in the bosom of her family, which she had voluntarily deserted in her earlier years, and where she was still welcome.

The Priory of Nunkilling was founded in the reign of Stephen for Benedictine nuns in honour of St. Mary Magdalene and St. Helen. It was only a small establishment, containing about twelve nuns, and was valued at the Dissolution, according to Dugdale, at 36*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* The site of the priory and its demesne lands were sold to Sir Richard Gresham.

Item I bequiethe to my said wyfe this

* It would seem that the dislike for Scotchmen had extended as far south as Yorkshire. In more than one place in the North no tradesman was allowed to have a Scotchman for his apprentice, and even to this day the old saw, "Hit him hard, he's a Scot," may be not unfrequently heard in a fray.

† Ralph Gower of Richmond was the second son of Thomas Gower of Stainsby, by . . . daughter and co-heir of Sir Ralph Crathorne of Crathorne, and he married Anne daughter of Thomas Wray of St. Nicholas near Richmond, by whom he left two sons, Roger and John Gower. He was one of the head burgesses of the town of Richmond, and, like many of his kinsmen, was very deeply implicated in the confiscation of the possessions of the neighbouring monasteries. In 1539 he obtained a grant of the site and demesne lands of the Friary in Richmond; and in 1557 he bought of the Crown, for the sum of 660*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*, being at the rate of thirty-four years' purchase, the site and part of the lands of the Abbey of St. Agatha at Easby. The testator, however, and his family, were not exempt from the misfortunes which those plundered lands almost invariably entail upon their possessors, for his son John Gower lost all his lands for high treason in 1569, and the descendants of his other son suffered very deeply for their loyalty in the time of the great rebellion. The testator was buried at Richmond on the 10th of May, 1567, and his wife on the 9th of June, 1572.

‡ John Gower was a zealous adherent of the two rebel earls in 1569, and forfeited in consequence the whole of the lands which his father had bequeathed to him but two years before. He was attainted for his treason, and in 1570 Lord Sussex solicits his life from the queen, and begs that he may be allowed to compound for his estates—

Gower was pardoned, and was, according to Strype, living at Paris in 1582. He married Alice, second daughter and co-heir of Henry Anderson of Haswell Grange, co. Durham, esq., who was buried at Richmond, 25 March, 1599.

* Roger Gower, the other son of the testator, settled at Melsonby, and was twice married, first, to Anne daughter and co-heir of Christopher Place of Halnaby, esq., and, secondly, to Mary daughter of Richard Norton, esq., the rebel; by her he left issue, Edward Gower of Melsonby, who was a suffering loyalist, and was buried at Richmond, July 19, 1664.

CLXX. THOMAS ROKEBY OF MORTHAM, ESQUIER.

The INVENTORIE of all the goods movable and unmovable of Thomas Rokebic, laite of Mortham, esquier,* praisid by iiij^{or} indifferent men the iiijth daye of Auguste, in the yere of our Lorde God a thousandd fyve hundrith threscore and seven, and in the ixth yere of our soveraigne laidie Elizabeth, by the grace of God quene of Ynglond, Franncce, and Yrelond, defendor of the faithe, &c., viz. John Dicsonne, Thomas Mitchell, Rauff Cotts, and Christoffer Askewe.

* Thomas Rokeby of Mortham, esq., the worthy representative of the ancient and time-honoured house of Rokeby, a house which, as Whitaker most justly observes, cannot but be ranked in the highest rank of nobility among the Yorkshire families, for so much courage, patriotism, law, and piety, have rarely been assembled in one name. I cannot refrain from recurring to the often-quoted passage which occurs in that celebrated history of the Rokebys, which is styled the Œconomia Rokebiorum. In it the gentleman before us is said to have been "a plaine man as might be, whose words came allways from his heart without feigning; a trusty freind, a forward gentleman in the field, and a great house-keeper; whereby he lived soe in the good wills and good hearts of his countreymenn, that his sonne and heire, Christofer Rokeby, being assaulted at Gaterley horse-race by Christofer Nevile, brother to the mightie Earle of Westmorland, whom the said earle had sent thither with a hundreth menn to kill him, was both defended and guarded from the violence of his adversaries, and was able soe to have rebounded the blowes given bim by them, that they shold have spilt the best blood in their bodyes if his partye had been willing, for then not a gentleman in the field but they cryed 'a Rokeby!' But the good old Thomas being in commission for the peace, commaunded and entreated peace (as he said), 'Give itt grieves me to see him bleed that bleeds, yet peace, the peace!' and therefore the kinge highly loved him that cold soe well gett the love of his countreye." In early life he was captain of Norham Castle, and had seen some active service on the borders; but he seems to have spent most of his days at Mortham, where he died full of years and honours, a perfect type of the old English gentleman.

He married Jane, daughter of Robert Constable of Cliffe, esq., and left by her four sons and five daughters. 1. Christopher, who served under his father at the battle of Musselbrough, and left a large family by Margaret daughter of Sir Roger Lascelles of Brakenbergh. 2. Ralph Rokeby, Senior Fellow of Lincoln's Inn, Master of St. Catharine's, "prope arcem Londinensem," who died a bachelor in his seventieth year, 4 June, 1596, and was buried in St. Andrew's Holborne. 3. Thomas Rokeby, founder of the family at Hotham, who was lieutenant of Norham Castle under his brother; and 4. Anthony. His eldest daughter Jane married Francis Wycliffe of Wycliffe, esq.; 2. Elizabeth married Thomas Gower of Stainsby, esq.; 3. Anne married John Dodsworth of Thornton Watlass, esq.; 4. . . . married . . . Headlam; and 5. Margaret married Lancelot Lancaster of Sockbridge, esq. Mortham Tower is most picturesquely situated on a gentle eminence, near the confluence of the Greta and the Tees. It seems to be an exact copy of some fortalice which the grandfather of the Thomas Rokeby before us had seen during his services on the Scottish borders. It was probably built by Sir Thomas Rokeby, between 1470 and 1500, as a shield charged with the arms of his family, and bearing on it the initials T. R. (Thomas Rokeby) and C. R. (Catharine Strode his wife) is still preserved in its walls. Some additions, however, seem to have been made by his son Ralph Rokeby; and over a window in the east wing there are traces of a large shield of arms, which has been sometime coloured, giving quarterly, 1. Rokeby, 2. Danby impaling a coat ermine (?), 3. Same as second, 4. Same as first. There is also a sun-dial, with the date 1566. The arrangement of the rooms in the mansion and the accessory buildings is extremely curious and deserves a careful study.

CLXI. TESTAMENTUM GEORGHII NEVELL MR OF WELL.

In the name of God, Amen, the fourth day of September, the yere of our Lorde God a thowsande fyve hundreth threescore and seven, I George Nevill doctor of dyvinytie and maister of th'os-pitall of Well,* of an hole mynde and perfite remembrance, makith this my last will and testament in maner and forme folowyng.

* George Neville, the thirteenth child and seventh son of Richard Lord Latimer, by Anne daughter of Sir Humphrey Stafford of Grafton, co. Worcester, was born on Sunday, the 29th of July, 1509, and was therefore, at the date of the present will, under sixty years of age. He probably took orders in early life, and must soon have risen to the highest preferment, as he could rely upon the support and patronage of the two great and noble houses of Percy and Neville. At the time of his death, in addition to the mastership of the hospital at Well, he appears to have held the livings of Spofford, Bolton, and Leake, in Yorkshire, Rothbury in Northumberland, and Salkeld and Morland in Cumberland. Rich, indeed, he was when he died, and, although his decease may, in point of age, be deemed premature, it may be considered a fortunate event for him; for had he survived but two short years he would have witnessed the total overthrow of those two princely houses with which he was so intimately

First I geve and bequyeth my soule unto God Almyghtie my cretor and redemer, the whiche onely I trust in his marcy and merits of his passion to have everlastynge life after this miserable worlde, and my body to be buryed within the queyr of Well churche nye unto the old Mr of Well, and to have a writyng gravyn above fixed upon the marbill stone ther and the old Mr. Threplande name ther on also.* Item I geve and bequyeth unto the churchewarke of Well, vj li. xiijs. iiij d. Item I geve and bequyeth unto the parishe of Spoforde xx li., to the parishe of Well xx li., to the parishe of Bolton xx li., to the parishes of Sawghell and Morland xx li., and to the pareshe of Burton Latymer xx li. Item I geve unto Sir Henry Percy and my lady his wife, and Thomas ther son, my godson, amongst them in olde gold, xl li. † Item I geve unto Mr. Cristr Wyvell ‡ v li. To maistres Wyvell his wife iij li. vjs. viij d. To Mr. Marmaduke Wyvell and his wife v li. To the parson of Tanfeld xl s. To the parson of Kyrtyngton xl s. To the vicar of Well iij li. vjs. viij d. To Mr. Hodgeson xl s. To Sir William Adamson xl s. To Sir Rauf Smyth xx s. And where I am lawfully possesside of one annuytie of xj li. ix s. v d., goynge furth of the maner of Nonmonkton for the terme of many yeres yet endurynge, I geve, will, and bequyeth unto Antony Chaloner xxvj s. viij d. parcell of the saide annuitie of xj li. ix s. v d. — Item I geve, will, and bequyeth unto John Wilsoner xxvj s. viij d. parcell of the connected and the ruin and dispersion of so many of his friends and kinsmen. A very interesting account of the state of the Hospital of Well during his mastership will be found in Whitaker, ii. 85.

* Richard Threpland of Well, clerk, makes his will, 4 June, 1552, and leaves ij s. to be distributed in alms among poor people immediately after his departure. He leaves to his niece Jenet Sympson the house in which he dwells, and his lease of a close in Longwith, which he holds of my Lord Latemer for terme of yeres; to Malde Starkey his sister, his furred gown; to Anne Wilynson his sister, a side gown which hath no lining; to John Wilynson his nephew, a short gown. Witnesses, Sir Robert Redshaw, Sir John Rokeby, and Sir John Robynson, his curates. [Prob. 19 July, 1552.]

† Sir Henry Percy was the second son of Sir Thomas Percy, who was beheaded in 1557 for his share in Aske's rebellion. After his elder brother was beheaded at York in 1570, he became eighth Earl of Northumberland. He appears to have inherited all the restlessness and intrepidity of his family, and was particularly energetic on the borders, where he was for some time governor of Norham Castle. He was also captain of Tynemouth Castle for a considerable period. When the rising in the North broke out he had the good sense to refrain from joining in that ill-starred enterprise, but his restless disposition did not allow him to remain long quiet. He was suspected of participating in the conspiracies in favour of Mary Queen of Scots, and after remaining for some time under the surveillance of the officers of Elizabeth he was thrown into the Tower, where, after a long and tedious imprisonment, he shot himself on the 21st of June, 1585, being the seventh Earl of Northumberland, and the thirteenth member of the family of Percy, who died by a violent death.

He married Catherine eldest daughter and co-heir of John Neville Lord Latimer, and the niece of the testator, by whom he left a large family.

‡ Christopher Wyvill of Burton Constable, esq., whose will occurs hereafter.

[Prob. 4 Nov. 1567. Adm. to Richard Norton, Chr. Wyvell, and Chr. Danby, esqrs., potestate committendi Henrico Percy militi.]

* Susan Neville, the fifth daughter and seventh child of Richard Lord Latimer, was born on the 28th of April, 1501, and married Richard Norton of Norton Conyers, esq., the patriarch of the rebellion in 1569. He, with most of his family, joined in the ill-fated enterprise with so rash an impetuosity, that on the failure of the insurrection he and his sons were especially marked out for vengeance.

Thee, Norton, wi' thine eight good sonnes,
They doom'd to dye, alas! for ruth!
Thy reverend lockes could thee not save,
Nor them their faire and blooming youthe.

Christopher Norton, however, his seventh son, was the only member of the family that was put to death; of the others one or two were pardoned, and the rest, together with their aged father, escaped abroad and died in exile.

† Michael Wandisford, fourth son of Thomas Wandisford of Kirklington, esq., by Margaret daughter of Henry Pudsay of Barford, esq., married Isabel daughter of Rowland Place of Halnaby, esq., and the George Wandisford who is mentioned here was probably his son.

‡ Mary daughter of Richard Norton of Norton Conyers, esq., by the sister of the testator, married Henry Grene of Newby, esq., and after his death, in 1557, she re-married John Lamborne, who was deeply implicated in the rebellion of 1569.

§ Dorothy, the second daughter and third child of Richard Lord Latimer, was born on Palm Sunday (27th of March), 1496, and married Sir Christopher Danby, by whom she left a large family. The family of Danby was more or less concerned in the rising in the North.

Provid alwaies that whatsoever I shall put or cause to be put in this cedall any bequest more then is in this my will or mynyshe any thyng therin contenyd to be effectuell, and my executors to performe the same.* Item I will that my nepho Crist^r Danby shall pay xx li. to my nepho William Danby his brother and discharge the will therof, or els I will that he shall be none of my executors, any thyng above mencioned not withstandynge. * The testatrix was a daughter of John Warcop of Smerdale, esq., by Anne daughter of Geoffrey Lancaster. She married to her second husband Nicholas Layborne of Cunswick, esq., the eldest son of Sir James Layborne of Cunswick, whose will has been already printed, and had by him six children. A fragment of her husband's will is still remaining, dated 19 July, 156. . in which he directs himself to be buried in the church of Lancaster. He mentions his brother Francis Tunstall, and leaves to his son Francis Tunstall 40*l.* when eighteen. To his wife Elizabeth his lands in Skelmser and Sleddell, till James his son be of age, and the tythe corne of Skelmser to pay his debts. His daughters to marry at the discretion of his wife. CLXIV. TESTAMENTUM WALTERI STRICLANDE DE SYSER.

In the name of God, Amen. 23 January, 1568. I Walter Strykland,* of Syserghe in the county of Westmerland, esquyre, being holle of bodye and of good and perfytt remembrance — to Alyce my welbelovyd wyffe all my capitall mesuage and mansion howse of Syserghe in the countye of Westmerland aforsayd, with

* The only son of Sir Walter Strickland of Sizergh Hall by Catharine, one of the three daughters and co-heirs of Sir Ralph Neville of Thornton Briggs, co. York. His father died on the 9th of January, 18 Henry VIII., leaving him a minor; and he was in ward to the king till the 29th of Henry VIII., when he had livery of his lands. In the 5th of Eliz. he was knight of the shire for Westmerland. He married Alice, daughter of Nicholas Tempest of Stanley, co. Durham, esq., and relict of Christ. Place of Hahnaby, esq., whose will has been already printed. The testator died in the 11th of Eliz., and his widow married again to her third husband Sir Thomas Boynton of Barmston, whom also she survived. The testator left an only son Thomas and two daughters Alice and Ellen Strickland.

Sizergh Hall is an excellent and stately specimen of an ancient fortified mansion, and has attracted Dr. Whitaker's especial admiration. Although it has been considerably modernized, the great tower on the north front, bearing on it the arms of Strickland quartering Deincourt, still remains entire; and many of the rooms in the interior still retain their ancient furniture. The principal bed-chamber is named after Queen Katharine Parr, who is said to have lodged there; and the beautiful wainscoting of the different rooms, and several most elaborately carved and inlaid beds, bear witness to the magnificence of the illustrious family of Strickland. The tower was probably built by Sir Walter Strickland, the father of the testator; but we are indebted to the good taste of his son for the splendid furnituro which is still remaining. "It would be well," as Dr. Whitaker gracefully observes, "if those who suppose themselves to be copying the mansions of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, by vile imitations of woodwork in coloured plaster, would study such genuine models as Sizergh; endeavour to apprehend and to feel the effect of originality, and to be deterred at once from attempting to imitate the inimitable. It is a study which at once would save their estates, and teach them to be contented with the attainable elegance and propriety of modern houses, unspoiled by the mania of Gothicism."

all my howses, beauldyngs, orchards, gardyngs, and yeards to the same belongyng, and also all thos parks and inclosed grounds in the sayd countye, known and called by the names of Syserghe park, Lakrig park, Brygster park, and Natland park, and also all other my lands, tenements, rents, revercons, and heredytaments in Helsington, Syserghe, and Lakryg in the sayd countye of Westmerland, being accompted, reputed, and taykyn as part or parcell of the demaynes of Syserghe aforsayd, and nowe in the severall and manewell occupations and possessions of me the sayd Walter Strykland, and of John Langhorne, Myles Boroo, Edward Spycer, Robert Wylson, Charles Jakson, Robert Makareld, Wylliam Broune, the wedoo of Edward Gyll dysscaced, the wedowe of Rychard Bagley dysseaced, and the wedowe of John Langcaster also dysseaced, to have and to hold all and synguler the premisses to my sayd wyf and hir assignes for and dewryng the terme of hir lyf naturall, and after hyr dysseace I wyll that my brother in lawe Thomas Tempest* and my cousen Thomas Strykland† shall have all and singuler the premisses for and duryng so many yers of scointure from the feast of Saint Martyne in wynter last past as shall at the death of my sayd wyf bee unexpired, to the intent that they with the proffets therof shall pay yearly duryng the sayd years unexpired after my sayd wyves death the some of twentye and foure pounds of lawfull Englishe money unto the executor or executors of my sayd wyf, or the sayd xvij. yers expired I gyve all and synguler the premises to Thomas Strykland my sone‡ and to his heires for ever. Item wheras I have demysed all the resydew of my lands and tenyments in the sayd county of Westmerland unto my sayd brother in lawe Thomas Tempest, and to my sayd cousen Thomas Strykland for termes of dyvers years yet enduryng, reserving for the same the yearlye rent of one hundred twenty-six pounds foure shillings and two pence of lawfull Englishe money, I do nowe by this my wyll gyve and devise unto the sayd Alyce my wyf forty pounds yearlye percell of the said rent of cxxvj li. iiij s. ij d. to be yearlye payd unto hyr by the sayd Thomas Tempest and Thomas Strykland, ther executors, admynestrators, or assignes, for and duryng so many years as ther

* Thomas Tempest was the son and heir of Nicholas Tempest of Stanley, esq., and married Elizabeth daughter of Rowland Place of Halnaby, esq. He died on the 20th of July, 1578, and was buried at Lancheater.

† Thomas Strickland, called Sir Thomas Strickland by Burn and Nicolson, and stated by them to be the brother of the testator, resided at Sizergh during the minority of his nephew.

‡ Thomas Strickland, the only son of the testator, was under age at his father's death, and was not out of his minority till the 23rd of Eliz. In 43 Eliz. and 1 James he was knight of the shire, and on the 24th of July, 1 James, the king created him Knight of the Bath. He was twice married, and left issue by both wives. He died about the 12th of James I.

* The wardship, custody, and marriage of Thomas Strickland, was purchased of the Crown by his mother Alice Strickland, then styled of Halnaby, for 700*l.*, soon after his father's death † Dorothy Place was one of the five daughters and co-heirs of Christopher Place of Halnaby, esq., the former husband of the wife of the testator. She married Sir Francis Boynton of Barmston, whose father, Sir Thomas Boynton, married her mother for his second wife.

‡ From the names of the witnesses the present will would seem to have been made in Yorkshire, either at Halnaby or at Middleton Tyas, the stronghold of the Smithsons.

* The following will of a yeoman of Troutbeck is remarkable for the homeliness and simplicity of its wording and arrangements. The inventory also contains several curious items. It is in the handwriting of the village curate, for none of the appraisers seem to have been able to spell their names. The whole document is written in the wavering hand of an illiterate or aged man, and does not reflect much credit on the curate of Troutbeck.

These beinge witnesses, John Spittle, Donkinge Thomson, John Walker, and James Scott, with others. (*) [Prob. 20 Jan. 1573-4.]

* William Aislaby of Barden married Elizabeth the daughter of Thomas Wray of St. Nicholas, and sister of Chief Justice Wray. His will, which is singularly interesting, is his own composition, and gives us a very pleasing picture of the simple and hospitable life of a North-country gentleman, who, amidst the cares and fears which throng around a death-bed, could express a kindly desire that his departure should not debar his neighbours from the enjoyment of that friendly hospitality which he had so fondly cherished in his lifetime. He was buried in Richmond Church on the 4th of May, 1573, and his wife was laid beside him on the 19th of February, 1586-7. The will, from an error of the transcriber, is wrongly dated; the proper year, according to the usual computation, should be 1572.

† May not the "arboure" be the porch of the Blessed Virgin on the north side of the church. It is of the Perpendicular period; and its roof, supported by intersecting arches, could not but suggest the pleasing and appropriate name which the testator gives to it.

CLXXV. ADAME KIRKBIE OF ASKARTH.

May 30, 1572. I Adame Kirkbie of the parish of Askarth — I give unto Askarthe church for the reparations of the decays thereof, x s. Also I geve unto the towne of Askarthe one bull, in condicion whereof they shall ever contynewe a bull, in witnesse of the bequestinge of a bull of the said Adam Kirkbie. Witnesses, James Eddleston clerke, Christofer Tonstall, &c. [Prob. 7 May, 1573.] (*)

Item I give and bequethe to the said Jaine Beckwith my wife best gowne, hir best kyrtill, and hir best mother the wife of Robert Chirner, and his sister Jane Chirner; and he leaves to his son William Pulleyne (a minor) his burgage in Borobridge and nine roods of land in Aldborough, which he bought of William Gybson and Daniel Pulleyne. John Pulleyne was probably a relative of the testator's deceased wife.

* Brian Yoxley was in the service of the family at the death of the eldest son of the testator in 1596.

Also I will, gyve, and bequeathe unto my daughter Lassells of Walbron an edge of pearlle for a remembrance, desieringe hir to gyve it to one of hir daughters. Also I will, gyve, and bequeathe unto my cosin Barbarie Whallaye a gowne of damaske, a kyrtall of blacke sattane, and my best potte. And to hir daughter that she haith with M^r Wallaye the best cove y^t she will chose cinonge all that I have — And to Elizabeth Crofte tenne shillings to by hir lyne with all. And also I will, give, and bequeathe (*)

* Widow of Richard Sedgwick of Walburn Hall, esq., who died in 1555, and probably a daughter of Chr. Conyers of Marske, esq. Her only daughter, Anne Sedgwick, married Chr. Lascelles of Brackenbergh, esq., by whom she left a numerous issue. The family of Lascelles appears to have been considerably impoverished by the carelessness and extravagance of its members, and the greater part of its estates were dissipated or sold by the great-grandson of the testatrix, Sir Thomas Lascelles. The present will is unfortunately imperfect.

CLXXIX. CUTBERDE THOMSON VICARIUS DE GILLINGE.

In the name of God, Amen. The xxij. of Decembre, anno Domini 1573, I Cutberde Thomson, vicarius de Gillinge,* sicke in body, but (God be prayesd) of good and perfect memorie, doe make this my last will and testament in manor and forme folowinge. Firste I commit my soule to Almightye God, loking for justificatione through Christe his glorious and riall resurrectione; and that this my bodie be buried in the church of Forset, which, although it be weake and feble, I truste it shall one day be made (through Christe) stronge and mightie, and conformable to the blessed body of Christe Jesus. Now as for these smale goodes wherwith the Lorde of his longe liberalitie and lovyng kindnes hath blessed me, I will that they shalbe disposed as shalbe here expressed. Inprimis I give to my poore parishioners x s. Item I give to Robert Parkinne ij li. vj s. viij d. Item I give to Anthony Parkinne ij li. vj s. viij d. Item I give to George Parkine my servant ij li. vj s. viij d. Item I give to Jane Parkinne ij li. vj s. viij d. Item I give to Isabl Parkine ij li. vj s. viij d. And al the reste of my goodes, my debtes paid and funerall expenses discharged, I commit them whollie to my two brethren John Thomson and Anthony Thomson to use them and to dispose them at their will and pleasure, whom I make executors of this my will and testament, not doubtinge but that they will fulfill this my laste will and testament according to the premiseis aforsaid. Yet for the better assurance hereof I pray my two faithfull and familier frendes Mr. John Laton and Michaell Thomson to be overseers of this testament, to see that it be fulli accomplished and fulfilled in manor and forme as is above rehearsed. Written the day and yere as appeareth in the presents of these persons subscribed, anno Domini 1573. Testes hujus testamenti, John Joneson, Johu Berrie, Mathew Holiday, John Thomson, Thomas Laton, Edward . . . cum aliis. Jo. Jackson, rector de Melsonbye.†

* A member of a respectable family of yeomen, who had been tenants for many years under the family of Tunstall of Scargill. The testator probably owed his name and his position in the world to Cuthbert Tunstall, Bishop of Durham, an illustrious scion of the great house of Thurland, and the brother of the spotless knight Sir Brian, who fell at Floddon. The contents of his chest are extremely interesting. Appended to the inventory is the following letter, directed to the registrar from his successor in the living:—"Mr. Tailor. After hartie commendacions I commend me unto you, and this shalbe to let you understande that Anthony Thompson and I am agreed for all maner of things towchin his brother veker, and for y^t cause he sais y^t you do holde is bonde, because y^t you knowe not whether he and I be agreed or no; trulye we ar, and this is hartelye to desyer you to delyver his bounde unto hyme, for we are fully concludid and agreed. Thus I bid you hartely faire well. From Forcet this presente mornynge, by me, Nyuyan Menvyle, vycare of Gyllinge."

1606-7. Anne his wife, "vidua pia ac valde beneficens," was buried at the same place 7 November, 1628. Her will, which is dated four days before her death, was probably made by her son John Jackson, and is full of beautiful and affectionate language. The termination is exceedingly striking: "Thus, my lovinge children, the blessinge of your mother's death-bed be with you, commendinge my motherly love to you, and you to God, with whose mercifull providence I durst well have trusted you if I had had noe thinge at all to have given you. Moreover, in token of my loyall love and affection to my dead husband, I gyve his daughter Dorothy a small house in Brignell; and after her death the rent thereof to be distributed among the poore of Richmond and Melsonby." John Jackson, one of his sons, was rector of Marske and master of the grammar-school of Richmond. He was a man of considerable humour, and was on very intimate terms with the family of Hutton of Marske. Two most amusing letters of his will be found among the correspondence of the Huttons, which has been published by the Surtees Society. His learning was varied and extensive, and he is the author of a curious, and now very rare, treatise on the Urim and Thummim, a copy of which is preserved in Bishop Cosin's library at Durham.

* The head of the great family of Pudsay of Barford and Bolton in Craven, "who died in Yorke, prisoner for his conscience, a trewe confessor of the Catholik faythe. He left this wretched world and went to God the forthe day of September, anno Domini 1576, on whose soule I praye God have m'eye." He, like many others, was thrown into York Castle for noneonformity, and died in prison. His effects were administered to by his son William, May 21, 1577. His wife was Elizabeth daughter of John Lord Serope of Bolton, and he had by her a very large family. She survived her husband for nearly fifty years, and made her will at Barford in 1620. It is a curious fact that we find all the rooms, and the chairs, &c. at Barford, hung and covered with green cloth, the principal colour in the family arms.

* The chantry of St James was founded before 1492 by William Burgh, and is in the north aisle of the church, where its founder lies buried. The word porch ought not to be applied solely to the covered entrance into the church, but frequently comprehends the adjacent aisle. In the obituary of the Burghs their burial place is called the porch or chappel of St. James. It is in the north aisle, and was separated from the rest of the church by a screen. The south aisle in the church of Richmond was called St. John's closet.

* Francis Burgh of Spennithorn, "langwhissinge in bodye," makes his will January 24, 45th of Elizabeth, and leaves to his sister Anne Burgh and his nephew Robert Durham his lease of his farmbold in Garriston; to my sister Anne Burgh 100*l.*; my brother William, his wife, and two daughters, my sister Margaret Durham and my sister Dorothy, my cousin Christopher Crofte of Coteskew Park, "to the pouryste of kynrede and moste honeste of Sir Thomas Plewes dissyssed sometymes parsonn of Spenithorn fourtye shillinges, to be distrybutyd at the dyscretion of ther wysseste fryndes. I gyve to Mr. Henry Scrope of Danby a drynkyng glasse of whyte berrall depaintyd; to Barbara Crofte my goddowther a Scottyshe merke of gold. Witnesses, Roger Crofte, &c." [Prob. 22 March, 1601.] The Burghs of Garriston and West Hauxwell were, no doubt, collaterals of the house at Burgh.

† Ralph son of Edmund Lawson of Newcastle by Margaret daughter and heiress of Ralph Swinnow of Rock, esq., married the only child of the testator six years before the date of the present will. He was knighted by king James in 1603, and made his will on the 4th of September, 1623. He died in the same year, aged seventy-six.

‡ Roger Lawson, Sir Ralph's eldest son, died before his father in 1614, and left by his wife Dorothy, daughter of Sir Henry Constable of Burton Constable, a very large family. The estates came into the family of his third son John Lawson, who after having lost his broad lands and country for king Charles I., was restored to his inheritance and created a baronet by Charles II. His will is dated on the 22nd of October, 1698. Sir John's elder brother Henry Lawson was killed at Melton Mowbray in 1644, fighting gallantly for king Charles. He had been married only a short time before to Catherine, one of the daughters and co-heirs of Sir William Fenwick of Meldon, who afterwards became the wife of Sir Francis Radelyffe, the first Earl of Derwentwater.

CLXXXV. REGINALD HYNDMER, PERSON OF WENSLEY.

In Dei nomine Amen. The xiiijth daye of Marche, in the yere of our Lord God 1574, I Reginald Hyndmer,* person of Wensley, within the Achedeaconry of Richmond, beinge seike in bodye and perfitt in remembrance, doo maike this my last will and testament in maner and forme followinge. Fyrst I gyve and bequythe my soule unto God Almightye my maiker and redeemer (and to the blissed Virgine Marye and to all the Saints in heaven)

* Reginald Hindmers was a younger son of a Durham family which is at present represented by R. H. Allan, esq., of Blackwell Hall, one of the first and most zealous members of the Surtees Society. He began life as vicar of Billingham, in the bishoprick of Durham, which he resigned in 1544 for the lucrative rectory of Wensley, in the North Riding, which was given to him by Lord Scrope. He died at Wensley in 1575, having been rector there for thirty-two years. He probably held other preferment, for on the 20th of December, 1548, there is a general acquittance from John Lord Scrope of Bolton to "Sir Raynold Hyndmer preyst, parson of Hamelden." On the death of his brother Robert Hindmers, rector of Sedgely, in 1558, he became possessor of the manor of Aislaby, which had been purchased by his brother in the preceding year, and which at his death descended to his nephew and heir John Hindmers. The will and inventory of the rector of Sedgely have been already printed by the Surtees Society.

Item I gyve and bequythe to Michaell Pemberton a fetherbedd and all the clothes belonginge to yt.

* The husband of Florence Hindmers, one of the four nieces of the testator.

† Henry son of Lionel Fetherstonhalgh, the third son of Alexander Fetherstonhalgh of Stanhope Hall, esq., married Helen or Alice daughter of ... Hindmers, a niece of the testator. Lionel, his eldest son, settled at Brancepath, and was buried there 16 March, 1625. He died unmarried, and his will is dated on the 11th of March in the same year. Lancelot, his second son, was buried at Brancepath, 19 March, 1634-5. He also lived there and died unmarried. William, his third son, also lived at Brancepath, and was buried there 4 June, 1660. He married and left numerous descendants behind him.

‡ Michael Pemberton was the son of Richard Pemberton of Stanhope by Anne daughter and co-heir (?) of John Hindmers, and was probably a cousin or perhaps a brother-in-law of the testator. In 1595 he purchased the manor of Aislaby from the co-heirs of John Hindmers, and continued there until his death. His will is dated at Aislaby, 6 September, 1624. In it, strange to say, he calls the three sons of Henry Fetherstonhalgh his brothers. The other members of the family of Pemberton, whom the testator mentions in his will, are all to be found in the family pedigree. Surtees, iii. 205.

§ Agnes Hindmers, a niece of the testator, married Christopher Maire, and her descendants rose to considerable importance. Ellen Hindmers, her sister, married Robert Todd.

|| John Hindmers, the nephew of the testator, was educated at Cambridge, where his expenses were paid by his uncle Robert Hindmers, rector of Sedgfield. On the death of his uncle Reginald, in 1575, he succeeded to the family estate of Aislaby, which he held till his death, in 1589, when his four sisters came into possession of his inheritance.

CLXXXVIII. THOMÆ METCALF TESTAMENTUM.

May 16, 1575. I Thomas Metcalf of Bellerbie in the countie of Yorke, gentilman.*—To Mathewe Metcalf† and Anthonie

* The eldest son of Lucas Metcalfe of Bedale by Katherine daughter of Robert Jackson of Gatenby. He married Dorothy daughter and heir of ... Dransfield, and appears to have died childless at an early age. His Inventory is dated on the 6th of June, 1575. The old hall of Bellerby, which is still standing, seems to have contained eight rooms; the parlour, buttery, chamber over the parlour, storehouse next the same chamber, chamber over the hall, chamber over the kitchen, kitchen, and hall. The furniture of the hall is worthy of being recorded. It then contained "one drawinge table with a clothe of dornex, one cownter, one longe forme and one shorter, one chare, one cubberd, one bassinge and an euer, one paier of iron gallowes and fyve crokes, ij paier of tonges, one old fyer shovell, nyne quisslings, one paier of playinge tables, xls. Item, ij saddells with their appurtenances, vjs. viij d."

† Mathew Metcalfe married Lucy daughter of William Parkinson of Burneston and had by her a large family.

Metcalf* my bretheren my estate and terme of yeres which I have yet to come in Coterende in Wenseladale, in the countie of Yorke. Also I geve to the said Mathewe towne of my best kyne which is at Bellerbye. Item I geve to Franncese Metcalf and Lucas Metcalf sonnes of the said Mathewe, either of them, twentie ewes. Item to my ostes Johnson his wiff one cowe. To the poore woman that keepes me nowe in my sickenes a gowne. To John Proune a quye of ij. years of age. Item to my brother Thomas Parkinson a horse worth fyve marks. To his wiffe my sister, the best whye that is about my house at Bellerbye. Of this my last will I ordeyne and make my welbeloved wiffe Dorathe Metcalf, Anthonie Metcalf my brother, and Franccise Foster my executors. The residue of all my goodds to my said executors, revoking all former wills and legacies, except the gift to my mother Katherine Metcalf. Overseers,

* Anthony Metcalfe, the testator's brother, is not recorded in the family pedigree. He probably settled at Stanwick.

‡ Of the family of Forster of Laburne. They were connected by marriage with the house of Dransfield.

§ Margaret Metcalfe afterwards married John son and heir of John Smelt of Ainderby Myers, who made his will 30th of March, 1597-S. Dorothy Metcalfe married John Stapleton of Bedale. Jane Metcalfe, a third sister, married Thomas Parkinson of Burneston. A fourth sister, Mary, who married Bartholomew Slinger of Richmond, and three brothers, Luke, Richard, and Simon Metcalfe, are not alluded to by the testator. Simon Metcalfe makes his will at Bedale in 1606.

|| Katherine Metcalfe, the mother of the testator, makes a very interesting will in 1588.

my brother Nicholas Metcalf,* my cosen Thomas Wraye, and my brother in lawe John Stapleton. Whereof I the said Thomas have putto my hand and seale the daye and yeare abovesaid in the presence of Jeffraye Blayds, John Dowson, wiffe to William Johnson, Rauphe Proune grocer, and Margerie Midleton. CLXXXIX. SMITHSON EDMUNDI NUPER DE ERIHOLME DEFUNCTI TEST.
ET INVENT.

In the naym of Gode so be it. The xx. daie of Januarii, in the yere of owre Lorde God a thowsande fyve hundreth threscore and fyfteyn, I Edmunde Smythson, preist and curat of the parishyng of Eriholm upon Teise,† beyng of perfit mynde and remembrance, praisse and thanks be to Gode, make this present testament conteinyng my last wille in maner and forme folowyng: First I commende my soulle to the mercye of Almyghtie Gode the Father, the Sonne, and the Holye Ghoist, and my bodye to be buried in my parish churche yard at the est end of the qweire, or els wher it shall please Almyghtie Gode to taik me to his greit mercy. Also I geve and bequith to my brother Sir George Smythson‡ preist, my side gowne of broide cloithe, my sarcnet tipet, and fourtye shyllings in money, whiche money he shall receive at my brother Thomas Smythson's§ hands as he conveniently maie spaer it. Also I geve to my brother Thomas Smythson my meit table and my sylver spoyn, and thes two thyngs to remaynge to the haerrs of that howse for ever. Item I geve to George Smythson and Francis Smythson, my brother Thomas sonns, my jaket and a girkyng of blak russette to maikethaym girkyngs of. Item I geve to the poore people there shalbe at my buriall to everie one of thaym one penyworthe of breide. Item I geve to everie cottage of the towne foure pence. Item I

* Nicholas Metcalfe became one of the six clerks in Chancery. He, no doubt, owed his name to his great-uncle Nicholas Metcalfe, D.D., Master of St. John's College, Cambridge.

† The curate of the humble little chapelry of Eryholme-upon-Tees. His will is made by himself, and his goods are of the poorest description, fully proportionate to the value of his benefice. He seems to have been connected with a wealthy branch of the family of Smithson.

‡ Sir George Smithson, who has been more than once mentioned before, seems to have been a curate at Middleton Tyas, or some neighbouring church.

§ Thomas Smythson of South Cowton, yeoman, the brother of the testator, makes his will 26 October, 1584, and directs himself to be buried in the parish church, near his first wife. He leaves to his son George all his lands, paying to his brother Francis 40*l.* He also mentions Emmet his wife and Beatrix his brother's daughter. The will is proved November 25, 1584, and the Inventory mentions Francis Smithson, the testator's brother, as well as Sir George Smithson.

geve to my noistes (mine hostess) my litle new chaer and the powder dowbler that she did change. The rest of all my thyngs that I have, that is to saie, my household stuffe, my chamber and thyngs within it, and all my rament, whithe all other thyngs that is myne, my legaces and funerall expences deducted, I geve onto Rycherd Smythson my brother, whome I maike my sooll and full executor. Item I ordayn and constitute Sir George Smythson, preist, and Thomas Smythson, my two bredren, supervysors of this my last will, requiryng thaim for the love of Gode to se this my last will perfored and doyne accordyng to the affecte of the sayme, as my full trust is in thaim that they wille dooc. Thes witnesses, William Wormleye, Jhon Burnet,* Thomas Wrihson, and Roland Spence.—Edmunde Smythson preist.

An INVENTORIE† of all the goodes and cattells of Sir Edmond Smissons, laite curate of Eriholm, praised by Thomas Wrightson, William Wormley, John Burnett, and William Nesam, the xiiij. day of October, in y^e yere of our Lord God 1575.

Inprimis a cubborde, xx s. A calle, v s. A table, iij s. iiij d. a dosen pece of powder, viij s. Two candelstickes, xvj d. Two saltes, xij d. A cawdron, x s. Two chese bordes, viij d. Dame Wormley, xx d. Edmond Pullen, xxvj s. vj d. Rowland Spence for tithes, xv s. Thomas Wynspere, xvij s. xd.

* The Burnets were a family of very great respectability. They lived at the Hill House in the parish of Eryholme, and afterwards migrated to Hurworth on the opposite side of the Tees. John Burnet was the eldest son of Thomas Burnet, who died in 1557. The will of his mother Elizabeth occurs in 1586.

† A very interesting Inventory and will of a successor of Smythson in the curacy of Eryholme, John Idson, occurs in 1628, and it would be curious to compare them with the present. They are written manu propria at great length in a small book, and the testator has appended to it a list of the poor that he wishes to relieve, and a list of the guests whom he would have asked to his funeral dinner. Idson, who seems to have been a Scotchman as well as a staunch Puritan, desires to be buried in his own church, "near that good man of God Mr. Francis Revington, his prediessor at Eriholme. Next it is my will and mynd that Mr. Rathmell of Barton, my countrie-man, if he be lyving; or Mr. Simon Birkbeck of Foreet, my patron; or Mr. Henry Barker, or some other zealous preacher, preach at my funerall and to have 10s. Item, it is my will that those who make my grave have xij d. for there paynes, and I would have it made in a varye comely fashion. 5l. for my funeral dinner, and Mr. Burnett of Barton and his wife to be invited to come to the same. I would have good content given in that respect to all my well-mynded neighbors, and I would have the yonge and aged poore of the towne to have the broken meat what remaines distributed amongst them and as need requireth," &c.

John Wynspere, iij s. x d. Raf Johnson for tithes, iij s. x d. Mynnye Brere for tithes, x s. ix d. Henrye Brawnson for tithes, iij s. vj d. Dame Brere and Frances Rawe, for my tithes at my entring, ij s. viij d. James Neisam for tithes, iij s. William Hodgson for tithes, iiij s. iij d. John Wrightson, xij d. Robart Browne of Neisam, x s. * The wish expressed by testators to be buried near a particular place is of extremely common occurrence. Many chose the chureyard cross, some had a blew stone or a through stone under which they desired to be interred, whilst others wished their bones to rest under the kindly shelter of the chureyard tree. In the cemetery of the cathedral of Durham stood an aged thorn, which overshadowed the graves of more than one family. In 1641 James Raine directs himself to be laid "in the parish chureyard of Romald echure, at the sunne side of the wheare doore, beside the broken marble."

† Holme in the indorsement of his will is said to have been "late chaplen to Sir Thomas Stanley and Sir William Stanley, lords of Hornbie."

* A most interesting and affecting will. The testator was a second son, and appears to have died at an early age by an untimely death. From his Inventory he must have been “a gallant, gay, young gentleman,” passionately fond, no doubt, of revelry and horseracing, for, with the exception of his dress, his horses are the sum and substance of his worldly wealth. These, indeed, he seems to have turned to a good account, for if the large sums of money which are enumerated in his schedule of debts were the product of his racing career, his winnings must have been very large. May we venture to fill up the picture and imagine the young man to have been thrown from his horse and brought home to die, while two old servants are hastily summoned in to catch the last few and faltering words of their expiring master.

† A fragment of his will is still remaining, dated 17 November, 1588.

My dowghter Clare to Margaret my wyffe — My brother John Swale —

CXCVIII. RICARDE SWAYLE.

In the name of God, Amen. The firste daye of December, in the yeare of our Lord God a thousand five hundreth seaventie and seaven, I Richard Swaile of Easebye, in the countye of Yorke, gentilman,‡ of an hole mynd and perfect remembrance,

* The earlier part of the pedigree of the family of Swale is much involved. Antony Swale of the parish of Marton, gentleman, who may perhaps have been the father of the testator, by his will, dated 12 September, 1562, directs himself to be buried in the churchyard of Marton. He mentions his wife Alison, and Adam, Gilbert, and John Swale his sons. His will is proved 8 Jan. 1568-9.

† Gilbert Swale of Green Hammerton, gentleman, makes his will 16 November, 1605. He mentions the children of his son-in-law Peter Smithson (by Katherine, his daughter), Olave Swale his (eldest) son Francis' daughter, and the rest of his children, his son Richard Swale, his mother. Frances and Katherine Swale are witnesses to the will, which is proved April 11, 1606. Edith Swale, his widow, died at Green Hammerton in 1610.

‡ The present will is one of peculiar interest and importance, inasmuch as it puts an end to the conjectures and solves the doubts of many an antiquary. In the year 1790, a piece of wooden frame-work, which had been hanging from time immemorial in the chancel of the church of Easby, fell from its place, and an inserted slide was discovered, consisting of an inscription to a person of the name of Richard Swale. This inscription was written on paper, and comprised four different copies of verses in the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and English tongues. The date was unfortunately imperfect. As the inscription evinces considerable learning, and at that early period Richmondshire could not be very fertile in scholarship, Dr. Whitaker ascribes it to the famous Miles Coverdale. Another antiquary has fallen into the opposite extreme, and has considered it to be the production of John Jackson, who was master of Richmond School about forty years after the date of the present will. We may safely take a middle course. In the first place, the inscription itself, which the editor, by the kindness of the vicar of Easby, was permitted to inspect, is decidedly, so far as the ordayne and mayke this my last will and testament in maner and forme folowinge. First I committ my soule to Almightye God, trusting by the meritts and passion of his sonne Jesus Christ my onely Saviour to be partaker and an inheritor of the heavenlye kyngdome. And I will my bodie to be buryed in the parochie church of Easebye. Item I bequethe and geve to the parishe church of Easebye ten shillings. Also I geve to the parishe churche of Bolton upon Swayle vj s. viij d. Item I geve to every house within the parishe of Easebye four pence, which I will to be distributed amonge them before my departure out of this liff. Item I geve to the paroch of Richmond twentie shillings, which I will also to be geven and distributed amongst the poore folks there in my life tyme. Item I geve for mending of highe wayes about Uccarby tenn shillings. Item I geve to my wife Dorothe Swayle* the occupacon of all my leases of Uccarby during her naturall lyfe. And also the lease of the tyeth there, and if she happen to departe this life before the said leases be expyred, I will and geve them to John Rudd the yonger my nephue. Also I geve my lease at Wathcote during the tearme of my years, to have the occupacon of the same to my wife and my brother John Rudd. Also I geve to my wife Dorothe and my brother John Rudd my lease of the house y^t I dwell in at Easeby for y^e tearme of nene years, and the rest of y^e years y^t be unexpyred I will and geve hollie unto y^e eldest sonne of Robert Collingsonn who then shalbe lyving. Also I geve to my wife and to my brother John Rudd the lease of Lingie Close lyng within the lordshipp handwriting and paper go, of the same period as the present will. Again, the date existing on the inscription (of which a fac-simile has been given by Dr. Whitaker) does not militate against the year of the present will,—the insertion of the numerals D L, for which there is ample space, will at once remove all difficulty. May we not then venture a third conjecture, and suppose the inscription to be the work of John Clarkson, master of Richmond School, who is mentioned in the present will, and about whom further particulars shall be shortly given? That he was qualified to compose it no one can doubt. The testator, who was probably connected with the great family of Swale, no doubt came to Easby as a tenant under the lordly house of Scrope, who were the hereditary patrons of the Abbey of St. Agatha and the then lessees of its site and demesne lands. He died, according to his epitaph, on the 24th of April, M(DL)XXVIII., “after that he had lyved fourescore and sixe yeares one moneth and sixtene daies.” The inscription has been deposited for security in the Museum at York.

* Dorothy Swale, after the death of her husband, retired to Cowton Grange, and makes her will there 6 March, 1587-8. She leaves to her niece Dorothy Robinson “one faire kawledron, one fysshe panne, one selver salt;” to her cousin Else Robinson, 20*l.*; to her cousin Richard Robinson and Dorothy his wife, her lease of Uckerbye tythe, both of corne and hay;” to Dorothy Robinson, “ijj. quishings of arrise worke, j. quishing of nedle-work, j. selver spone, &c. ;” to her cousin Else, “j. plaine oke chiste, with a great laped band that it lokes with, ij. selver spones, &c. ;” to Dorothy, Walter Robinson’s daughter, one “sipres coffer.” [Prob. 21 May, 1588.] Her maiden name was Rudd, and the wills of more than one of her kinsmen have been previously given.

of Skythbie. Item I geve to my wife Dorothee an ambling whit mare. Item I geve to myne executors my lease of Somerlodge in Swadaile for y^e space of three yeares, and after that tyme ended, I will and geve yt to Christofer Swaile of Grinton and to his children. Item I geve to my brother John Rudd a yong whit gelding that was in the house. Item I geve to Anthonie Rudd my nephue an horse worthe twentie nobles, or twentie nobles in monye. Also I geve to his eldest sonne a cove and a calf. Item I geve to John Clerkson, scole m^r of Richmond,* twentie shillings. Item I geve to my servants everye

* John Clarkson, master of Richmond School, is probably the writer of the present will and the composer of the epitaph upon the testator. He had been a member of Trinity College, Cambridge, and was consequently well qualified for such a work. Before his death he appears to have resigned his mastership, and to have retired to Newstead to spend the remainder of his days in peace in the family of Aseough. Here he probably employed himself in educating the children of his host, and, many years after his death, there was a room in the house of Low Newstead which still bore the one of them a years wages, that ys, to Robert Apedaile xx s., to Edward Rudd xx s., to John Addeson xx s., to Cuthbert Harrison thirten shillings four pence. And also to my maid Margret Harrison thirtene shillings four pence, Margret Robinson thirtene shillings four pence, and to Margret Gelderd xiiij s. iiij d. Also I geve to Bridgit Phillipps towards her mariage twentic nobles. Item I geve to Symond Cowper vs. All the residue of my goods and chattles unbequethed I leave and geve to mync executor, my funerall expenses and other extraordinarie charges acquitted and discharged, whom I constitute and appoynte to be my wife Dorothe Swaile and my brother John Rudd, of this my last will and testament. And for my supervisours I only put in trust, and requeste Mr. George Scrope esquier of Langley, to tayk yt upon him, not doupting but he will see all my former gyftes and legaces paid and discharged in such sort and order as I have geven and bequethed them, eaven as my great trust is in him. Hunc cyathum dono gratuitòque dedit.

Item for all such bookes as are in my chamber at Richmond I leave them to Mr. Thomas Smelt, because, in lyke manner, I had them left by his father; willinge him also to call of Mr. Ewbanck the preacher for divers books which I lent him as in Mr. Smelt's name: one of the said, I remember is Eckhin's works upon y^e Evangelists; but cheffie a booke of his father's called of St. Gregorie works, a great book y^t coste his father xvj s. My brother Bartholomew and Robert Warde of Darnton executors, trusting that, by his diligence and discrecon, my brother's simplicite and weaknes maie be the better directed and governed." [Prob. 12 Dec. 1599.]

* The following inventory of a Richmond tradesman is of great interest and value. It is curious to observe how one or two shops appear to have monopolised the whole of the custom in towns of even a larger size than Richmond in these times. Richmond was never at any time famous for trading spirit, and gloves were almost the only article manufactured there to any extent during the sixteenth century.

* Sampson Wyvill of Walworth, in the county of Durham, makes his will on the 12th of April, 1568. He mentions his eldest son Christopher, his son Thomas his daughter Margaret, and Faith his wife. He appears to have had a lease of the rectory of "Lanfurth," in Notts, and a moiety of the rectory of "Garsdayle, Sadbar, and Dente," in Yorkshire. Chr. Wyvill of Barton, and Nicholas Girlington of Hackforth, esqrs., Marmaduke Wyvill and Nicholas Girlington the younger, gentlemen, are his supervisors, and his eldest son Chr. is committed during his minority to the charge of his uncle the testator. His Inventory is dated on the 16th of September, 1568. He owes his brother Francis for malt, 12*d*. He married Faith daughter of Nicholas Girlington of Hackforth, esq., by whom he left three children. She re-married George Pudsay son of Henry Pudsay of Barford, esq. He resided for some time at Walworth, where eight children were born to him, and afterwards settled at Stapleton, in the parish of Croft, where he died in 1590-1. His wife survived him, and was probably buried at Croft, November 20, 1617. Thomas Pudsay, her third son, succeeded to the family estate at Stapleton.

CCV. ALAN BELLINGHAM OF LEVENS AND HELSINGTON, ESQUIRE.*

. To Dorothee my wife, during her wedowhead, which I thinck veryly will be duringe her liff bye hir promesses,

* Alan Bellingham of Helsington and Levens, esq., was son of Thomas Bellingham of Helsington, esq., and grandson of the celebrated deputy-warden of the Marches Alan Bellingham. He was a bencher of the Inner Temple, and one of the queen's council at York for the northern parts. In the 13th Eliz. he was knight of the shire for Westmerland. The present extracts are taken from a copy of his will, which, like a true lawyer, he appears to have composed himself. It is unfortunately in the most mutilated condition, the upper part of it being entirely destroyed. His Inventory is most interesting, as it shows that the testator had acquired a taste for coins. His flocks and herds are immense, but his household furniture is comparatively plain and insignificant, and is therefore omitted. He married to his first wife Catherine daughter of Anthony Duckett of Grayrigg, esq. She died childless, and the testator re-married my mancion house at Faucett Forest, wherin I now dwell, and my lands there, and in Bainsdell and Bainsdall head, to bring upp our childarn in the feare and love of God — and then to remain to my sonne and heire and his heires, and in defalte of suche issue to remayne as my said manars of Helssington is assigned — my lands called the Comon which I had of my lady Wharton, to goo as my lands on the north side of Borrowedell to my said sonne Thomas. And I will that aftar my wifes wedowhead, the courte of the said forest shall be kept yeareli at my said manor howse thare in the names of bothe my said sonnes Thomas and Henri. — To every one of my doughtars cccc li., for hir porcion of my goods, to be payd when they be xxj. or marry. — I will that reward, costs, and expences shall be maide with spede for the obteyninge of the wardshipp of myne heire (if he forton to be with aige at my deathe) at the discrecon of my executors — and I will they shall gyve to his mastershipp cc. anngells and paye the quenes ma^{tie} for the wardshipp as is used to be rated in that courte of wards. — I make my welbeloved wiff Dorothie Bellengham, my sonn Thomas Bellengham, James Bellengham, Henri Bellengham, Allen Bellingham, and what sonne as God shall send me moo my executors. — My supervisors to meite every yeare at my howse at Helssington or Faucett Forest, upon Wedinsdai in Easter weike, to receyve the trew accompte as well of them selfis as of other — and to have some clarke or auditor to make faire boukes of acompte yearli, and duplicats of the same bouks, one parte to remayne with the clarke or auditor, and the other parte to be putt in a chest their with suche money as they do not presentlye bestowe accordinge to my will — under twoo locks and kyes, wherof my cossinge George Salkeld to kepe the one kye, and my brother Richard Sandfurthe the other kye. — Supervisors the right worshippingfull and myne especiall freind Sir Thomas Gargrave knight, vice president of the quenes ma^{tie} honorable counsell in the northe partes, my cossinge George Salkelte, my nephew Thomas Bellengham, my brother in lawe Richard Sandfurth, and Sir Utar Gilpin, prest, whome I moost tendarli beseche for the love of God to be good to my wiff and childarn, and to helpe them to the best that they can, and cheslye

Dorothy daughter of Thomas Sandford of Askham, esq., by whom he had seven sons and eight daughters. Five sons and seven daughters survived him. He died on the 7th of May, 1577, aged 61, and was buried in the stately chapel of his family in the church of Kendal. His will was accidentally omitted in its proper place.

Upper Levens Hall, an old grey mansion on the banks of the Kent, was probably built or enlarged by the testator. When Machel saw it in 1692 the windows of the hall were filled with the quarterings of him and his connections. Further particulars of the family of Bellingham will be found in Burn and Nicolson's Westmoreland and Cumberland, i. 204. This will, however, make some additions to the family pedigree.

to obteyne the wardshipp of myne heire. And I will that Mr. Gargrave shall have my best geldinge and sex angells, and that everi of my other supervisors shall have sex angells, and I trust that Mr. Gargrave will upon request write or send for the obteyning of the prefarment of wardshipp of myne heire to my wif, and to my executors, for the use and profett of my said heire onely. To my brother in law Henri Sandfurth, and to my sister Agnes his wif, and to my godsonne Allan Sandfurth, and to nyce Mari Warriner, and An Sandfurthe, and Elizabeth Strykland, each xx s. To my brother Richard Duckett, and my sistar his wife, x s. To Francis Duckett, xx s. To Alln Duckett an angell, and to my brother Thomas Sandfurth, my brother Medleton, my brother Portar, to every of them an angell. — To my nice Briggs and hir husband, each an angell. To every servynge man one whole yere waiges, and to every of them that use to have levaras a blacke coite clothe, and to Sir John Beck and Sir Joⁿ Dyckson, to either of them, xl s. And to my hynds and other servants, their holff yeare wages, and to my nurses one hole yere wage. — Mye evidences to be safflie kepte under two locks and kyes in my studye at Helssington, and at the full aige of my sonnes to be devided accordinge to their rights. In witness that this is my laste will and testament I have to every leave and side thar of subscribed my name with my owen hand, and writen all the same with my owen hands, w^{ch} conteynes or ar conteyned in fyve leafes of this bouke.

An INVENTORI of all the goods, cattells, and detts which was the Right Worshippfull Allan Bellengham esquier, deceassed, vewed and prised upon the bouke othes of Edward Collinson, Petar Cowper, John Warriner, and Richard Bownes, the xix. of June, anno 1579.

* A Kendal vintner. This is one of the few instances in which we have any mention of wine. We find it very rarely alluded to in the inventories of the greatest and richest families, and even the professional dealers appear to have kept a very small stock of it on hand. In 1628 Wm. Darneton of Knaresbrough, vintner, has in his seller "one but of sack valued at 20*l.*; 3 hogsheads of 'wyne ordinary,' 20*l.*; one hogshead of vinegar, 1*l.* 8*s.*; one but and 2 hogsheads of bear, 7*l.*; one great pot, 1*l.*; 3 empty hogsheads, certain bottles, cans, and empty runlets, one great tub, 2 lesser tubs with gantrees, and other 'huslements,' 1*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*; 24 wyne potts, 2*l.* 3*s.*; one flagon and two pewter cans, 12*s.* He has also four silver bear bowls, valued at 12*l.*; three long wine bowls at 6*l.*, and five low wine bowls valued at 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*"

In 1630 Reginald Atkinson of Dalton, in the parish of Ravenswath, has one tun of white and claret wine, and some more, valued at 10*l.* Rosa solis and a little aqua vitæ at 22*s.* Eight glasses and glass bottles, 3*s.*; a still, 6*s.* 8*d.*; four black pots and a stone jug, 8*s.*

CCVII. RAYNE MICHAELIS TESTAMENT.

In the name of God, Amen. The eyghte day of Auguste, anno 1579. Michaell Rayne* of Mickleton baylif, being in good and perfitt memorie, did send for the curat of Romald church, who then at that instant came, and findinge him in good case, after some conference had with him, did ask of him whether he were disposed to make his will, who said, yea, and said yff it

* The family of Raine has always formed a strong clan in Teesdale, and especially in the parish of Romalldkirk. At one time it had the almost entire possession of the straggling village of Mickleton. The present will does not seem to have been proved, and the registrar of the court, Thos. Tailor, says, in a note appended to it, "Hoc nihili est, eo quod alias formatur prout patet in schedula papiri presentibus inclusi."

pleased God to call him to his mercye his bodye should be buried under y^e marble in the churche yarde where his father lay, and so the curate perceyvinge y^t it payned him sore to speake did demannde of him how he would dispose his goods, and who should have them, and who should be his executor . . . answered, Ellen his wife, as good reason was, and none but she, then and there beinge presente George Oxnarde, Robarte Gibson, Robarte Rayne, and Nicholas Close, with others.

CCVIII. DOMINÆ MARLE TUNSTALL TESTAMENTUM.

In the name of God, Amen. 31 December, 21st Eliz. I Dame Marie Tunstall,* widowe of Sir Marmaducke Tunstall, knighte, late deceased, beinge at this presente sycke and feble in bodie. — First I do geve my sowle into th'ands of Allmightie God, the Father, the Son, and the Holie Ghoste, and my bodie to be buried in the parochie churche of Barnyngham, at the discrecion of my executor and supervisors, and as the lawes of this realme will permitt. Item I do geve and bequeathe to the wardens of the said churche the some of ten pounds to be bestowed thereupon at sight and vewe of my said executor and churche wardens for the tyme being. Item I do geve unto Rauphe Cotts, procter of the said churche, for tyethes forgotten, fortie shillings. Item I do geve and bequeathe to John Dawneye, esquire, my sonn in lawe, twentie pounds. To Thomas Dawneye gentleman, his eldest sonn, ten pounds and one litle cupp of silver and gilt pounsyd. To Marmaducke Dawneye, his second sonn, ten pounds. To William

* Mary daughter and co-heir of Sir Robert Scargill of Scargill and Thorpe Stapleton, near Leeds, and widow of Sir Marmaduke Tunstall, who had become, in right of his wife, the owner of Scargill. Sir Marmaduke was the eldest son and heir of the celebrated Sir Brian Tunstall of Thurland Castle in Lancashire, who fell on the field of Floddon, and was consequently the nephew of the illustrious Cuthbert Tunstall, bishop of Durham. After his marriage he appears to have resided principally in Yorkshire, and he found a powerful patron in his uncle. He was indebted to him for several leases in the higher part of the county of Durham, and he also obtained from the same prelate a lease of the manor-house and demesne lands of Howden. He was also made Constable of Durham Castle. At the dissolution of the religious houses he followed the political bias of his uncle, and took so vigorous a part in their destruction, that on the breaking out of Aske's rebellion he was marked out for especial vengeance. In a contemporaneous letter, preserved in the State Paper Office, he is spoken of as having, "in the last commotion, servyd the king truly, to his jeperdye and almost losse of his howse, which the comons raparyd thedyr wold have byrnt, unless somme mor sobre then the residew had refreynded them." He is said to have died about the year 1566, in which year his will is dated. The testatrix left by Sir Marmaduke one son and three daughters, of whom Anne married John Daune of Sessay, esq., Isabel married William Redeman, esq., and . . . married George Middleton, esq. The present will is extremely valuable, as it makes considerable additions to the pedigrees of almost all the families, which are mentioned in it.

Dawneye, his third sonn, ten pounds. To Darcie Dawneye, his fourthe son, ten pounds. Item I do geve unto my daughter An Tunstall* one tanckard of silver duple gilt, and one gold ringe with a rubie. Item I do give unto Francise Tunstall sonn to my son Francise Tunstall one little chyne of gold and my best standinge cupp. To William Tunstall second sonn to my said sonn Francise one silver goblet gilt without a cover. Item I do geve and bequeathe unto the said William Tunstall all my lands, tenements, and hereditaments, sett, lyinge, and beinge in Barnyng-hame, in the countie of Yorke, which I late had in exchainge for other lands of my said sonn Francise Tunstall, to have and to holde all the said lands, tenements, and hereditaments as or aforesaid unto the said William and to his heires and assignes for ever, to be holdenn of the cheife lorde of the fee thereof by service due and accustomed. Item I do geve unto Marie Tunstall, eldest daughter of my said son Francise, one hundrithe markes. To Margarete Tunstall, his second daughter, one hundrethe markes. To Jane Tunstall, his third daughter, one hundrethe markes. To Alice Tunstall, his fourthe daughter, fyftie pounds; and to Elizabeth Tunstall, his fyft daughter, fyftie pounds. Item I do geve unto Ellen Midleton, daughter of George Midleton esquier, for and towards her mariage, fourtie pounds. Item I do geve unto Ann Midleton, his second daughter, one hundrethe marks in preferment of hir mariage. Item I do geve to my daughter Isabell Readman the some of fortie pounds. To Ellen Readman, her daughter, fortie pounds. Item I do geve to William, Marmadueke, Christofor, Francise, Gabriell, Jason, An, and Marie Readman, children of William Readman esquier, my sonn in lawe, gotten of the bodie of my said daughter Isabell, one hundrethe and three score pounds, to be equallie devided amongst them. Item I do geve unto George Sheffield fyve marks. To Anthonie Sheffield fyve marks. To Francise Hirdson twentie marks. To James Newton foure pounds. To John Heines one mare and one hefferr. To John Wailes tenn pounds. To Bartholomewe Atkinson fyve marks. To William Thomson, my worke servante, fourtie shillings. To Richard Wyelie, my servante, ten hogge shepe. To Dorothe Thomson syx pounds xij s. iiij d. To Elizabeth Ap-

* There are some disputed points in the pedigree of Tunstall, and this is one of them. In Dr. Whitaker's pedigree, after Sir Marmaduke, there are three successive generations, with a Francis Tunstall at the head of the house. Others consider that there were only two of that name, and strike out a whole generation, making Francis, the son of the testatrix, marry for his first wife the lady whom some aseribe to his son. This lady was Anne daughter of Richard Bold of Bold, esq. The present will perhaps favours the latter opinion, as Ann Tunstall, the natural daughter of the testatrix, is said to have been married to Sir John Daune. She may perhaps have had two daughters of the same name; or, as is more probable, there is some mistake in the names which occur in the pedigree.

plebie fyve marks. To Tarren syx shillings eight pence. To Charitie her doughter one heffer. To William Shawe one heffer. To Rowland, my milner, xxvj s. viij d. To Braken one heffer. To Christofer Outhwayte xiijs. four pence. To Michaell Hutchen-son one heffer. To Leonard Thomson one fillie. To William Thomson one fillie. To William Smithes xx s. To Richard Smithies twentie shillings. To Jane Smithies xxvj s. viij d. To Anthonie Ridall one mare. To Richard Heyton one hefferr. To William Garthewayte one heffer and fouer yowes. To Robert Jameson towre yowes.  P. 159, note on Sir Christopher Wray. Some alteration is here requisite. In the first place, the character of Vincent is perhaps too severely assailed. Although Vincent was an acute herald, his very ingenuity frequently led him into error. Again, the family of Jackson did bear coat-armour. On the tomb of Frances Lady Wray (daughter of Sir William and sister and co-heir to Sir Robert Drury, of Hawstead, co. Suffolk), in Ashby Church, co. Lincoln, we find Wray quartering Jackson (Argent, on a chevron, between three bird's heads erased sable, three cinquefoils of the field). This discovery, however, invalidates Lord Campbell's argument more than it does mine, as his lordship brings forward the absence of the arms as a proof of Sir Christopher Wray's illegitimacy.

THE SURTEES SOCIETY.

REPORT FOR THE YEAR MDCCCLIII.

The Surtees Society celebrates to-day its 18th Anniversary, having from the period of its foundation, in the year 1834, steadily and successfully pursued the important objects for which it was originally established, the doing honour to the memory of the late Robert Surtees, Esq., the historian of the County Palatine of Durham, by publishing, in accordance with his plans, such inedited manuscripts as tend to throw light upon the intellectual, the moral, the religious, and the social condition of the northern districts of England and of that part of Scotland included between the Tweed and the Frith of Forth. From the period of its establishment it has sent forth from the press not fewer than twenty-six volumes (an enumeration of which is appended), containing the most authentic and valuable materials under each of the above departments; and the time has already arrived when its publications are beginning to fulfil the important purposes which they were intended to serve, its various volumes being perpetually referred to as authorities of the most unquestionable character by those who have been engaged in treating of the civil or ecclesiastical history of the kingdom at large. To the philologist, the architect, the ritualist, and the statistician, they have also rendered the most important assistance, and the inquirer into the manners and customs and modes of living of our ancestors, under whatever department, has gained from them information which could not elsewhere have been obtained. Not only has our Society effected all this by its own exertions but it has led to the establishment of numerous other publishing societies in the various departments of our history and literature, which have in many instances adopted its principal rules and regulations, and have benefitted by its example. The Surtees Society was, it is believed, the very first publishing Society established in this kingdom, and, it must be repeated, it has been the happy means of exciting others to combine in undertaking the publication of matter of the greatest importance, the risk of which no single individual would have ventured to incur.

Since the happy connection of the Surtees Society with the University of Durham, now four years ago, circumstances have enabled it to pursue its course in a more regular way. From that time there has been no interruption in its yearly course of publication, and arrangements have been made to secure for the future a due punctuality in this most important respect, which is so satisfactory to its members and so essential to its existence. One of the books for the present year, a Volume of Wills from the Registry at Richmond (not due, be it remembered, till December next), is now ready for our members, and the other, the Pontifical of Egbert, Archbishop of York, is advancing in the press and will be delivered, it is expected, in the October term, this also anticipating its due time. For the year 1854 the Yearly Account Rolls of the Benedictine Monasteries or Cells of Jarrow and Monkwearmouth will constitute one publication, the Dean and Chapter of Durham, in whose custody those documents are preserved, having obligingly permitted transcripts to be made for the purpose. These rolls will constitute a volume of considerable interest, and in full accordance with the objects of the Society. The name of Jarrow is fraught with historical and literary associations, and is most closely connected with the very first history of the English Church. Here lived the Venerable Bede, here, among his numerous other laborious works, he wrote his Historia Gentis Anglorum, and here he died.

“The saint, the scholar, from a circle free’d
 Of toil stupendous, in a hallow’d seat
 Of learning where thou heard’st the billows beat
 On a wild coast—rough monitors to feed
 Perpetual industry. Sublime recluse !
 The recreant soul that dares to shun the debt
 Impos’d on human kind must first forget
 Thy diligence, thy unrelaxing use
 Of a long life, and in the hour of death
 The last dear service of thy passing breath.”

The name and fame of this venerable man induced the Norman Monks of Durham to establish at Jarrow and Monkwearmouth (sister churches in the time of Bede) colonies from their house, and of these two fraternities the Surtees Society will in 1854 publish the proceedings, as far as they are respectively developed in the yearly accounts of their receipts and expenses. Such periodical Inventories as are preserved of the goods and chattels of the two cells, with their books, vestments, plate, &c., will be inserted in their chronological order, and thus there will be placed before the members of the Society and the public at large, a fit accompaniment to the similar volumes of the Priors of Finchale and Cold-ingham, books which have been more used than any other of the Society's publications by the church historian, the ritualist, and the architect.

The second volume for the year 1854 will consist of one or more of the four Gospels from the Northumbrian interlinear Gloss to the Gospels contained in the MS. Nero D. IV. in the Brit. Mus., commonly known as the Lindisfarne Gospels or Durham Book, to be collated with a coeval translation in the Bodl. Libr. called the Rushworth MS. This famous Book is believed to be the identical volume of the Gospels which fell into the sea upon the flight of the Monks of Lindisfarne into Ireland for fear of the Danes, and was afterwards found washed up upon the coast. Its subsequent history is identical with that of the Church of Durham until the dissolution, but happening then to be at Holy Island it fell into the hands of the Crown by the first act of spoliation (27 H. 8), and coming afterwards into the possession of Sir Robert Cotton, is now with the rest of his collection in its present place of custody.

Of other matter to engage the attention of the Society in years to come there is abundance. So numerous indeed and so important are the subjects to which the attention of the Council has been drawn that selection becomes no easy task. A few of those subjects are subjoined, together with a financial statement of the present condition of the Society and its receipts and expenses since the last report.

THE SURTEES SOCIETY,

Established in the year 1834,

In honour of the late Robert Surtees, of Mainsforth, Esquire, the Author of the History of the County Palatine of Durham, and in accordance with his pursuits and plans; having for its object the publication of inedited Manuscripts, illustrative of the intellectual, the moral, the religious, and the social condition of those parts of England and Scotland, included on the East between the Humber and the Frith of Forth, and on the West between the Mersey and the Clyde, a region which constituted the Ancient Kingdom of Northumberland.

NEW RULES AGREED UPON IN 1849.

At a General Meeting of the Surtees Society, held in the room of the Warden of the University of Durham, on Thursday, May 31, 1849, the Rev. TEMPLE CHEVALLIER, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Society, in the chair,

The Report of the Committee appointed at a General Meeting, held on the 7th of February last, to revise the Rules of the Society was taken into consideration, and the following Rules were adopted for the future government of the Society :—

I. The Society shall consist of an unlimited number of members.

II. There shall be a Patron of the Society, and the Right Reverend Edward Maltby, D.D., F.R.S., Lord Bishop of Durham, shall be the first Patron.

III. The Warden of the University of Durham for the time being should be the President of the Society.

IV. There shall be twenty-four Vice-Presidents, of whom four shall be such of the Professors, Tutors, or Fellows of the University of Durham as shall be members of the Society. There shall also be a Secretary and two Treasurers.

V. The Patron, the President, the Vice-Presidents, the Secretary, and the Treasurers, shall form the Council, any five of whom, including the Secretary and a Treasurer, shall be a quorum competent to transact the business of the Society.

VI. The twenty-four Vice-Presidents, the Secretary, and the Treasurers, shall be elected at a general meeting, to continue in office for three years, and be capable of re-election.

VII. Any vacancy in the offices of Secretary or Treasurers shall be provisionally filled up by the Council, subject to the approbation of the next general meeting.

VIII. Three meetings of the Council shall be held in every year, one in each academical term of the University of Durham, at such place, and on such a day, as shall be fixed upon by the President, to be communicated by the Secretary to the members of the Council.

IX. The meeting in the Easter Term of each year shall be the anniversary, to which all the members of the Society shall be convened by the Secretary.

X. The President shall have the power of convening extraordinary meetings of the Council.

XI. Members may be elected by ballot at any one of the terminal meetings, upon being proposed in writing by three existing members. One black ball in ten shall exclude.

XII. Each member shall pay in advance to the Treasurer the annual sum of one guinea. If any member's subscription shall be in arrear for two years, and he shall neglect to pay his subscription after having been reminded by the Treasurer, he shall be regarded as having ceased to be a member of the Society.

XIII. The money raised by the Society shall be expended in publishing such compositions, in their original language, or in a translated form, as come within the scope of this Society, without limitation of time with reference to the period of their respective authors. All editorial and other expenses to be defrayed by the Society.

XIV. One volume, at least, in a closely printed octavo form, shall be supplied to each member of the Society every year, free of expense.

XV. If the funds of the Society in any year will permit, the Council shall be at liberty to print and furnish to the members, free of expense, any other volume or volumes of the same character, in the same or a different form.

XVI. The number of copies of each publication, and the selection of a printer and publisher, shall be left to the Council, who shall also fix the price at which the copies not furnished to members shall be sold to the public.

XVII. The armorial bearings of Mr. Surtees and some other characteristic decoration connecting the Society with his name, together with the armorial bearings of the University of Durham, shall be used in each publication.

XVIII. A list of the officers and members, together with an account of the receipts and expenses of the Society, shall be made up every year to the time of the annual meeting, and shall be submitted to the Society to be printed and published with the next succeeding volume.

XIX. No alteration shall be made in these rules except at an annual meeting. Notice of any such alteration shall be given, at least as early as the terminal meeting of the Council immediately preceding, to be communicated to each member of the Society.

(Signed) TEMPLE CHEVALLIER.

We, the Auditors appointed to audit the Accounts of the Surtees Society, report to the Society, that the Treasurers have exhibited to us their Accounts, from the 1st of January, 1850, to the 31st day of December, 1852, and that we have examined the said Accounts, and find the same to be correct; and we further report, that the above is an accurate Abstract of the Receipts and Expenditure of the Society during the period to which we have referred. As witness our hands this twenty-first day of April, 1853.

CHARLES WHITLEY,
JOHN CUNDILL.
